Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time, by Warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British or inland postage payable by law on the transmission by the post of foreign or colonial letters, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof.

And whereas further powers are given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury by an Act, passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the Post Office."

And whereas it is expedient to alter the rates of postage on the letters hereinafter mentioned.

Now we, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the powers vested in us in and by the said before-mentioned Acts, or either of them, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, do, by this Warrant (under the hands of two of us, the said Commissioners, by the authority of the statute in that case made and provided) order and direct that on every letter not exceeding one quarter of an ounce in weight, posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to any port or place in Turkey or the Black Sea, or posted at any port or place in Turkey or the Black Sea, addressed to the United Kingdom, and transmitted by the post between any place in the United Kingdom and any port in Turkey or the Black Sea in closed mails, viâ France (the sea conveyance in the Mediterranean being by French packet-boats) there shall be charged, taken, and paid in lieu of any rates of postage now payable by law on such respective letters an uniform British rate of postage of two pence.

And we do further order and direct, that the several terms and expressions used in this Warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said Act passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty.

War-Department, January, 8, 1855.

HIS Grace the Duke of Newcastle has this day received a Despatch, of which the following is a copy, addressed to His Grace by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
December 18, 1854.

My Lord Duke,

Nothing has occurred since I had the honour to address your Grace on the 13th instant.

The weather, which was then fine, changed on the following afternoon, and, from that time to the evening of the 16th, it hardly ceased either to rain, hail, or snow.

The night of the 16th was particularly severe; but it cleared up yesterday, and to-day it is again dry.

The bad days above mentioned have, however, rendered the communications more difficult, and materially retarded the movement of supplies and stores.

The 89th and 17th Regiments have arrived from Gibraltar, and will take their place in the 3rd and 4th Divisions this day.

A considerable portion of the warm clothing has been received, and is in course of issue; and the Men are most grateful to Her Majesty's Government for having provided for them what conduces so essentially to their comfort.

I have the honour to transmit returns of the casualties between the 11th and 16th.

I have, &c.,

War-Department, January 9, 1855.

His Grace the Duke of Newcastle has this day received two Despatches, of which the following are copies, addressed to his Grace by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
MY LORD DUKE, December 23, 1854.

A great deal of rain has fallen in the last forty-eight hours, and the weather has again become very inclement.

The only occurrence in the siege operations has been a sortie made by the enemy on both our right and left attack, during the night of the 20th, the one being conducted silently, the other with drums beating, and shouting ; the first being probably the real object of the advance, as nearer to the Inkerman heights.

Owing to the extreme darkness of the night the enemy were enabled to come very near the right attack without being perceived, and having made a sudden rush upon the most forward parallel, they compelled the men occupying it to withdraw, until reinforced by a party under Major Welsford, of the 97th Regiment, when it was regained possession of, and the Russians retired, not however without occasioning some loss in both killed, wounded, and missing, Lieutenant Byron, of the 34th Regiment, being amongst the latter.

On the left attack, the enemy were met with great gallantry by Lieutenant Gordon, of the 38th Regiment, who, when supported by the covering party of the trenches, under Lieutenant-Colonel Waddy of the 50th, succeeded in at once driving them back. But here too I regret to say, the loss was still more severe, Major Möller, of the 50th, fell mortally wounded, and I am concerned to add is since dead, and Captain Frampton, and Lieutenant Clarke, both of the 50th Regiment, are missing. Sir Richard England speaks in high terms of the gallantry and vigilance of these troops, and of the distinguished conduct of Lieutenant-Colonel Waddy.

I enclose the return of the casualties to the 20th inclusive.

Two regiments of French cavalry under General D'Allonville, made a reconnoissance on the 20th, towards the ground recently occupied by the enemy in front of Balaklava, while the 42nd Regiment, a detachment of the Rifle Brigade under Colonel Cameron, 42nd Regiment, and a battalion of Zouaves, made a corresponding movement on the extreme right. The latter saw only a picket of Cosaques, which retired on their approach, the former exchanged shots with the enemy, and ascertained that they had scarcely any troops on the left bank of the Tchernaya.

I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

His Grace the Duke of Newcastle,

J. B. BUCKNALL ESTCOURT,
Adjutant-General.

Before Sevastopol,
MY LORD DUKE, December 26, 1854.

I have nothing to report to your Grace to-day.

The rain which prevailed on Saturday was succeeded by snow on Sunday, and it was almost the worst day I ever saw. At night it froze, and the frost has continued ever since, without being severe; but it has not as yet tended to dry the ground, still in a lamentable state.

Every effort is making, that the state of the roads will permit, to bring up ammunition and the materials of siege, and General Canrobert is in this respect affording us every possible assistance.

The garrison keeps up a heavy fire upon our trenches, particularly at night, and your Grace will regret to see by the returns which I inclose, that we daily sustain some casualties.

I have, &c.,

PARIS UNIVERSAL EXHIBITION OF 1855.

The Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade, at the recommendation of the Committees to whom the distribution of the space in the Paris Universal Exhibition was entrusted by the Minute of this Board, dated the 12th September, and published in the London Gazette of Friday, the 15th of September, 1854, give notice in this Gazette of the names of the Manufacturers and others, whose admission they have confirmed as Exhibitors in the British Section of that Exhibition, subject to the Rules and Regulations of the French Imperial Commission, and those which their Lordships may find it necessary from time to time to issue for the special arrangements connected with the British Section of the Exhibition.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JANUARY 12, 1855.

War-Department, January 12, 1855.

HIS Grace the Duke of Newcastle has this day received a Despatch, of which the following is a copy, addressed to His Grace by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord Duke, December 30, 1854.

Since I wrote to your Grace on the 26th, the weather has been somewhat more propitious; but the state of the ground is hardly more satisfactory.

The 18th Regiment has arrived; and I have likewise the honour to inform you that we are daily receiving vast supplies of ammunition, warm clothing, and huts for the Army. The utmost efforts will be made to disembark all those stores; but the difficulty of effecting this desirable object is very great, owing to the very limited extent of the harbour, its crowded state, and the narrow entrance to the town, and want of space on the beach, the rocks on the north side rising directly out of the water, and there being, consequently, no accommodation but on one side.

The Russians continue to withdraw from the Valley of the Tchernaya, whilst they have constructed defensive works on the heights above, which would imply a difficulty of maintaining their troops in the field.

A reconnoissance was sent out this morning by General Canrobert towards the river, in co-operation with a portion of Major-General Sir Colin Campbell's force on the extreme right of Balaklava, the result of which is not yet known.

I enclose a list of casualties from the 25th to the 28th.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

His Grace the Duke of Newcastle,
&c. &c. &c.

Beauvoir (formerly Richard Benyon), take and henceforth use the surname of Benyon only, instead of that of Fellowes, and that he and they may bear the arms of Benyon quarterly with his and their own family arms ; such arms being first duly exemplified according to the laws of arms, and recorded in the Heralds' Office, otherwise the said royal licence and permission to be void and of none effect :

And also to command that the said royal concession and declaration be registered in Her Majesty's College of Arms.

The Queen has been pleased to grant unto Private Andrew Anderson, of the Sappers and Miners, Her royal licence and permission that he may accept and wear the Order of the Medjidie, which the Sultan has been pleased to confer upon him, in approbation of his distinguished bravery and good conduct at the passage of the Danube, on the 7th July last, and subsequently in rescuing the body of his commanding officer, Lieutenant Burke, after he had fallen ; and that he may enjoy all the rights and privileges thereunto annexed ; provided, nevertheless, that Her Majesty's said licence and permission doth not authorize and shall not be deemed or construed to authorize the assumption of any style, appellation, rank, precedence, or privilege appertaining unto a Knight Bachelor of these realms :

And also to command that Her Majesty's said concession and especial mark of Her royal favour be registered, together with the relative documents in Her Majesty's College of Arms.

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time, by Warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British or inland postage payable by law on the transmission by the post of foreign or colonial letters or newspapers, or any other printed papers, and to subject the same to the rates of postage according to the weight thereof and a scale of weight to be contained in such Warrant.

And whereas it is expedient that regulations should be made for the transmission by the post of the letters hereinafter mentioned.

Now we, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the power or authority in us for such purpose vested in and by the said Act, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, do by this Warrant, under the hands of two of us, the said Commissioners, by the authority of the Statute in that case made and provided, order and direct that on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to any seamen employed in Turkey or the Black Sea, on board any transport or ship chartered or hired for Her Majesty's service, and on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, sent by any such seaman from Turkey or the Black Sea to the United Kingdom (the conveyance of such respective letters between the United Kingdom and Turkey or the Black Sea being by packet-boat direct, or viâ Malta, and such respective letters being on the private concerns of any such seamen), there shall be charged and taken, in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such respective letters, an uniform rate of British postage of one penny. But we declare that the letters of Officers or Mates on board of any such transports or ships are not included in this provision.

And with respect to letters sent by any such seaman the following conditions shall be observed; that is to say: the postage of each letter shall be paid, by means of a postage stamp, on being put into a post-office established under the authority of the Postmaster General; and upon such letter shall be superscribed the name of the writer, and his description as a seaman in the transport or vessel to which he shall belong, and upon every such letter there shall be written, in the handwriting of, and signed by, the officer having at the time the command of the transport or vessel to which the seaman belongs, the name of such officer, and the name of such vessel.

And with respect to letters received by the post by any such seamen the following conditions shall be observed: The postage of each letter, posted within the United Kingdom, shall be duly and properly paid upon putting it into a post-office established under the authority of the Postmaster-General, and it shall be directed to such seaman, specifying on the superscription thereof the transport or vessel to which he shall belong, and such letter shall be delivered only to the seaman to whom it shall be directed, or to some person appointed to receive the same by writing under the hand of the officer in command, and whenever the letters sent by any such seaman shall be sent without the said postage of one penny being prepaid, every such letter shall be charged to the party receiving the same in the United Kingdom with a rate of two pence, and any letters received by the post under this Warrant by any such seaman, which may have been redirected, shall not be charged any postage on or in respect of such redirection.

And we further declare, that the said privilege shall not extend to any letters sent through France or any other foreign country.

And we further direct, that the several terms and expressions used in this Warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said Act passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty.

Provided lastly, and we hereby declare and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by Warrant under their hands, at any time hereafter to alter or repeal any of the rates hereby altered, or the regulations hereby made, and to make and establish any new or other rates and regulations in lieu thereof, and from time to time to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.

LONDON GAZETTE of JANUARY 16, 1855.

War-Department, January 15, 1855.

HIS Grace the Duke of Newcastle has received a Despatch, of which the following is a copy, addressed to His Grace by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
MY LORD DUKE. December 13, 1854.

In my Despatch of the 18th of October, reporting the opening of our fire upon the enemy's works, I omitted to mention the name of a highly meritorious Naval Officer, who had charge of a battery in the trenches, and rendered himself conspicuous by the manner in which he performed the important duty confided to him.

The officer I allude to is Captain Moorsom, whom I beg leave now to recommend to the notice of your Grace. I did not know until some time afterwards that he was employed in the trenches on the occasion in question; but having now been apprized of it, I avail myself of the present opportunity to rectify an error, which might otherwise be prejudicial to a most deserving officer.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

His Grace the Duke of Newcastle,
&c. &c. &c.

HIS Grace the Duke of Newcastle has this day received a Despatch, of which the following is a copy, addressed to His Grace by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
MY LORD DUKE, January 6, 1855.

The weather has been so bad since I wrote to your Grace on the 2nd instant, that I have not yet been able to disembark the 39th, with a view of encamping the regiment, and it still remains on board the Golden Fleece in the harbour.

The ground is thickly covered with snow, though not very deep.

All my endeavours are directed to the speedy disembarkation and getting up of the huts, which have now arrived in considerable numbers, and the establishment of the depôt of provisions, which I alluded to in my last Despatch, near head quarters, which I am now enabled to do, with the assistance of the 18th and 39th Regiments, the first encamped near Balaklava, the last still sleeping on board the Golden Fleece.

There has been no movement on the part of the enemy.

I enclose a return of the casualties that have arisen up to the 4th instant.

I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

Erratum in the London Gazette Extraordinary of Sunday, November 12, 1854.

In Lieutenant-General Sir De Lacy Evans's report to Field-Marshal Lord Raglan, of the 27th of October, 1854,—For, "to Lieutenant-Colonels Woodham and Hemlin we are under the greatest obligation," — Read, "to Lieutenant-Colonels Wodehouse and Hamley we are under the greatest obligation."

Admiralty, January 25, 1855.

The following Despatch and Enclosures have been received from Rear-Admiral Sir James Stirling, Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's ships and vessels on the East India and China station :

ON THE REPRESSION OF PIRACY.

Winchester, at Hong Kong,
SIR, November 25, 1854.

In the fourth paragraph of my general letter, No. 78, of the 9th instant, I had the honour to report the existing necessity for rigorous measures in regard to piracy in this neighbourhood, complaints and representations on the subject of which were addressed to me daily, either by the local government or private persons ; and I now beg leave to state the course I adopted for the repression of that evil.

2. In the first instance I requested Mr. Robertson, the Acting Superintendent of Trade, to call upon the Viceroy of Canton, to take certain measures for the capture and detention of the numerous vessels engaged in the business of robbery upon the waters within the imperial jurisdiction, but the Viceroy candidly admitted his want of force. I then requested Mr. Robertson to inform his Excellency that if he would send a mandarin of rank, instructed to co-operate with me upon this service, and would direct and authorise him to visit and examine every port and place upon the coast, known or suspected to be haunts of pirates, and every vessel of a suspicious character, I would provide for the safety of this officer and any junk accompanying him, and give him the aid and support of British vessels-of-war in the search; and that I felt assured, with the legal sanction afforded by an imperial officer's presence, and his acquaintance with localities and persons, a stop might be put to an evil which threatened to increase, if unopposed, to a most destructive extent.

3. To this proposal the Viceroy gave a hearty assent (Enclosure No. 1). I accordingly despatched a steamer to the Bogue, and on the 5th instant she brought back the mandarin commanding the station, and a war junk. In the meanwhile I had directed Captain O'Callaghan to take charge of the intended operations under orders, copies of which are hereunto annexed; but before I proceed to report the proceedings of Captain O'Callaghan, after the mandarin arrived, I beg to place before their Lordships the following circumstances.

4. The Governor of Macao, whose acquaintance I have long had the satisfaction to enjoy, made me a cordial offer of all the aid he could afford; the American Commodore placed a steam vessel, the Queen, at my disposal; the leading native merehants at Canton transmitted to Messrs. Russell and Company 5,000 dollars, to be used as I might see oeeasion ; an opulent Chinese trader ehartered two steamers of the Peninsular and Oriental Company to aeeompany any expedition I might send ; and the Lieutenant-Governor of Hong-Kong gave every assistanee in his power. These eoncurrent acts, I trust, will satisfy their Lordships of the neeessity for aetion ; and, aecordingly, while waiting for the arrival of the mandarin, on the 3rd instant, I despatehed Lieutenant Charles Fellowes with the boats of the Winehester and Spartan, the latter under Lieutenant Wray Palliser, both of whom had been so often previously reported as having been most ereditably engaged in such enterprises, to enquire into a robbery eommitted the same day, in one of the channels leading to this harbour. Lieutenant Fellowes's report of proeeedings I have herewith the honour to lay before their Lordships ; and I venture to hope the entire sueeess of that operation, and the very judieious and gallant eonduet evineed by Lieutenant Fellowes, and the exeellent behaviour of all who were employed under him, may meet with their Lordships' approbation.

5. On the evening of the 4th instant, Lieutenant Preble, of the Ameriean Navy, in eommand of the Queen, arrived, and informed me he had been fired upon by a squadron of piratieal junks not far from this anehorage ; and Captain O'Callaghan, who had been made aware of that eireumstanee, informed me he was then bloekading that squadron and awaiting my instructions. I aeeordingly despatehed a reinforeement to the plaee, as deseribed in the margin,* and on the following day I had the satisfaction to receive the accompanying report of the entire success of Captain O'Callaghan and his force, in the destruction of all the piratical junks in the Bay of Tyho. In that report high commendation is given to Lieutenants Fellowes, Palliser, and Montgomerie (the latter of whom was highly distinguished at the Shanghae conflict in April last). It may here be added that soon after our squadron left the Bay of Tyho, an imperial squadron entered it, and, having landed part of their people, they captured 60 pirates, whom they carried to the Bogue, and 48 of them having been convicted on the evidence of the other 12, were sentenced for execution.

* Barracouta, and the boats of the Winchester and Spartan.

6. On the 17th instant, Captain O'Callaghan and his vessels returned to this place, and having received orders, copy of which is herewith annexed, he put to sea and proceeded on the service indicated, the importance of which may be estimated when I say that for the last four years Coulan has been the principal stronghold of the pirates in this neighbourhood. Captain O'Callaghan's proceedings at that place are fully described in his accompanying report, and in a private narrative published in the "Friend of China," of which I beg to annex a copy. My task is therefore limited to requesting in the strongest possible terms the attention of their Lordships to the skilful and judicious manner in which the service was conducted by the officer commanding, Captain O'Callaghan, and to the zealous, steady, and gallant support he received from Commanders Parker and Woollcombe, and from the officers commanding the Portuguese lorcha, and the American steamer; and from Lieutenants Charles Fellowes, Wray Palliser, J. E. Montgomerie, H. W. Fox, R.N., and C. W. Burton, R.M., and from the gentlemen commanding the two Peninsular and Oriental steamers, and from all the officers, seamen, and marines employed, with only one solitary instance of inebriety, amidst a profusion of spirits.

7. Captain O'Callaghan's further proceedings on leaving Coulan are detailed in his report annexed (Enclosure No. 8); and I beg in conclusion to express the satisfaction I feel at the successes thus achieved, and that I shall continue to avail myself while here of every opportunity to carry out the views and intentions, thus happily so far successful, in repressing the depredations which threatened the very existence of this colony, and of all commerce on the coasts adjacent.

I have, &c.,

JS. STIRLING,

Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

The Secretary of the Admiralty,
London.

Enclosure No. 1.

The Imperial Commissioner Yeh Ming Shin to Mr. Consul Robertson.

Yeh, Imperial High Commissioner, Governor-General of the two Kwang provinces, &c., &c., makes this declaration in reply.

On the 13th day of the 9th month (3rd November) I received your representation to the following effect. [Here are quoted the principal portions of Mr. Robertson's letter of the date named]. With respect to the pirates who infest the river, I have to state that for some time past I have kept a fleet of several hundred vessels cruising against them and guarding exposed points.

You mention that Sir James Stirling, the Admiral of your honourable nation, has arrived at Hong Kong, accompanied by war steamers, and you request that a vessel may be despatched to co-operate with them in searching for and destroying pirates. I have, in compliance with this, sent directions to the Commandant on the Ta Pang Station to proceed on the service described with a naval force; and I now reply to acquaint you with the same.

A declaration.

To the British Consul Robertson.

Hienfung, 4th year, 9th month, 14th day (4th November, 1854).

Enclosure No. 2.

Winchester, at Hong Kong,
SIR, October 31, 1854.

Having received from his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of this colony, and also from Mr. Robertson, Acting-Superintendent of Trade in this quarter, representations setting forth the very serious and alarming extent to which piratical depredations have been recently carried on in this neighbourhood, it becomes necessary to take such effectual measures as may be in my power to apply to the correction of this evil.

It is therefore my intention to employ you in H. M. steam-ship under your command, together with such further force as may be from time to time required upon that service. You will ac-eordingly apply yourself with all possible assiduity to obtain from the proper quarters eorreet information in regard to the haunts and habits, resourees and general condition of those who devote themselves to these criminal practices ; and with this view you will use your own judgment as to visiting any plaee or anchorage within 100 miles of this port as you may deem expedient, keeping me informed of your motions, and eommunicating with me, if possible, before you engage in any operation of importance.

I have arranged already with his Honour the Lieutenant-Governor to afford you any aid you may desire in pilots and otherwise ; and I send you herewith a letter addressed to his Excellency the Governor of Macao, who has given assurances that he will afford his valuable assistance in the prosecution of this service.

Following up the general instructions herein given, you will, as soon as the Encounter shall be ready, proeeed to Macao, and from hence to any part of the coast in this vicinity you may deem expedient for the purpose of reconnoitring.

On Saturday next, the 4th proximo, you will rejoin me at this anchorage, by which time I expect important communications on the subject from the Viceroy at Canton.

I need scarcely remind you, in the exeeution of this service, of the necessity of conforming to the 8th article, page 23, chapter 10 of the standing printed orders of the station, or that it is absolutely neeessary to distinguish between acts of piracy eommitted in view upon the high sea upon British subjects, and acts of robbery within the waters and jurisdiction of China by Chinese upon their fellow subjects. In the former case you have full authority to interfere, but in the latter case the right and duty of interference belongs to the authorities of China, to whom our aid may be given to a reasonable extent.

I am, &c.
(Signed) JS. STIRLING.

Captain G. W. D. O'Callaghan,
H.M. Steam-ship Encounter.

Enclosure No. 3.

H.M. Ship Winchester, Hong Kong,
SIR, November 4, 1854.

I have the honour to lay before you the enclosed letter from Lieutenant Fellowes, reporting the proceedings of the force employed against pirates in the boats of Her Majesty's ships Winchester and Spartan, under his command on the 2nd instant.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) THOMAS WILSON,
Captain.

His Excellency Rear-Admiral Sir James Stirling, Commander-in-Chief.

Sub-Enclosure to Enclosure No. 3.

H.M. Ship Winchester, Hong Kong,
SIR, November 3, 1854.

I have to report the return of the boats of Her Majesty's ships Winchester and Spartan, which you did me the honour to place under my command on the evening of the 1st instant, and the result of their proceedings.

The boats being manned and armed, and officered as follows,—

Winchester's Launch—Lieutenant Charles Fellowes; Mr. Gilmore, midshipman; Mr. Stuart, assistant-surgeon;

2*nd Barge*—Lieutenant J. Bushnell; Hon. H. D. Lascelles, midshipman; Pinnace—Mr. F. Robinson, midshipman.

Pinnace—Mr. Oliver, mate;

left the Winchester at 5 30 P.M. of the 1st instant, and proceeded to the Throat Gates of Capsingmoon Passage; overhauled two boats off the island of Makwan, on their way to Hong Kong, whose cargoes had that day been removed by some pirates; at 10 P.M. anchored for the night off Pilong Bay.

At daybreak on the morning of the 2nd instant, weighed, and, observing some boats at anchor off the village in Pilang Bay, proceeded to examine, and found two of them to be Hong Kong passage-boats, whose crews reported three boats then on the beach to belong to pirates, and the village, which consisted of six houses, apparently store-houses, to be their stronghold; sent the police constable on shore with the informers to examine these houses, in which portion of the property lost by informants was found; restored the same to them, burnt the houses, and destroyed the boats, three in number.

At 7 A.M., at the request of the informants, stood towards Castle Peak Bay. As we opened the land observed four large junks in the offing, and one small Hong Kong boat making towards us; on nearing our boats the latter reported the four junks to be pirates, who had just robbed them of all their property. I desired one of the crew to come into the launch and accompany the boats for the purpose of giving evidence against these junks. They now made for Tynmoon Bay, sailing and pulling a number of oars, the boats in full chase; they succeeded in entering the bay before our boats could overtake them, and running two of them on shore at separate points; their crews landed and received us with a sharp fire of musquetry and wall pieces from the rocks; having dispersed them from their positions, I ordered Lieutenant Bushnell and Mr. Oliver to go in and bring out the junks, and with the remaining three boats proceeded to the head of the bay; received the fire from one Hong Kong fast-boat lying alongside of another, took both of them, and left the four vessels anchored in the centre of the bay, clear of the enemy's fire, under charge of Mr. Oliver; proceeded with the remainder of the boats up a small creek, the Winchester's second barge, Lieutenant Bushnell, leading, closely followed by the Spartan's barge, Lieutenant Palliser; the launch drawing too much water grounded several times, and I considered it more prudent with a falling tide, to send her out of the creek, and taking the Winchester's pinnace followed the two barges, which had now pushed up as far as the water would allow, and grounding, received a sharp fire of musquetry from the pirates concealed behind the rocks, they having placed themselves there in strong position, from which they were soon driven by the two boats' crews; then landed, finding it impossible to get the pinnace up far enough to make use of her gun; I landed under fire of musquetry from the rocks on the opposite side of the creek, accompanied by Mr. Stuart, assistant surgeon, and five men, and joined the other two boats' crews under Lieutenants Palliser and Bushnell, ordering the pinnace at the same time to move down the creek into deep water.

The pirates had time, unfortunately, to remove all valuables and munitions of war from the two junks found here, which were burnt without delay. In the meanwhile a large junk of about 200 tons hove in sight, and steering towards our former prizes fired a shot at them, Mr. Oliver returned the fire immediately, and joined by Gilmore in the launch, chased and drove her on shore, having exchanged several shots with her; the crew jumped overboard and swam to the shore, leaving the mangled bodies of several of their number lying about the deck; the boats now boarded her and found several guns, gingalls, stink pots, &c. Mr. Gilmore endeavoured to bring the vessel off shore, but not being able to succeed took the guns out of her and blew her up.

The tide having fallen so much as to leave the two barges high and dry up the creek, I ordered Lieutenant Palliser to take such steps as to secure his party against surprise from the enemy, which he did by landing the gun from the Winchester's barge to keep them in check, fancying they had some idea of coming down again towards the boats. No further annoyance however was attempted, and I returned to the former prizes for the purpose of examining their cargoes; the two first taken contained the greater portion of the property lost by the informers, which I restored to them, and allowed them to put the same into one of the two Hong Kong fast-boats taken, which, from want of evidence I did not consider it my duty to detain; the other three junks were burnt, making in all nine piratical vessels destroyed, the stronghold of the pirates razed to the ground, from forty to fifty men killed, bringing away nine guns and seven gingalls.

I cannot close this without expressing my high sense of the conduct of the officers and men under my command, and the zeal displayed was so universal that I cannot particularize any one.

I have, &c.,

Enclosure No. 4.

H.M.S. Encounter, Hong Kong,
SIR, November 4, 1854.

In compliance with your orders of the 31st ultimo, I have the honour to inform you that I arrived at Macao on the morning of the 1st instant, and the same day waited on his Excellency the Governor.

From him I learned that the piratical fleet, infesting this neighbourhood, were supposed to be partly at Coulan, in the Island of Tyloo, and partly at Moto, up the Broadway River; that he had been applied to by an inferior mandarin to assist in their destruction, but had declined doing so unless applied to by an officer of higher rank. He very kindly offered to place at your disposal, a schooner and lorcha, the former but lightly armed with a few small guns, the latter with four 12-pounder carronades, one 25 cwt. 32-pounder, and one 17 cwt. 32-pounder carronades.

On consulting with him, and with the view of any future operations being undertaken, I came to the conclusion that it would be unadvisable to visit any portion of the West Coast this time, but confine myself to the islands in the neighbourhood of Hong Kong, where, should there be any portion of the piratical fleet, they would no doubt retire to their strongholds at Coulan, or up the Broadway River, where his Excellency has promised to have a good look out kept on them, and their movements watched.

I remained at Macao the whole of the 2nd, in order that I might have the benefit of any further information his Excellency might be able to obtain, and which he was endeavouring to do.

On the evening of that day at 7·30, a small American steam-vessel, the Queen, tender I imagine to the United States frigate Macedonian, arrived, and Lieutenant Prebles, her commander, informed me he had been engaged with a piratical force of ten junks, at Tyho, in the island of Lantao; that on his approaching the bay with his ensign and pennant flying, they had, without the slightest provocation, opened fire upon him, which he returned, but not considering his vessel of sufficient force to engage them closely with a prospect of carrying them, he had come to ask my aid. I informed him of the nature of my orders, and that under them it was not in my power to make any attack on them, but that I would go down and endeavour to blockade them until I had communicated with you, as it was not improbable from the communication you were in with the Chinese authorities it might be in your power to give me more freedom of action. Accordingly at 10 30 P.M., I weighed and proceeded under steam to Tyho, where I arrived at daylight on the 3rd. The piratical vessels were seen moored close in shore, some portion up a creek; Lieutenant Peebles told me he should go and have a shot at them. I said I could only look on and hoped he would do nothing to compel me to interfere; he opened fire, which was promptly returned by two well-directed shots from one of the junks; he then returned, and at my request proceeded to Hong Kong, to inform you of the affair, and also to take a note from me on the subject.

The Queen returned at 4 P.M. with the boats of Her Majesty's ship Spartan in tow, and Lieutenant Prebles told me he was certain it was your intention I should attack the pirates, but had no written communication from you on the subject. As the day was drawing to a close, and only two hours' day light remaining, I trust I only anticipated the tenor of your written orders (conveyed to me by Commander Parker, Her Majesty's ship Barracouta, which vessel arrived about an hour after the Queen), by commencing operations at once, as Lieutenant Prebles had no hesitation in identifying the junks as those that had fired on him the previous evening, without provocation.

A few shot and shell from the Encounter, at a range of 1800 yards, speedily dislodged the pirates both from the junks and the houses in their vicinity, otherwise their position would have rendered a boat attack somewhat hazardous; as it was, on the boats reaching them they were found deserted, and under the direction of Lieutenant Fellowes, with the boats of the Winchester, and also those of the Encounter and Spartan, the latter commanded respectively by Lieutenants Montgomerie and Palliser, were burnt, their guns having previously been taken out. I am happy to have it in my power to express my entire satisfaction with the manner in which those officers carried out my orders, a copy of which I have the honour to enclose.

The gratitude, however, of the poor people of Tyho, is unbounded; and although I am fully aware it is no part of my duty to protect the subjects of the Emperor of China, yet it is gratifying to find we are borne out in our acts by their testimony.

These marauders have been levying contributions on Tyho, and driving the population from it since their arrival. No doubt they had much property on board their junks, but this was removed during the day; I trust, however, they will not benefit by it, as I understand the people of Tyho drove them from its vicinity during the night. I did not think it advisable to search the town for either property or the persons of the pirates, fearing that mistakes might be made, and innocent people suffer for the guilty; I therefore weighed this morning at ten, and have now the honour to report my arrival.

The number of junks destroyed are nineteen, armed with some twenty-five guns of various calibre, of from 12 to 3-pounders. They had abundance of ammunition, and the usual supply of stink-pots, &c.

I am, &c.

MEMORANDUM.

Encounter, Tyho, November 3, 1854.

No boarding until it is well ascertained the crews are out of the junks.

A party of seamen may be landed to take possession of the houses in the vicinity of the junks.

Great care is to be taken that no innocent party suffer; and bear in mind the village is not piratical.

Enclosure No. 5.

By SIR JAMES STIRLING, Knt.,
&c., &c., &c.,

Pursuant to an arrangement entered into with the Viceroy of Canton, the Commandant of the Ta-pang station, a mandarin of rank, arrived this morning with two war junks, for the purpose of co-operating with Her Majesty's naval force in the repression of piracy in the channels and upon the coasts adjacent to this colony. The importance of that officer's presence upon that service you will readily comprehend on reference to my extant instructions of the 31st ultimo; and you will perceive that his presence will not only justify you in acting as an aid and support to him in the execution of his duty in the search for and apprehension of pirates within the waters or upon the shores subject to Chinese jurisdiction, but that his knowledge of the people and places will very much facilitate the service in question.

The plan which I have accordingly arranged with the Commandant is, that in the first instance he shall proceed to Coulan, in the island of Tyloo, with the view of examining that locality, which is understood to be a haunt of pirates, and where it is supposed some portions of the cargoes plundered from the Mary Anna and Caldera may be found, and very important information be obtained; and to ensure his safety and augment his means, while executing that service, I have determined on employing you in command of a force sufficiently large to give full effect to that arrangement.

You will accordingly take under your direction and command, in addition to the Encounter, Her Majesty's steam-sloop Barracouta and Styx, the launch of the Winchester, and a boat from the Spartan, and it is understood you will be accompanied by two steamers hired by native merchants now resident in this colony, some of whom will proceed in them to identify property heretofore taken from them by the pirates.

You will also be accompanied by the United States hired war steamer, the Queen, under command of Lieutenant Prebles, whom Captain Abbott has placed at my disposal for the purpose of rendering aid in this service, and for conveying certain American merchants who have goods to reclaim.

It is unnecessary to give you detailed instruction in this case, as the objects aimed at, in conjunction with the local circumstances, will be your best instruction upon your arrival at Tyloo ; but I am very anxious to impress upon you, that while I desire to detect, apprehend, and bring to punishment any persons who may have been engaged in acts of piracy, and to bring them to trial before the proper courts, I deprecate conflicts between our force and any bodies of such persons except they be justified by self-defence ; and therefore, while you are to afford the Commandant full aid, support, and security in the performance of his duties before-mentioned, you are to avoid any acts of hostility and violence uncalled for and unjustified by the circumstances in which you may be placed.

The Lieutenant-Governor having acceded to my request for the services of Mr. Caldwell, the chief of the police of Hong Kong, and having directed him to accompany you upon the expedition, I do not doubt you will derive advantage from his presence.

So soon as the port and town of Coulan shall have been visited in the manner aforesaid, you will detach the Barracouta to me with intelligence, and proceed with the other vessels to the mouth of the Broadway and await further orders.

Given &c., at Hong Kong, the 11th November, 1854.

Enclosure No. 6.

Her Majesty's Ship Encounter, off Concock,
SIR, November, 11, 1854.

In pursuance of your orders, I have the honour to inform you that I took in tow, off Green Island, two junks of His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of China, on board of one of which was the mandarin alluded to in your letter of the 11th instant. Her Majesty's ship Styx having joined, I proceeded on my way to Tyloo by way of Lantao.

It blew hard during the night, with considerable sea on, and consequently we were forced to go very slowly on account of the vessels in tow. By 6 A.M. of the 12th, it blew a fresh gale, dead off shore (Her Majesty's steam-sloop Barracouta joined us at this time), and I was truly glad to steam for the first sheltered bay I could reach. Both junks broke adrift; the first was picked up by Her Majesty's steam-sloop Styx, by signal, and the other we got hold of again ourselves, at the risk of a boat, which I was forced to lower, and could not hoist up again; she however got hold of the junk, and we succeeded in towing them into shelter, between Tymong and Concock, we had mistaken the latter island for Tyloo, our pilots proving ignorant of this part of the coast. No time, however was lost by this, as it would have been impossible for boats to have acted to the N.E. of that island.

On rounding Concock we observed three armed junks at anchor, who immediately commenced throwing overboard their guns and removing their cargoes. I sent for Mr. Caldwell and the mandarin, who came on board ; the latter declared them to be pirates. I told him I could not act upon a mere assertion of this kind, but that any steps he might think proper to take in ascertaining the fact, I would support him ; I accordingly ordered Lieutenant Fellowes to take his own boat, together with the boats of the Encounter, Barracouta, and Styx, commanded respectively by the First Lieutenants of those ships, and support the officers and men sent by the mandarin, in the execution of their duty ; I also requested Mr. Caldwell to accompany them, with any of the parties who might wish to go, for the purpose of identifying their lost property. Lieutenant Prebles, of the United States Navy, in command of the chartered steam-vessel Queen, volunteered to cover the boats, which service I accepted.

The boats being deserted, and a portion of the property (or rather sails of Caldera) being found, those junks were destroyed.

After this I proceeded in the Peninsular and Oriental Company's steam-vessel Canton, and reconnoitered the Bay of Coulan, where I found a large assembly of junks and a considerable battery. About 5 P.M., His Most Catholic Majesty's naval lorcha Amazon, appeared in sight, and on opening the bay was fired upon. Having satisfied myself of the position, I closed up our own ships, and sending a party of marines and an armed boat on board the Canton and Charles Forbes (also of the Peninsular and Oriental Company's Service), and on board the Queen, desired Lieutenant Fellowes to undertake the blockade of that bay during the night, which he most effectually did. During a reconnoitre early in the morning by Lieutenant Fellowes in his launch, he was repeatedly fired upon, but acting strictly in accordance with my orders, did not return the fire.

I moved Her Majesty's ship under my command into two and a half fathoms, at daylight, and having made my arrangements to support the mandarin in a search for property, &c., and also with a due regard to the safety of those under my command, I had the armed boats, and a party of 100 small-armed men, towed up to the bay; and having entered into a communication with the madarin, and he having appointed certain officers to proceed in the search of Coulan and the junks there, for plundered property, I sent the above-named force to support the imperial officers. The boats, under the command of Commander Parker, consisting of the launch of the Winchester, the paddle-box boats and pinnaces of the Barracouta and Styx, and also the pinnace of the Spartan—the officers therein I have noted in the margin—* the marines and small arm men, with a field-piece and rocket party, the whole under the command of Commander Woollcombe; the marines of the ships under Lieutenant Burton, R.M., and the latter party under Lieutenant Montgomerie, senior lieutenant of the Encounter, assisted by Mr. Butler, mate. The moment these boats left they were fired upon ; I then directed the Portuguese lorcha and the United States' chartered steam-vessel to cover the boats, and I cannot express myself too highly of the conduct of the former in the admirable manner in which he took his little vessel into action, and the beautiful precision of his fire. I am not less indebted to Lieutenant Prebles for his exertions, and he has always shewn an anxious desire to aid me in every way.

I had given my directions to Commanders Parker and Woolcombe as to the landing of the men and the covering of the landing ; they were most ably and gallantly carried out under a fire of a battery of twenty guns of various calibre from 12 to 6-pounders. The battery being silenced, Commander Parker landed, and taking command of the whole force proceeded to endeavour to capture some of the piratical force ; in the execution of this duty he had to encounter a small battery of seven guns, where the fugitives made a stand, but it was soon carried. I called upon the mandarin officer to declare what junks he considered piratical, and also if any portion of the houses should be destroyed ; he declared the whole of the junks as such, and pointed out what portion of the houses he considered should be destroyed ; accordingly forty-eight masted junks were set on fire. It would have taken a week to get them afloat.

The property found was a case of instruments belonging to the master of the Caldera, also a chest of tea. I have also further indication of their having plundered either American or English vessels.

In the performance of this service the boats had to land the men under great natural obstacles, and a fire of twenty guns kept up for half an hour. It was ably and well done by the officers aforementioned: I am perfectly satisfied with their conduct.

The loss on our side was one American seaman killed; on the part of the pirates fifty. Eight Chinese were captured, but whether pirates or not remains to be proved.

I now send the Barracouta, in accordance with your orders. Commander Parker will afford you any further details. I proceed to-morrow, Tuesday, the 14th instant, off the Broadway. Should it be your intention to carry out operations up that river I deem it requisite to have a further force for landing, as I cannot leave the ships at twenty miles' distance with so few hands as I did to-day; and, Sir, I have further to state that I consider it quite impracticable to suppress piracy on this coast without a recourse to decided hostilities.

The amount of guns taken and destroyed is thirty-eight, a greater portion of which are on board the mandarin's junk. The largest gun destroyed is a 32-pounder.

I have, &c.,

Captain.

Enclosure No. 8.

Her Majesty's Steam-ship Encounter,
SIR, Hong-Kong, November 17, 1854.

I have the honour to inform you, in continuation of my last letter of proceedings and report of the affair at Coulan, that I so far altered my plans as to remain at that place the whole of the 14th instant, for the purpose of making a further search for lost property and, if possible, taking prisoners.

For this purpose, I communicated with the mandarin, who said he had been about to propose the subject to me, but thought we had already done so much that he did not like to do so, but that he would send an officer with fifty men ; this he did, and I directed Lieutenant Montgomerie, senior lieutenant of this ship, to support him with a party of thirty marines of the Encounter and Styx, and thirty small-arm men of the former. The marines were commanded by Lieutenant Burton, R.M. ; and Lieutenant Montgomerie was assisted by Lieutenant Fox and Mr. Hardinge, midshipmen ; the whole were embarked on board the Peninsular and Oriental steam-vessel Charles Forbes, and Lieutenant Fellowes was directed to superintend and cover their landing, if required, with the Winchester's launch.

My orders were ably and steadily carried out ; but, from the great difficulty of getting through the country, and want of knowledge of it, the parties only succeeded in making five prisoners, whom I have delivered to the mandarin.

At 3 A.M., of the 15th, I weighed, and at 8 o'clock fell in with the Barracouta ; and, having made myself acquainted with your further instructions, proceeded with the squadron up the Broadway, to within eight miles of Moto. At daylight the next morning I embarked in the Peninsular and Oriental Company's steam-vessel Canton, taking with me Mr. Raymond, Master of the Encounter, and Mr. Sarratt, Second Master of the Spartan, to ascertain the possibility of the squadron being brought higher up if required. I take this opportunity of bringing to your notice the former officer, who has had some arduous duty to perform, of which he has acquitted himself to my entire satisfaction. I also had with me the Winchester's launch and ten marines, and an imperial officer from the mandarin. At Moto there are no imperial authorities, and not obtaining any satisfactory information, I proceeded off Yut-Kok, where were lying nineteen armed junks; with these I communicated, and ascertained they were chartered vessels for the protection of Hong-Shan, and were in charge of an imperial officer. This officer afterwards came on board, and informed me that Aw-ung, the pirate chief, he believed to be at Chun-Kok, and that the mandarin of Hong-Shan was endeavouring to persuade him to join the imperial forces; from other sources I was informed he had done so, and I understood that the mandarin at Canton had also been making overtures to him to the same effect. His force was said to be about forty junks.

I considered it highly important that these facts should be clearly ascertained, and accordingly proceeded up a branch of the Broadway river, to the N.W. This has never been visited before, and I have desired Mr. Raymond, master, to draw up a report of it. We anchored abreast a small fort at the village of Woo-chun, opposite Ngoi-hoi, about thirty-five miles from Moto; here the Chinese who lost so much property ascertained that Aw-ung, with thirty junks, had gone up to Macao Fort, and been received by the imperial officers. Twenty rebel rowing-boats came down upon us, with not less than 100 men in each; but, on their being made aware of what was the object of our visit, immediately came to anchor. I was unable to rejoin the squadron that night, the pilot declining to go on after dark; but at 7·30 this morning I did so, and then, in obedience to your orders, directed the Barracouta to Hong-Kong by the Capsingmoon, and having ascertained it was the mandarin's desire to return to the Bogue, I directed the Styx on that service, and taking in tow the Portuguese lorcha myself, proceeded down the river. The hired steam-vessels of the Peninsular and Oriental Company's service, and the United States chartered steam-vessel Queen, parted company.

Thus the squadron you did me the honour to place under my command was broken up, and it only now remains for me to state how perfectly satisfied I am with all. The greatest good feeling has existed among officers and men. To Commander Scarmihia, of the Portuguese lorcha Amazon, to Lieutenant Prebles, in command of the United States chartered vessel Queen, my best thanks are due, for their zealous and gallant co-operation with Her Majesty's ship under my command. From Commanders Parker and Woollcombe I have received every assistance; and it is to them and the officers already mentioned as forming their respective divisions, and with the active assistance alluded to above in carrying out my views and wishes, that the expedition owes its success. For Lieutenant Fellowes, senior lieutenant of your flag ship, I beg to assure you I cannot say too much in his praise,—always ready and willing for anything. Lieutenant Palliser of Her Majesty's ship Spartan, has also given me much satisfaction, and I regret to say he is now suffering from his exertions. Lieutenant Montgomerie, senior lieutenant of my own ship, is an officer in whom I can place the greatest confidence, and I selected him in consequence for the peculiar and difficult duty of searching for the pirates at Coulan, in the execution of which there was so much danger of the innocent suffering. I also, when I thought it was my duty to quit my ship, felt at my ease, knowing he was on board. Mr. Raymond and the other master of the squadron, deserve credit for the manner in which the ships have been navigated in water very often not a foot more than they draw.

In conclusion I must further beg to call your attention to the very steady conduct of the respective ships' companies; there was a great quantity of spirits in some of the junks, yet I heard of but one case of drunkenness. The service has been attended with considerable fatigue, which has been borne most cheerfully, and I trust you may feel it in your power to recommend those employed to the favourable consideration of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty.

I beg to enclose a statement of the services performed since the 2nd instant, also Mr. Raymond's remark on the N.W. branch of the River Broadway.

Mr. Percy Earl, master's assistant of this ship, formed one of the party in the attack of Coulan, on the 13th instant; his name was unintentionally omitted in my report.

I have, &c.,
G. O'CALLAGHAN,
Captain.

Statement of Service performed by the Crews of Her Majesty's ships Encounter, Barracouta, and Styx, and the launch of the Winchester, and pinnace of the Spartan, between the 2nd and 17th November, 1854.

At Ty-ho. The whole of the junks, 17 in number, were destroyed; 6 guns taken by Winchester's boat delivered to Marshal of Admiralty Court at Hong Kong; 7 guns taken by Spartan's boat disposed of in like manner ; 2 guns taken and retained by the United States chartered steam-vessel Queen ; and 10 guns destroyed with the junks and sunk. Number of pirates killed unknown. From 50 to 60 prisoners taken by the Chinese authorities.

At COULAN and the neighbourhood. 50 junks destroyed ; also 2 batteries, mounting 20 and 7 guns respectively ; 17 guns taken by the Chinese authorities, and 6 by the Queen ; 27 guns sunk and destroyed, being too heavy to embark without considerable waste of time ; 15 guns thrown overboard by the pirates themselves from 3 junks off Cow-Kok ; and from 50 to 60 pirates killed ; 4 prisoners (13 were taken, 9 of whom either have been or are to be released by the mandarin).

TOTALS. 67 junks burnt, being in such positions that it would have taken a very long time, and would have been attended with considerable exposure and fatigue to have removed them.

90 guns taken or destroyed.

54 to 60 prisoners, as above stated.

The whole of the junks were capable of having crews of from 20 to 40 men each ; allowing therefore an average of 30 men for each junk, there would not have been less than 2000 pirates, of whom 115 may be said to be either taken or killed. A large quantity of ammunition was also destroyed.

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," certain scales of weight and rates of postage were fixed, and made chargeable and payable, upon, for, or in respect of, letters, newspapers, Parliamentary proceedings, and printed papers, transmitted and forwarded by the post, and various regulations were made for facilitating the transmission of such letters and papers by the post; and by the same Act powers are given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by Warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of postage therein mentioned.

And whereas further powers are given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury by an Act passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post, and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the Post-office."

And whereas by a Warrant, under the hands of two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, dated the 29th day of January, 1852, it was ordered and directed, that packets consisting of books, publications, or works of literature or art, might be transmitted by the post within the United Kingdom, subject to the several regulations and rates therein contained.

And whereas it is expedient that the said Warrant should be repealed, and that such other regulations should be made respecting the conveyance of certain packets sent by the post as are hereinafter contained.

1. Now we, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the powers vested in us in and by the said before-mentioned Acts, or either of them, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, do by this Warrant (under the hands of two of us the said Commissioners, by the authority of the Statute in that case made and provided), order and direct that the said Warrant of the 29th day of January, 1852, and the several orders, directions, regulations, and rates of postage therein mentioned and set forth, shall cease and determine, and shall be, and the same are, hereby repealed and revoked. Nevertheless, no Treasury Warrant repealed by the said Warrant of the 29th day of January, 1852, shall be revived by this Warrant.

2. And we do further order and direct, that all packets consisting of books, publications, or works of literature or art, posted in the United Kingdom, may be transmitted by the post within the United Kingdom, subject to the several regulations and rates hereinafter contained ; that is to say :

On every such packet, if not exceeding one pound in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of six pence.

And on every such packet, if exceeding one pound and not exceeding two pounds in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of one shilling.

And for every additional one pound in weight of any such packet, above the weight of two pounds, there shall be charged and taken an additional rate of postage of six pence, and every fraction of such additional pound shall be charged as an additional pound.

3. And we further order and direct, that no such packet, which in length or breadth or width, shall exceed the dimensions of two feet, shall be forwarded by the post under the provisions aforesaid.

4. And we further order and direct, that the postage of all such packets as aforesaid, shall in every case be paid at the time of the same being posted, not in money, but by being duly stamped with the proper postage stamp or stamps affixed thereto, which stamp or stamps shall in every case be affixed or appear on the outside of every such packet, near the address or direction, aud shall be of the value or amount of the postage duty payable thereon, under or by virtue of this Warrant, unless any such packet be sent from any department or office in or connected with the public service of Her Majesty, which shall keep a postage account with the General Post Office in London, in which case the same shall be forwarded post paid, and the postage thereof shall be charged in such postage account.

5. And we further order and direct, that the terms "Books, publications, or works of literature or art" herein used, shall, for the purposes of this Warrant, mean and include all books, whether printed, written, or plain, publications or compilations, whether in print or in manuscript, almanacks, prints, maps, whether on paper or canvass or cloth, and whether printed or written, and any description of paper, parchment, or vellum, whether printed, written upon, or plain, together with any binding, mounting, or covering of, or upon, or belonging to any book or publication, or work, or any portion thereof, or of or belonging to any paper, parchment, or vellum, and any cases or rollers of prints or maps, book markers, pencils, pens, or other articles usually appertaining to any suck book, publication, or work, paper, parchment, or vellum, or necessary for its safe transmission, and that every such packet shall be sent open at the ends or sides, and either without a cover, or in a cover or envelope open at the ends or sides, and that there shall be no letter, either closed or open, nor any enclosure, sealed or otherwise, closed against inspection, sent in or with any such packet, nor shall there be any letter or any communication in the nature of a letter, written or printed on the cover or envelope of any such packet.

6. And in order to prevent any obstaeles to the due and regular transmission of letters by the post, we further direct, that it shall be lawful for any officer of the Post-office to delay the transmission of any packet, posted or forwarded by the post under the provisions of this Warrant, for the space of twenty-four hours after the time at which the same ought to be dispatched, in due course of the post, or (at his option) until the dispatch of the mail next after that by which the same ought in due course of the post, to be forwarded by him.

7. And we further direct, that the transmission of the packets aforesaid, under this present Warrant, shall be restricted to such as shall be sent by the post between places within the United Kingdom and by the post of any post town in the United Kingdom, and that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to interfere with or in anywise to affect the transmission by the post of printed votes and proceedings of Parliament, nor of British newspapers or other British publications which are allowed to pass by the post between places within the United Kingdom under the newspaper privilege, nor shall this present Warrant be construed to extend to any packet sent by the post between the United Kingdom and places beyond the seas.

8. And we further order and direct, that if any packet, or the cover or envelope of any packet, sent or tendered, or delivered in order to be sent by the post, under the provisions of this present Warrant shall not be open at the ends or sides, or shall in length or breadth or width exceed the dimensions of two feet, or if there shall be any letter, or any communication in the nature of a letter, written or printed on any such cover or envelope, every such packet shall and may be detained and opened, and at the option of the Postmaster-General shall be either returned or given up to the sender thereof, or be given up to the person to whom it shall be addressed, or be forwarded to the place of its destination ; and every such packet, on being so returned, given up, or forwarded, shall be chargeable with a postage of double the amount of postage to which it would have been liable as a letter, if the postage had been paid by stamps when posted, and such double postage may be either paid by the sender or be charged to the person to whom such packet shall be forwarded.

9. And we do further order and direct, that if any packet, sent or tendered, or delivered in order to be sent by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant, shall contain any letter, whether closed or open, or any enclosure, sealed or otherwise closed against inspection, every such letter or enclosure may be taken out by any officer of the Post-office, and forwarded to the address on the packet, charged not only with the full rates of postage, as an unpaid letter, but also with a further and additional rate of six pence ; and the remainder of the packet, if duly prepaid by stamps, may be forwarded to the place of its address without any extra charge.

10. And we do further order and direct, that if any packet sent or tendered, or delivered in order to be sent by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant (any such packet sent from any department or office in or connected with the public service of Her Majesty, which shall keep a postage account with the General Post-office in London, and the postage thereof being charged in such account, only excepted), shall be posted, having thereon or affixed thereto a stamp or stamps, the value of which shall be less in amount than the rate of postage to which such packet would be liable under and by virtue of the several regulations, orders, directions, and conditions hereinbefore contained, but equal in amount to the single rate of postage which would be chargeable under this Warrant if such packet did not exceed one pound in weight, every such last-mentioned packet shall be forwarded, charged with the amount of the difference between the value of such stamp or stamps so being thereon, or affixed thereto, and the postage to which such packet would be liable as aforesaid, together with a further and additional rate of six pence: but if any such packet shall be posted without having thereon or affixed thereto any postage stamp, or having thereon or affixed thereto a postage stamp or stamps the value of which shall be less in amount than the single rate of postage chargeable under this Warrant, every such last-mentioned packet shall, and may be detained and opened at any place in the United Kingdom, and at the option of the Postmaster-General, shall be dealt with and chargeable in like manner, as is hereinbefore directed, with respect to any packet not open at the ends or sides, or exceeding in length, or breadth, or width, the dimensions of two feet.

11. And we do hereby further order and direct, that the terms and expressions used in this Warrant, shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects, as they would have had if inserted in the said Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty.

12. And we do further direct, that this Warrant shall come into operation on the first day of March next.

13. Provided lastly, and we do hereby declare and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being, of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by Warrant, under their hands at any time hereafter, to alter or repeal any of the rates hereby fixed or altered, or the regulations hereby made, and to make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and from time to time to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage" certain scales of weight and rates of postage were fixed and made chargeable and payable upon, for, or in respect of letters, newspapers, Parliamentary proceedings, and printed papers transmitted and forwarded by the post, and various regulations were made for facilitating the transmission of such letters and papers by the post.

And whereas by the said Act, powers were given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time, and at any time thereafter by Warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British postage or inland postage, payable by law on the transmission by the post of foreign or colonial letters or newspapers, or of any other printed papers, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof, and a scale of weight to be contained in such Warrant, and from time to time by Warrant as aforesaid, to alter or repeal any of such altered rates and make and establish any new or other rates in lieu thereof, and from time to time, by Warrant as aforesaid, to appoint at what time the rates which may be payable are to be paid, and the power thereby given to alter and fix rates of postage is extended to any increase or reduction, or remission of postage.

And whereas by an Act, passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post, and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the Post-office," the provision fixing the maximum weight of letters to be sent by the post, in the first-mentioned Act, is repealed; and in order to prevent packets of an unwieldy bulk or an inconvenient size being transmitted by the post, power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, at any time or times thereafter, by Warrant under their hands, to fix the maximum weight of letters to be sent by the post, and from time to time to repeal or revoke such maximum weight, wholly or in part, and declare any other maximum of weight in lieu thereof; and it is provided, that all letters shall be forwarded, conveyed, and delivered by the post in conformity with any such Warrant, and also in conformity with and under and subject to all such orders, conditions, limitations, regulations, and restrictions as to the form, size, or dimensions thereof, whether in proportion to the weight or otherwise, as the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, shall from time to time direct. And by the said Act power is also given to the Postmaster-General to collect and receive the foreign and colonial postage charged or chargeable on any letters sent by the post, and also with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to require the postage, British, colonial, or foreign, of any letters sent by the post, to be prepaid, either in money or in stamps as he may think fit, on the same being put into the Post-office, and also with such consent to abolish or restrict the prepayment in money of postage on letters sent by the post, either altogether or on certain letters, and to require the prepayment thereof to be in stamps, and also to refuse to receive or send by the post any letters tendered contrary to any regulations thereby made. And it is also declared and enacted that in all cases in which the British postage, chargeable on any letters sent by the post, shall exceed the sum of one penny, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury may, by Warrant under their hands, reduce such postage to any other rate of postage, they may from time to time think fit. And also that the Postmaster-General may, if he shall think fit (with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury), allow any printed words, writing, or marks (in addition to the direction), to be put on any printed newspapers or other printed papers sent by the post, or on the covers thereof, and that any such newspapers, or other printed papers shall from thenceforth be forwarded either free of postage or subject to such rates of postage as the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, shall from time to time direct. And it is also declared and enacted that the Postmaster-General and any officer of the Post-office may detain any letters which shall be posted or sent by the post contrary to the regulations of that Act, or the first mentioned Act, or contrary to any regulations made under the authority of that Act, or of the first-mentioned Act, or contrary to the regulations of any Treasury Warrant to be issued under or by virtue of that Act, or which had been or should be issued under or by virtue of the first-mentioned Act, and open such letters, and either return them to the senders thereof or forward them to the places of their destination, charged in either case with such rates of postage as the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall, from time to time, direct.

And whereas the Postmaster-General hath, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, and the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury have, at various times, since the passing of the said two before-mentioned Acts, and in pursuance and in exercise of the powers reserved to them thereby, by divers Warrants under their hands, made and given certain orders, directions, and regulations, relating to the weight, size, and dimensions, and to the rates of postage in conformity with, and under and subject to which, certain printed papers and Parliamentary proceedings therein respectively mentioned were to be, and are, transmitted by the post, and it is expedient that such Warrants, and such orders, directions, regulations, and rates should be altered, repealed, and revoked, and that other orders, directions, regulations, and rates should be made and given, and consolidated and incorporated in one Warrant.

1. Now we, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the powers reserved to us in and by the said two before-mentioned Acts, or either of them, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, do by this Warrant (under the hands of two of us the said Commissioners, by the authority of the statute in that case made and provided), order and direct that the several Warrants and parts of Warrants mentioned and set forth in the Schedule A to this Warrant annexed, and the several orders, directions, regulations, and rates of postage in such several Warrants and parts of Warrants respectively mentioned and set forth, shall cease and determine, and shall be, and the same are, hereby respectively repealed and revoked.

2. And we do further order and direct, that all packets consisting of books, publications, or works of literature or art, whether British, colonial, or foreign, and all packets consisting of printed votes and proceedings of the Imperial Parliament or the Colonial Legislatures, may be transmitted by the post between any part of the United Kingdom and any part of the several places mentioned and set forth in the Schedule B to this Warrant annexed; and that all such respective packets shall be so transmitted in conformity with, and under, and subject to, the several regulations, orders, directions, and conditions hereinafter mentioned and contained; and that, as respects certain of the said places in the said schedule B mentioned, such transmission may also be by the routes mentioned against such places in such schedule; and that the single rate of postage for the transmission thereof shall be that which is mentioned and set forth against the said places respectively in the said Schedule B; and that all such respective packets so transmitted shall be subject to the several progressive and additional rates of postage hereinafter mentioned; that is to say:

On every such packet so transmitted under the provisions of this Warrant as aforesaid, if not exceeding half a pound in weight there shall be charged, taken and paid for the transmission thereof respectively as aforesaid, the uniform single rate of postage which is mentioned and set forth against the said places respectively, in the said schedule B.

And on every such packet exceeding half a pound in weight, there shall be charged, taken, and paid, progressive and additional rates of postage as follows; that is to say:

On every such packet, if exceeding half a pound and not exceeding one pound in weight, two rates of postage.

And on every such packet, if exceeding one pound and not exceeding two pounds in weight, four rates of postage.

And on every such packet, if exceeding two pounds and not exceeding three pounds in weight, six rates of postage.

And for every additional one pound in weight of any such packet above the weight of three pounds, there shall be charged, taken, and paid, two additional rates of postage, and every fractional part of such additional pound shall be charged as an additional pound in weight, and each progressive and additional rate, chargeable under this clause shall be estimated and charged at the sum which any such packet would be charged with under this Warrant, if not exceeding half a pound in weight.

No such packet, which in length or breadth or width, shall exceed the dimensions of two feet shall be forwarded by the post, under the provisions aforesaid.

No such packet, posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to the East Indies or New South Wales, or posted in the East Indies or New South Wales, addressed to the United Kingdom, exceeding the weight of three pounds, shall be forwarded by the post, under the provisions aforesaid.

The terms "books, publications, or works of literature or art" in this Warrant used, shall for the purposes of this Warrant mean and include all books, whether printed, written, or plain; publications or compilations, whether in print or in manuscript, almanacks, prints, maps, whether on paper or canvas or cloth, and whether printed or written, and any description of paper, parchment, or vellum, whether printed, written upon, or plain, together with any binding, mounting, or covering of or upon or belonging to any book or publication or work, or any portion thereof, or of or belonging to any paper, parchment, or vellum, and any cases or rollers of prints or maps, book markers, pencils, pens, or other articles usually appertaining to any such book, publication or work, paper, parchment, or vellum, or necessary for its safe transmission; and that every such packet shall be sent open at the ends or sides and either without a cover, or in a cover or envelope, open at the ends or sides, and that there shall be no letter, either closed or open, nor any enclosure, sealed or otherwise, closed against inspection, sent in or with any such packet, nor shall there be any letter or any communication in the nature of a letter, written or printed on the cover or envelope of any such packet.

Upon every packet transmitted by the post, under the authority of this Warrant, between the United Kingdom, and the several places mentioned and set forth in the said Schedule B, which shall be posted in the United Kingdom, the postage thereof shall be paid at the time of the same being posted, not in money, but by being duly stamped with the proper postage stamp or stamps affixed thereto, which stamp or stamps shall in every case be affixed or appear on the outside of every such packet near the address or direction, and shall be of the value or amount of the postage duty payable thereon under or by virtue of this Warrant, unless any such packet be sent from any department or office in or connected with the public service of Her Majesty, which shall keep a postage account with the General Post-office in London, in which case the same shall be forwarded, post-paid, and the postage thereof shall be charged in such postage account; and upon every such packet which shall be posted in any of the colonies respectively mentioned and set forth in the said Schedule B to this Warrant annexed, the postage thereof shall be paid at the time of the same being posted.

3. And in order to prevent any obstacles to the due and regular transmission of letters by the post, we do further order and direct, that it shall be lawful for any officer of the Post Office to delay the transmission of any packet, posted or forwarded by the post under the provisions of this Warrant, either for the space of twenty-four hours after the time at which the same ought to be dispatched in due course of the post, or (at his option) until the dispatch of the mail next after that by which the same ought in due course of the post to be forwarded by him.

4. And we do further order and direct, that nothing hereinbefore contained shall be construed to interfere with or affect the transmission by the post of printed newspapers or other printed publications which are allowed to pass by the post under the newspaper privilege.

5. And we do further order and direct, that if any packet sent or tendered, or delivered, in order to be sent by the post, under the provisions of this

Warrant, posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to the East Indies or New South Wales, or posted in the East Indies or New South Wales, addressed to the United Kingdom, shall exceed the weight of three pounds, or if any packet sent or tendered, or delivered in order to be sent by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant, between the United Kingdom and the several places mentioned and set forth in the said schedule B, shall, in length, or breadth, or width, exceed the dimensions of two feet ; or if the postage of any such packet, posted in any of the colonies respectively mentioned in the said schedule B, to this Warrant annexed, shall not be duly and properly paid when posted, or if any packet, or the cover or envelope of any packet sent or tendered, or delivered in order to be sent by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant, shall not be open at the ends or sides, or if there shall be any letter, or any communication in the nature of a letter, written or printed on any such cover or envelope, every such respective packet shall and may be detained and opened, and at the option of the Postmaster-General, shall be either returned or given up to the sender thereof, or be given up to the person to whom it shall be addressed, or be forwarded to the place of its destination ; and every such packet on being so returned, given up, or forwarded, shall be chargeable with a postage of double the amount of postage to which it would have been liable as a letter if the postage had been paid when posted, and such double postage may be either paid by the sender, or be charged to the person to whom such packet shall be forwarded.

6. And we do further order and direct, that if any packet sent or tendered, or delivered in order to be sent by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant, between the United Kingdom and the several places mentioned and set forth in the said schedule B, shall contain any letter, whether closed or open, or any enclosure, sealed or otherwise closed against inspection, every such letter or enclosure may be taken out by any officer of the Post Office and forwarded to the address on the packet, charged not only with the full rates of postage equal in amount to the single rate of postage which would be chargeable under the said schedule on a packet not exceeding half a pound in weight, and the remainder of the packet, if the postage be duly paid when posted, may be forwarded to the place of its address without any extra charge.

7. And we do further order and direct, that if any packet sent or tendered, or delivered in order to be sent by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant, respectively between the United Kingdom and the several places mentioned and set forth in the said schedule B (any such packet sent from any department or office in or connected with the public service of Her Majesty, which shall keep a postage account with the General Post Office in London, and the postage thereof being charged in such account, only excepted), shall be posted in the United Kingdom, having thereon or affixed thereto a stamp or stamps, the value of which shall be less in amount than the rate of postage to which such packet would be liable under and by virtue of the several regulations, orders, directions, and conditions hereinbefore contained, but equal in amount to the single rate of postage which would be chargeable under the said schedule, if such packet did not exceed half a pound in weight, every such last-mentioned packet shall be forwarded charged with the amount of the difference between the value of such stamp or stamps so being thereon or affixed thereto, and the postage to which such packet would be liable as aforesaid, together with a further and additional rate of postage, equal in amount to the single rate of postage which would be chargeable under the said schedule on a packet not exceeding half a pound in weight ; but if any such packet shall be posted in the United Kingdom, without having thereon or affixed thereto any postage stamp, or having thereon or affixed thereto a postage stamp or stamps, the value of which shall be less in amount than the single rate of postage chargeable under the said schedule, every such last-mentioned packet shall and may be detained and opened at any place in the United Kingdom, and, at the option of the Postmaster-General, shall be dealt with and chargeable in like manner as is hereinbefore directed with respect to any packet not open at the ends or sides, or exceeding in length or breadth, or width, the dimensions of two feet.

8. And we do further order and direct, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to any packets sent through France, or any other foreign conntry, to which a transit rate of postage would be payable thereon.

9. And we do further order and direct, that the Postmaster-General shall and may have and exercise the option of sending any packets hereby authorized to be sent by the post under the provisions aforesaid, either by packet-boat, or by private ship, at the same rate of postage as by packet-boat, when and as he shall think fit.

10. And we do further order and direct, that the term "by the post," used in this Warrant, or in any schedule hereto annexed, shall, as to the sea conveyance, include the conveyance by any British or Colonial packet-boat, and also by private ship, when sent by the Postmaster-General, in accordance with the provision last hereinbefore contained, and the option thereby given to the Postmaster-General; and that the term "East Indies" used in this Warrant, or in any schedule hereto annexed, shall be construed to mean every port or place in Asia within the limits of the charter of the East India Company (China, Hong Kong, Ceylon, the Mauritius, Java, Borneo, and Australia excepted); and that the several other terms and expressions used in this Warrant or in any schedule hereto annexed, shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty.

11. And we do further order and direct that the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury may, by Warrant under their hands, or the hands of any two of them, at any time hereafter, alter, repeal, or revoke any of the rates of postage hereby fixed or altered, or any of the orders, directions, regulations, and conditions hereby made, and may make and establish any new or other rates, orders, directions, regulations, and conditions in lieu thereof, and from time to time appoint at what time the rates which may be payable are to be paid.

12. And we do further order and direct, that this Warrant shall come into operation on the first day of March next.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JANUARY 26, 1855.

War-Department, January 27, 1855.

HIS Grace the Duke of Newcastle has received a Despatch, of which the following is a copy, addressed to his Grace by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
My Lord Duke, January 13, 1855.

The weather continues very severe, and to-day it blows a gale of wind, with drifting snow.

Although I have not received the official report from the officer commanding the 4th Division, the officer of the Quartermaster-General's department, whose duty it is to visit the advanced posts at daylight, has brought in an account of a sortie made by the Russians in the course of last night upon our right and left attack, the enemy advancing, under protection of a heavy cannonade, along the Woronzow road and the ravine on our extreme left.

The enemy succeeded in driving in the troops in the advanced trench, which was not reoccupied until the reserves were brought forward from the second parallel.

A party in pits on the right of the advanced trench, consisting of 1 serjeant and 13 rank and file, are missing, and 1 officer and 36 privates are stated to be wounded.

The time for the despatch of the mail being at hand, I am very sorry that I shall not be able to send your Grace to-day a more accurate statement of this affair.

I inclose a return of casualties between the 8th and 11th.

Great progress is making in disembarking and issuing to the troops vast quantities of warm clothing of all descriptions, and I believe I may assert that every man in this army has received a second blanket, a jersey frock, flannel drawers, and socks, and some kind of winter coat, in addition to the ordinary great coat.

The provision of fuel is still a great difficulty.

Every effort is making, and with tolerable success, in landing and putting up the huts; their great weight ($2\frac{1}{2}$ tons each) is a serious obstacle to their conveyance to the camp, with our limited transport. Each hut requires three stripped artillery waggons, with from 8 to 10 horses each, or 180 men.

Much sickness continues to prevail.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

His Grace the Duke of Newcastle,
&c. &c. &c.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of FEBRUARY 2, 1855.

War-Department, February, 2, 1855.

HIS Grace the Duke of Newcastle has received a Despatch, of which the following is a copy, addressed to His Grace by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
MY LORD DUKE, January 15, 1855.

The fall of snow has been very great for the last three days, and it is now fully a foot deep; which, I am assured, is a very unusual occurrence in this part of the Crimea.

This circumstance adds materially to our difficulties in obtaining fuel; but detachments of Turks are posted near the coast to bring up wood, which has been cut by parties of our own in the neighbourhood of the Monastery of St. George, to the nearest divisions.

I am happy to say that the number of wounded in the sortie of the Russians, on the night of the 12th instant, was only six instead of thirty-six, as I erroneously stated to your Grace in my Despatch of the 13th, and that it was altogether a less serious affair than was at first reported.

I inclose the return of casualties between the 12th and 14th, inclusive.

Last night the enemy attacked the French advanced trench in considerable force, but were repulsed after a sharp contest and some loss on both sides.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

His Grace the Duke of Newcastle,
&c. &c. &c.

HIS Grace the Duke of Newcastle received on the 24th of November, 1854, from Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B., a Despatch and its Enclosure of which the following are copies:

Before Sevastopol,
October 29, 1854.

My Lord Duke,

I have the honour to transmit to your Grace the copy of a letter from General Canrobert, forwarding a Certificate of Brigadier-General Rose having been wounded in the face by the splinter of a shell, when in attendance upon His Excellency in the trenches, and containing the expression of the estimation in which the Brigadier-General, his Aide-de-Camp Major the Honourable St. George Foley, and Major Claremont, are held by him and the officers with whom they are associated.

I can speak strongly in favour of these three officers; and I trust I may be permitted to avail myself of the present opportunity to state that the Commandeur Vico, who is attached to my Head Quarters, is ever desirous of rendering me any service in his power, and by his zeal, activity, and intelligence, he is enabled to be of essential use in the communications which I am constantly obliged to have with the General-in-Chief and the officers of the French Etat-Major.

It would certainly be most gratifying to me if your Grace would be so kind as to bring under the notice of the Emperor of the French, the high opinion I entertain of Commandeur Vico, and the advantage I derive from his assistance.

I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

His Grace the Duke of Newcastle,
&c. &c. &c.

Permettez-moi d'ajouter à cette pièce officielle l'expression de la haute estime que cet officier-général, le Major Claremont et le Major Foley ont su se concilier parmi nous, par leur bravoure, la droiture de leur caractère, et les services qu'ils nous rendent.

L'Armée Britannique ne saurait être représentée plus dignement auprès de son alliée.

Veuillez agréer, Mylord, l'expression de ma haute considération.

Le Général Commandant en Chef l'Armée Française en Orient.

"I take this opportunity of bringing under your Grace's notice the very great assistance I derived from the services of Captain Rodney Mundy, R.N., during the operations against Bomarsund. This officer was permitted by the Vice-Admiral commanding to accompany me, and I have to express my thanks to Captain Mundy for the very active, able, and zealous manner in which he discharged many important duties which I requested him to undertake; his knowledge of the French language proved extremely useful on many occasions, when communicating with the French authorities."

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

The following extract of a communication addressed to Henry B. Dewey, Esq., United States Consul at Para, Brazil, has been officially communicated to this office by the Department of State, and is published for the information of mariners :

Extract from a communication addressed to the United States Consul at Para, by the Captain of the port of the same, dated November 18th, 1854 :—

Experience having proved that it is much more convenient that the signals heretofore made in the village of Salinas for the vessels which touch at that point to receive pilots should be made near the lighthouse, on account of being more distinctly seen from on board the vessels, the Captain of the port has caused a flag-staff, forty (40) feet in height, to be placed at the distance of fifty-eight (58) fathoms east north-east of the said lighthouse, where the signals will be made with seven (7) different flags, as follows :

No. 1. A red flag, with white swallow-tail.
2. A white flag, with a blue cross through it.
3. A flag, upper half red, lower half white.
4. A flag, all blue.
5. A flag, inner half white, outer half red.
6. A flag, blue and white chequered.
7. A flag, red and white chequered.

No. 1 signifies to vessels arriving at Salinas that a pilot is there, and a boat to take him on board.

No. 2, that the pilot goes on board immediately.

No. 3, that the tide will not allow the pilot to embark.

No. 4, that the pilot will go on board before noon.

No. 5, that the pilot will go after noon.

No. 6, that the pilot will go on board before midnight.

No. 7, that the pilot will go on board after midnight.

When from on board the vessels a bonfire is seen in the village of Salinas, it is understood that there is a pilot, and a boat to take him on board as soon as the tide will allow. When two bonfires are seen it is a signal that there is a pilot but no boat to take him on board. When no bonfire is seen during the night in the village, the vessel having appeared during the day, it signifies that there is no pilot at the station.

Vessels which arrive off that station wishing a pilot, should hoist a red flag at either the fore or mainmast head, but never at the peak.

When on board the vessels it is known by the signals made on shore that the tide will not allow the pilot to go off, vessels not wishing to anchor in six or seven fathoms, keeping the lighthouse bearing south-east, should lie off and on, standing out during the flood and in shore during the ebb tide.

Vessels being north-west from the light, can receive pilots more promptly than in any other position. The pilots embark at high water, which, at the full and change of the moon, is, on the coast, at thirty minutes past seven (7h. 30m.), and at the place where the vessel should anchor, fifteen minutes past eight o'clock (8h. 15m.)

For information between the village of Salinas and the lighthouse, two flags will be used at the said village; one of which is all white, and the other red with a white square in the centre.

The white flag hoisted on the staff in the village signifies that there is both pilot and boat.

The red flag with white square signifies that there is a pilot but no boat.

The two flags together are a signal that there is no pilot at the station.

Masters of vessels need pay no attention to these last named signals, as they are merely made for the information of the keeper of the light, who also has charge of the signals.

HIS Grace the Duke of Newcastle received last night a Despatch, of which the following is a copy, addressed to his Grace by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
January 23, 1855.

My Lord Duke,

Nothing has occurred of importance in our front; but the enemy has occasionally opened a fire upon our left attack, and Mr. Spalding, a fine young man, an Acting Mate of Her Majesty's ship, London, and in charge of the battery, was unfortunately killed by a round shot the day before yesterday.

His loss is deeply deplored. I enclose the return of casualties to the 21st instant.

The weather has become milder; but the country is still in a dreadful state from melted snow.

The Army is well supplied with warm clothing, and if the Commissariat were adequately provided with transport, and the huts could be at once brought up, there would be no other cause of suffering than the severity of a Crimean winter, and the duties imposed of carrying on a siege in such a climate at this season of the year.

I have, &c.,

LONDON GAZETTE of FEBRUARY 9, 1855.

War-Department, February 7, 1855.

HIS Grace the Duke of Newcastle has received a Despatch and its Enclosure, of which the following are copies, addressed to his Grace by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B. :

Before Sevastopol,
MY LORD DUKE, January 16, 1855.

I have the honour to lay before your Grace the copy of a Despatch from Lieutenant-Colonel Simmons, which he wrote by desire of Omer Pasha, expressing his Highness' approbation of the services of Major Bent, of the Royal Engineers, and the detachment of Sappers which I lent him in the summer ; his regret at the loss of Lieutenant Burke, of the Royal Engineers, and his high sense of the conduct and exertions of Lieutenant Glyn, of the Royal Navy, of His Serene Highness Prince Ernest of Saxe Leiningen, and of the detachment of Seamen of Her Majesty's Fleet, employed in the construction of the bridge across the Danube, the success of which he attributes in a great measure to their well-planned dispositions.

Colonel Simmons, your Grace will perceive, has further been desired by Omer Pasha to say that it would be very gratifying to him if Her Majesty should be graciously pleased to reward these Officers for the able services they have rendered to the Ottoman Army and the common cause.

I think it right to mention that the Honourable Major Gage, of the Royal Horse Artillery, was the officer who conducted these detachments to Roustchouk from Varna. I appointed him to this duty, having previously sent him to examine the armament at the former place, and being satisfied that the employment of his services on the occasion would be advantageous.

I beg your Grace will be so good as to obtain Her Majesty's permission for Private Andrew Anderson, of the Royal Sappers and Miners, to accept and wear the decoration of the 4th class of the Order of Medjidie, in consideration of his distinguished gallantry.

I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

His Grace the Duke of Newcastle,
&c. &c. &c.

Enclosure.

My Lord, Varna, January 8, 1855.

His Highness Omer Pasha has requested me to write to your Lordship, to return his best thanks for the services rendered to his army by Major Bent, of the Royal Engineers, and the detachment of Sappers under his command.

His Highness desires me to express his regret at the losses which have been sustained by this small detachment, who, under the direction of Major Bent, have well sustained the character of the British Army.

His Highness has already expressed to your Lordship his regret at the loss of Lieutenant Burke, of the Royal Engineers, who his Highness considers to have been an officer of much merit.

His Highness desires me to inform your Lordship that he has done himself the honour to write to the Turkish Ambassador at the Court of St. James', expressing the desire of His Majesty the Sultan that Private Andrew Anderson, of the Royal Sappers and Miners, may receive and wear the decoration of the 4th class of the order of Medjidie, in commemoration of his gallantry in recovering the body of Lieutenant Burke, after he was killed at the passing of the Danube on the 12th of July last. In the meantime, he has presented Private Anderson with the decoration, and trusts your Lordship will allow him to wear it until the commands of Her Majesty may be received.

His Highness further desires me to express to your Lordship his entire approbation of the manner in which Major Bent has conducted his duties.

He desires me to inform your Lordship that this officer showed great energy in his endeavours to enter Silistria before the siege was raised ; that he subsequently showed great gallantry at the passage of the Danube, when he was the first to land on the left bank, and covered the landing of the Turkish troops with a detachment of riflemen, who maintained their ground under a very heavy fire until the disembarkation of the supports was effected.

Major Bent and his Sappers were subsequently of great service in throwing up the tête de pont at Georgevo, and in the construction of the bridge across the Danube.

His Highness desires to take this opportunity of expressing to your Lordship his high sense of the services rendered by Lieutenant Glyn, R.N., and H.S.H. Prince Ernest of Saxe Leiningen, with the detachment of sailors of Her Majesty's fleet under their command, in the construction of the bridge across the Danube.

His Highness considers that the success of the construction of this bridge is in great measure attributable to their well-planned dispositions, which, although executed with limited means, proved fully effective to resist the storms and strong currents of the Danube.

He desires me to say that he is fully satisfied with the zeal and indefatigable energy of this detachment of Her Majesty's fleet under the able direction of Lieutenant Glyn, whom he considers a very promising officer, and entirely worthy of the confidence of your Lordship.

His Highness desires me to add, that it would be very gratifying to him if Her Majesty could in some way reward these officers for the able services they have rendered to the Ottoman army and the common cause.

I am, &c.,

(Signed) J. L. A. SIMMONS,
Lieutenant-Colonel.

Field-Marshal Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

By the QUEEN.

CHAPTER of the Most Noble Order of the Garter.—ELECTION and INVESTITURE of the EARLS of CARLISLE, ELLESMERE and ABERDEEN.

At the Court at Windsor Castle, 7th February, 1855.

A Chapter of the Most Noble Order of the Garter having been summoned for this day, the Knights Companions hereafter named, in their mantles and collars, assembled in St. George's Hall, viz.:

The Marquess of Exeter, the Duke of Buccleugh, the Marquess of Lansdowne, the Marquess of Salisbury, Earl De Grey, the Marquess of Abercorn, the Duke of Bedford, the Earl of Clarendon, Earl of Spencer, and Earl Fitzwilliam, attended by the Officers of the Order, viz.:

The Lord Bishop of Winchester, Prelate; the Lord Bishop of Oxford, Chancellor; the Honourable and Reverend Gerald Wellesley, Dean of Windsor, Register; Sir Charles George Young, Knight, Garter; and Sir Augustus William James Clifford, Baronet, Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod.

At three o'clock the Knights Companions were called over by Garter, when (Her Majesty and His Royal Highness the Prince Albert having passed into the Throne Room) they proceeded, with the Officers of the Order, through the Grand Reception Room into the Throne Room, the Register remaining at the door, not having been sworn.

The Chancellor then signified to the Sovereign, the Honourable and Reverend Gerald Wellesley, Dean of Windsor, attended at the door, and humbly prayed to be admitted to take the Oath of Office as Register of this Most Noble Order; whereupon, by Her Majesty's command, the Register, wearing his mantle, was introduced between Garter and Black Rod, the former carrying on a velvet cushion the gold chain and badge of the office of Register. The Register, kneeling on the left hand of the Sovereign, and holding in his hand the Holy Gospels, the Oath was administered to him by the Chancellor; and he was then invested by the Sovereign with the gold chain and badge of his office; and having had the honour to kiss Her Majesty's hand, retired to his place at the bottom of the table.

The Chancellor then signified to the Chapter Her Majesty's royal will and pleasure, that the vacant Stalls in the Royal Chapel of Saint George, at Windsor, be filled; and as by the Statutes none but a Knight can be elected, the Right Honourable George William Frederick, Earl of Carlisle, was introduced by Garter and Black Rod, and knighted by Her Majesty with the sword of state; and his Lordship, having kissed the Sovereign's hand, retired.

The Right Honourable Francis, Earl of Ellesmere, was next introduced, and having been knighted, with the same ceremony, retired.

The Knights Companions then proceeded to the elections, and the suffrages having been collected by the Chancellor, were by him presented to the Sovereign, who commanded him to declare, and he accordingly did declare, that the Right Honourable George William Frederick, Earl of Carlisle, had been duly elected a Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter.

Then, by the Sovereign's command, His Lordship was received at the door of the Chapter-room by Earl Spencer and Earl Fitzwilliam, the two junior Knights Companions present, and conducted between them to Her Majesty, preceded by Garter (bearing the ensigns of the Order upon a crimson velvet cushion), and by Black Rod. The Earl of Carlisle, kneeling near the Sovereign, Garter on his knee presented the Garter; and Her Majesty, assisted by His Royal Highness Prince Albert and the Marquess of Exeter, the two senior Knights Companions present, buckled it on his Lordship's left leg, the Chancellor pronouncing the usual admonition.

Garter next presented, in like manner, the Ribband and George; and Her Majesty, assisted as before, put the same over his Lordship's left shoulder, the Chancellor pronouncing the admonition. The Earl of Carlisle then again kissed Her Majesty's hand; and having received the congratulations of each of the Knights Companions, retired.

The Chapter then proceeded to a Second Election, and the suffrages having been collected by the Chancellor, were presented to the Sovereign, when the Right Honourable Francis, Earl of Ellesmere, was, by Her Majesty's command, declared duly elected, and his Lordship was introduced and invested with the Garter and the Ribband and George with the like ceremony.

The Chapter then proceeded to a Third Election, and the suffrages having been collected by the Chancellor, were presented to the Sovereign, when the Right Honourable George, Earl of Aberdeen (Knight of the Most Ancient and Most Noble Order of the Thistle), was, by Her Majesty's command, declared duly elected, and his Lordship was introduced and invested with the Garter and the Ribband and George with the like ceremony.

The Chapter being ended, Garter, by Her Majesty's command, again called over the Knights Companions, who, with the Officers of the Order, retired from the presence of the Sovereign with the usual reverence.

At the Court at Windsor Castle, February 7, 1855.

The Queen, as Sovereign of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, has been graciously pleased, by letters patent under her royal sign manual and the Great Seal of the Order, bearing date this day, to dispense with all the statutes and regulations usually observed in regard to installations, and to grant unto the Right Honourable George William Frederick, Earl of Carlisle, the Right Honourable Francis, Earl of Ellesmere, and the Right Honourable George, Earl of Aberdeen, Knights of the said Most Noble Odrer, and duly invested with the ensigns thereof, full power and authority to exercise all rights and privileges belonging to a Knight Companion of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, in as full and ample a manner as if they had been formally installed, any decree, rule, or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

At the Court at Windsor, the 8th day of February, 1855.

The QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty in Council was pleased to order, with reference to the representation of one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, that burials be discontinued, from and after the seventeenth of February, in Union Chapel and Burial-ground, Brixton Hill, in the parish of STREATHAM.

War-Department, February 12, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Grace the Duke of Newcastle, by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord Duke, January 27, 1855.

I have the satisfaction to acquaint your Grace that the weather continues fine. There are severe frosts at night; but the sun shines brightly through the day, and there is an absence of wind, which, whilst it continued, added considerably to the sufferings of the troops.

Every exertion is making by public transport, and individually, in getting huts up; but this is a most difficult operation, and the ground is still so rotten that it is a most arduous labour to pass along it.

The extremely confined space of Balaklava, and the vast accumulation of stores, has obliged me to erect huts at some distance outside the town for their reception.

I inclose the lists of casualties to the 25th instant inclusive.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

His Grace the Duke of Newcastle,

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of FEBRUARY 13, 1855.

Lord Chamberlain's Office, February 14, 1855.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the Court Mourning, which would have terminated to-morrow, will be prolonged another week for His late Royal Highness the Duke of Genoa, brother of His Majesty the King of Sardinia.

The Court will go out of Mourning on Thursday, the 22nd instant.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of FEBRUARY 16, 1855.

War-Department, February 16, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch, of which the following is a copy, addressed to His Grace the Duke of Newcastle, by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
February 3, 1855.

My Lord Duke,

Nothing has occurred in front of the British lines since I wrote to your Grace on the 27th January.

Before daylight, on the morning of the 1st, the enemy made a vigorous sortie on the most advanced works of the French right; they were repulsed, after a sharp contest, in the most gallant manner by our Ally, who, however, sustained some loss.

The weather, which had latterly been fine, broke yesterday; and, after a rainy evening, there was a fall of snow during the night, and there is again a frost with an exceedingly cold wind.

The materials for the railway continue to arrive, but I fear it will not be possible for me to supply the amount of military labour which Mr. Beatty would seem to require.

Nearly two hundred Croatians, who were hired at Constantinople, have arrived, and been handed over to him, and more are expected, and, as a matter of experiment, I have obtained four hundred Tartars from Eupatoria.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) RAGLAN.

His Grace the Duke of Newcastle,
&c. &c. &c.

The Earl of Clarendon has received a Despatch from Her Majesty's Ambassador at Paris, dated February 4, 1855, of which the following is an extract:

"I have the honour to enclose a copy of a Note which I received yesterday evening from Monsieur Drouyn de Lhuys, eulogizing the services rendered by Major-General Rose, and Majors Claremont and Foley, not only to the common cause in which they are engaged, but to General Canrobert personally in his communications with his own troops."

(Copy.)

Monsieur l'Ambassadeur,

Déjà M. le Maréchal de St. Arnaud avait cru devoir, après la bataille de l'Alma, faire connaître au Gouvernement de l'Empereur combien il avait eu à se louer de la conduite de trois Officiers de l'Armée Britannique, attachés à divers titres au Quartier-Général de l'Armée Française,—M. le Brigadier-Général Hugh Rose, M. le Major Stopford Claremont, Commissaires de la Reine, et M. le Major George Foley, Aide-de-Camp du Général Rose. M. le Général Canrobert vient à son tour de signaler en termes trop honorables à M. le Ministre de la Guerre les services que continuent à rendre ces Officiers, pour que nous ne considérions pas comme une obligation de transmettre ce témoignage au Gouvernement de la Reine. M. le Général Canrobert en écrivant, en effet, que ces Officiers se sont constamment fait remarqués par la bravoure qu'ils ont déployée en face de l'ennemi dans les deux batailles de l'Alma et d'Inkermann, aussi bien que dans les opérations du siège de Sébastopol, ajoute qu'il a été conduit par le dévouement avec lequel ils servent, par la parfaite intelligence qu'ils ont de tous les détails de la guerre, à ne plus faire aucune distinction entre eux et les Officiers de son Etat-Major, et à les employer absolument comme ces derniers pour les missions les plus difficiles. Je ne puis trop, dit M. le Général Canrobert, qui a vu M. le Brigadier-Général Rose blessé à ses côtés dans la tranchée, rendre hommage à l'excellente attitude de ces Officiers, qui sont entourés de l'estime générale dans notre armée où ils ont glorieusement conquis droit d'être cité.

C'est, vous n'en douterez pas, M. l'Ambassadeur, avec une vive satisfaction que je viens prier votre Excellence de faire savoir au Gouvernement de la Reine à quel point notre Commandant-en-Chef apprécie les services rendus par MM. Hugh Rose, Stopford Claremont, et George Foley, soit comme militaires, soit comme intermédiaires des cordiales et parfaites relations qui existent entre les deux armées.

Convention between Her Majesty and the King of the Belgians, for the Establishment of International Copyright.

Signed at London, August 12, 1854.

[Ratifications exchanged at London, January 24, 1855.]

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and His Majesty the King of the Belgians, being equally desirous of extending in each country the enjoyment of copyright to works of literature and of the fine arts which may be first published in the other; and Her Britannic Majesty having consented to extend to books, prints, and musical works published in Belgium that reduction of the duties now levied thereon on importation into the United Kingdom, which she is by law empowered to grant, under certain circumstances, in favour of such works published in foreign countries; Her Britannic Majesty and His Majesty the King of the Belgians have deemed it expedient to conclude a special convention for that purpose, and have therefore named as their Plenipotentiaries, that is to say:—

Her Majesty the Queen of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, the Right Honourable George William Frederick, Earl of Clarendon, Baron Hyde of Hindon, a Peer of the United Kingdom, a Member of Her Britannic Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath, Her Britannic Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs ; and the Right Honourable Edward Cardwell, a Member of Her Britannic Majesty's Most Honourable Privy Council, a Member of Parliament, and President of the Committee of Privy Council for Affairs of Trade and Foreign Plantations ;

And His Majesty the King of the Belgians, the Sieur Sylvan Van de Weyer, His Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to Her Britannic Majesty, decorated with the Iron Cross, Commander of the Order of Leopold, Grand Cross of the Order of Charles III of Spain, of the Order of the Ernestine Branch of Saxony, of the Tower and Sword, of St. Maurice and St. Lazarus, Commander of the Legion of Honour, &c. ;

Who, after having communicated to each other their respective full powers, found in good and due form, have agreed upon the following Articles:

ARTICLE I.

From and after the date on which, according to the provisions of Article XV, the present Convention shall come into operation, the authors of works of literature or of art, to whom the laws of either of the two countries do now or may hereafter give the right of property or copyright, shall be entitled to exercise that right in the territories of the other of such countries for the same term, and to the same extent, as the authors of works of the same nature, if published in such other country, would therein be entitled to exercise such right; so that the republication or piracy in either country of any work of literature or of art published in the other shall be dealt with in the same manner as the republication or piracy of a work of the same nature first published in such other country; and so that such authors in the one country shall have the same remedies before the courts of justice in the other country, and shall enjoy in that other country the same protection against piracy and unauthorized republication, as the law now does or may hereafter grant to authors in that country.

The terms "works of literature or of art," employed at the beginning of this Article, shall be understood to comprise publications of books, of dramatic works, of musical compositions, of drawing, of painting, of sculpture, of engraving, of lithography, and of any other works whatsoever of literature and of the fine arts.

The lawful representatives or assigns of authors, translators, composers, painters, sculptors, or engravers, shall, in all respects, enjoy the same rights which by the present Convention are granted to the authors, translators, composers, painters, sculptors, or engravers themselves.

ARTICLE II.

The protection granted to original works is extended to translations; it being, however, clearly understood that the intention of the present Article is simply to protect a translator in respect of his own translation, and that it is not intended to confer upon the first translator of any work the exclusive right of translating that work, except in the case and to the extent provided for in the following Article.

ARTICLE III.

The author of any work published in either of the two countries, who may choose to reserve the right of translating it, shall, until the expiration of five years from the date of the first publication of the translation thereof authorized by him, be, in the following cases, entitled to protection from the publication in the other country of any translation of such work not so authorised by him ;

§ 1. If the original work shall have been registered and deposited in the one country within three months after its first publication in the other.

§ 2. If the author has notified on the title-page of his work his intention to reserve the right of translating it.

§ 3. Provided always, that at least a part of the authorized translation shall have appeared within a year after the registration and deposit of the original, and that the whole shall have been published within three years after the date of such deposit.

§ 4. And provided that the publication of the translation shall take place within one of the two countries, and that it shall be registered and deposited according to the provisions of Article VIII.

With regard to works which are published in parts, it will be sufficient if the declaration of the author that he reserves the right of translation, shall appear in the first part. But with reference to the period of five years limited by this Article for the exercise of the exclusive right of translation, each part shall be treated as a separate work, and each part shall be registered and deposited in the one country within three months after its first publication in the other.

ARTICLE IV.

The stipulations of the preceding Articles shall also be applicable to the representation of dramatic works, and to the performance of musical compositions, in so far as the laws of each of the two countries are or shall be applicable in this respect to dramatic and musical works first publicly represented or performed therein.

In order, however, to entitle the author to legal protection in regard to the translation of a dramatic work, such translation must appear within three months after the registration and deposit of the original.

It is understood that the protection stipulated by the present Article is not intended to prohibit fair imitations, or adaptations of dramatic works to the stage in England and Belgium respectively, but is only meant to prevent piratical translations.

The question whether a work is an imitation or a piracy, shall in all cases be decided by the courts of justice of the respective countries, according to the laws in force in each.

ARTICLE V.

Notwithstanding the stipulations of Articles I and II of the present Convention, articles extracted from newspapers or periodicals published in either of the two countries, may be republished or translated in the newspapers or periodicals of the other country, provided the source from whence such articles are taken be acknowledged.

Nevertheless, such permission shall not be construed to authorize the republication in one of the two countries, of articles from newspapers or periodicals published in the other country, the authors of which shall have notified in a conspicuous manner in the journal or periodical in which such articles have appeared, that they forbid the republication thereof.

This last stipulation shall not, however, apply to articles of political discussion.

ARTICLE VI.

The introduction, circulation, sale, and exhibition, in either of the two countries, of unauthorized republications of works or articles defined in the preceding Articles I, II, III, IV, are prohibited, whether such unauthorized republications originate in either of the two countries, or whether they originate in any foreign country.

ARTICLE VII.

In the event of an infraction of the provisions of the foregoing Articles, the pirated works or articles shall be seized and destroyed; and the persons who may have committed such infraction shall be liable in each country to the penalties and actions which are or may be prescribed by the laws of that country for such offences, committed in respect of a work or production of home origin.

ARTICLE VIII.

Neither authors nor translators, nor their lawful representatives or assigns, shall be entitled in either country to the protection stipulated by the preceding Articles, nor shall copyright be claimable in either country, unless the work shall have been registered in the manner following, that is to say:

1. If the work be one that has first appeared in Belgium, it must be registered at the Hall of the Company of Stationers in London.

2. If the work be one that has first appeared in the dominions of Her Britannic Majesty, it must be registered at the office of the Minister of the Interior at Brussels.

No person shall be entitled to such protection as aforesaid, unless he shall have duly complied with the laws and regulations of the respective countries in regard to the work in respect of which such protection may be claimed. With regard to books, maps, and prints, and also with regard to dramatic works and musical publications, unless such dramatic works and musical publications shall be in manuscript only, no person shall be entitled to such protection unless he shall have delivered gratuitously, at one or other of the places mentioned above, as the case may be, one copy of the best edition, or in the best state, in order to its being deposited at the place appointed for that purpose in each of the two countries, that is to say, in Great Britain, at the British Museum at London; and in Belgium, at the Royal Library at Brussels.

In every case, the formality of deposit and registration must be fulfilled within three months after the first publication of the work in the other country. With regard to works published in parts, each part shall be treated as a separate work.

A certified copy of the entry in the Register Book of the Company of Stationers in London, shall confer, within the British dominions, the exclusive right of republication, until a better right shall have been established by any other party before a court of justice.

The certificate given under the laws of Belgium, proving the registration of any work in that country, shall be valid for the same purpose throughout the territories of the Kingdom of Belgium.

A certificate or certified copy of the registration of any work so registered in either country shall, if required, be delivered at the time of registration; and such certificate shall state the exact date at which the registration was made.

The charge for the registration of a single work, under the stipulations of this Article, shall not exceed one shilling in England, nor one franc and twenty-five centimes in Belgium; and the further charge for a certificate of such registration shall not exceed the sum of five shillings in England, nor six francs and twenty-five centimes in Belgium.

The provisions of this Article shall not extend to articles which may appear in newspapers or periodicals; which shall be protected from republication or translation simply by a notice from the author, as prescribed by Article V. But if any article or work, which has originally appeared in a newspaper or periodical, shall afterwards be published in a separate form, it shall then become subject to the stipulations of the present Article.

ARTICLE IX.

With regard to any work of literature or of art, other than books, prints, maps, and musical publications, in respect to which protection may be claimable under Article I of the present Convention, it is agreed, that any other mode of registration than that prescribed in the preceding Article, which is or may be applicable by law in one of the two countries to any work or article first published in such country, for the purpose of affording protection to copyright in such work or article, shall be extended on equal terms to any similar work or article, first published in the other country.

ARTICLE X.

During the continuance of this Convention, the duties now payable upon the lawful importation into the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland of books, prints, drawings, or musical works, published throughout the territories of the Kingdom of Belgium, shall be reduced to and fixed at the rates hereinafter specified; that is to say:

	s.	d.
1. On books and musical works, the cwt. -	15	0
2. On prints or drawings, coloured or plain, the lb. - - - - -	0	1½

It is agreed that the rates of duty above specified shall not be raised during the continuance of the present Convention; and that if hereafter, during the continuance of this Convention, any reduction of those rates should be made in favour of books, prints, drawings, or musical works published in any other country, such reduction shall be at the same time extended to similar articles published in Belgium.

During the continuance of the present Convention the duties now payable on the lawful importation into Belgium, of books, musical works, prints, and maps or charts published throughout the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, shall be reduced to and fixed at the uniform rate of ten francs the hundred kilogrammes.

ARTICLE XI.

It is agreed that no books shall, for the purposes of this Convention, so far as relates to the rate of duty at which such books are to be entered, be deemed to have been published in Belgium, except such as appear by their title-page to have been published at some town or place within the dominions of Belgium.

ARTICLE XII.

In order to facilitate the execution of the present Convention, the two High Contracting Parties engage to communicate to each other the laws and regulations which may hereafter be established in their respective territories, with respect to copyright in works or productions protected by the stipulations of the present Convention.

ARTICLE XIII.

The stipulations of the present Convention shall in no way affect the right which each of the two High Contracting Parties expressly reserves to itself, of controlling and of prohibiting, by measures of legislation or of internal police, the sale, circulation, representation, or exhibition of any work or production, in regard to which either country may deem it expedient to exercise that right.

ARTICLE XIV.

Nothing in this Convention shall be construed to affect the right of either of the two High Contracting Parties to prohibit the importation into its own dominions, of such books as, by its internal law, or under engagements with other States, are or may be declared to be piracies, or infringements of copyright.

ARTICLE XV.

The present Convention shall come into operation as soon as possible after the exchange of the ratifications. Due notice shall be given beforehand in each country, by the Government of that country, of the day which may be fixed upon for that purpose, and the stipulations of the Convention shall be applicable only to works and articles published, and to dramatic works or musical compositions represented or executed for the first time in either of the two countries, after the Convention shall have come into operation.

The Convention shall continue in force for ten years from the day on which it may come into operation ; and if neither Contracting Party shall, twelve months before the expiration of the said period of ten years, give notice of its intention to terminate its operation, the Convention shall continue in force for a year longer, and so on from year to year, until the expiration of a year's notice from either Contracting Party for its termination.

The High Contracting Parties, however, reserve to themselves the power of making by common consent, in this Convention, any modifications which may not be inconsistent with its spirit and principles, and which experience of its working may show to be desirable.

ARTICLE XVI.

The present Convention shall be ratified, and the ratifications shall be exchanged at London as soon as may be within six months from the date of signature.

In witness whereof the respective Plenipotentiaries have signed the same, and have affixed thereto the seals of their arms.

Done at London, the twelfth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty-four.

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time, by Warrant, under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British or Inland postage, payable by law, on the transmission by the post of foreign or colonial letters, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof.

And whereas further powers are given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury by an Act, passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post, and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the post office."

And whereas it is expedient to alter the rates of postage on the letters hereinafter mentioned.

Now we, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the powers vested in us in and by the said before-mentioned Acts, or either of them, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, do, by this Warrant (under the hands of two of us the said Commissioners by the authority of the Statute in that case made and provided), order and direct, that on every letter not exceeding one quarter of an ounce in weight, posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to Mersinà, Alexandretta, Latakia, Tripoli (in Syria), or Jaffa, or posted at Mersinà, Alexandretta, Latakia, Tripoli (in Syria), or Jaffa, addressed to the United Kingdom, and transmitted by the post between any place in the United Kingdom and Mersinà, Alexandretta, Latakia, Tripoli (in Syria), or Jaffa, viâ France (the sea conveyance in the Mediterranean being by French packet boats), there shall be charged, taken, and paid, in lieu of any rates of postage now payable by law on such respective letters, an uniform British rate of postage of two pence.

And we direct that on every letter, transmitted as is hereinbefore mentioned, exceeding a quarter of an ounce in weight there shall be charged, taken, and paid, in lieu of any rates of postage now payable by law on such respective letters progressive and additional rates of postage as follows (that is to say):

On every letter exceeding a quarter of an ounce in weight, and not exceeding half an ounce in weight, two rates of postage.

On every letter exceeding half an ounce in weight, and not exceeding three-quarters of an ounce in weight, three rates of postage.

On every letter exceeding three quarters of an ounce in weight, and not exceeding one ounce in weight, four rates of postage.

And for every quarter of an ounce in weight above the weight of one ounce, there shall be charged and taken one additional rate of postage, and every fraction of a quarter of an ounce above the weight of one ounce, shall be charged as an additional quarter of an ounce, and each progressive and additional rate chargeable under this clause shall be estimated and charged at the sum which any such letter would be charged with under the provisions hereinbefore contained, if not exceeding one quarter of an ounce in weight.

And we do further order and direct that nothing herein contained, shall be construed in anywise to annul, prejudice, or affect, any of the exemptions and privileges granted by the said recited Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, nor to annul, prejudice, or affect, any of the privileges which seamen and soldiers employed in Her Majesty's service, and seamen and soldiers employed in the service of the East India Company, now by law enjoy, of sending and receiving by the post, letters not exceeding half an ounce in weight, subject to the regulations and restrictions in respect of the same, nor to annul, prejudice, or affect, any privileges under which printed newspapers, or other printed papers, are now allowed to pass by the post, or to repeal, alter, or affect, the provisions of a certain Warrant, under the hands of two of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, bearing date the 17th day of May, 1854, as to certain letters transmitted by the post, between the United Kingdom and any port or place in Turkey, or the Black Sea.

And we do further order and direct, that the several terms and expressions used in this Warrant, shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects, as they would have had if inserted in the said Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty.

Provided lastly, and we hereby declare and direct that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by Warrant under their hands, at any time hereafter to alter any of the regulations hereby made, and to make and establish any new or other regulations, in lieu thereof.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to his Grace the Duke of Newcastle, by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
February 6, 1855.

My Lord Duke,

I mentioned to your Grace on Saturday that the weather had broken. The frost was very severe on that night, and the thermometer down at thirteen, and the wind was very high and piercingly cold.

Sunday was rather milder, and yesterday was fine. To-day the glass has fallen, and there is every appearance of rain.

I am happy to state that the Medical Officers consider that the general condition of the men has improved, although apparently there is no diminution in the number of the sick.

The enemy has made no movement of importance, but great convoys of wagons have been observed to go into Sevastopol, laden either with ammunition or provisions.

I enclose the casualties to the 4th instant.

Lieutenant-Colonel Collingwood Dickson, of the Royal Artillery, an excellent officer, whom I have before had occasion to bring to your notice, was slightly wounded on the 4th instant, when making a reconnaissance in company with some French officers.

(Copy.) (Translation.)

Light-house on the Coast of Spain, in the Ocean.

Information having been received in this Department, through the Minister of Marine, by a communication from the Minister of Public Works, referring to the erection of a new Light-house on the coast of the Spanish Peninsula, by the Corps of Engineers of Roads, Canals, and Ports, the following notice has been drawn up for public information :—

Light-house of Mount Igueldo, Province of Guipuzcoa.

A new light will be exhibited every night, from sunset to sunrise, on Mount Igueldo, Port of San Sebastian, on and after the 15th day of March next. This new Light-house will substitute the light, kindled during the winter, from the Castle of La Mota.

The new Light-house is situated to the west of the Bay of San Sebastian, in latitude 43° 19′ 28″ N., longitude 4° 11′ 50″ E. of the meridian of the Observatory of San Fernando.

The apparatus is catadioptric, grand model of the 3rd order, producing a fixed light of natural colour, variegated by brilliant flashes every two minutes, and may be seen at a distance of 15 miles and less, according to the state of the atmosphere.

The luminous focus is elevated 468 Castilian feet above the level of the sea.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of FEBRUARY 23, 1855.

War-Department, February 23, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to his Grace the Duke of Newcastle, by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
February 10, 1855.

My Lord Duke,

I have nothing material or important to report to your Grace since I addressed you on the 6th.

There was rain yesterday and the day before, and in the course of last night there was a considerable fall of snow, which remains on the ground; but it does not freeze, and the country is again saturated with wet.

It is reported from the front that great activity prevails in the town and harbour of Sevastopol.

Large convoys of apparently sick men were observed to be moving out of the place, and numerous carts, with one horse, to be coming in.

The enemy appear to be breaking up hulks in the Arsenal Creek, and to be using the material for platforms and chevaux de frise at the battery "du Mat."

We are proceeding with the armament of the works on the right.

The health of the troops continues to improve in some slight degree. They are amply supplied with warm clothing and with provisions.

Forage is our only want, and this arises chiefly from the Commissary-General not receiving from England the supplies of hay upon which he has reckoned.

I inclose the return of casualties to the 8th instant.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

His Grace the Duke of Newcastle,
&c. &c. &c.

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the powers reserved to them, in and by a certain Act of Parliament, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituted "An Act for the regulation of the duties of Postage," and a certain other Act of Parliament, passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for giving further facilities for the transmission of Letters by Post, and for the regulating the duties of Postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the Post Office," did by a certain Warrant in writing, under the hands of two of them, the said Commissioners, by the authority of the statute in that case made and provided, bearing date the twenty-third day of January now last past, make and give certain orders, directions, regulations, conditions, and certain rates of postage, in conformity with, and under and subject to which, packets consisting of books, publications, or works of literature or art, whether British, Colonial, or Foreign, and packets consisting of printed votes and proceedings of the Imperial Parliament, or the Colonial Legislatures, may be transmitted by the post between any part of the United Kingdom, and any part of the several places therein mentioned.

And whereas the said Commissioners did, in and by the said Warrant in writing, order and direct that the said Warrant should come into operation on the first day of March next.

And whereas one of the clauses and provisions contained in the said Warrant, and numbered six in the said Warrant, was and is in the words following; that is to say: "And we do further order and direct, that if any packet sent, or tendered or delivered in order to be sent, by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant, between the United Kingdom and the several places mentioned and set forth in the said Schedule B, shall contain any letter, whether closed or open, or any enclosure, sealed or otherwise closed against inspection, every such letter or enclosure may be taken out by any officer of the Post Office, and forwarded to the address on the packet, charged not only with the full rates of postage, equal in amount to the single rate of postage which would be chargeable under the said Schedule, on a packet not exceeding half a pound in weight, and the remainder of the packet, if the postage be duly paid when posted, may be forwarded to the place of its address without any extra charge."

And whereas it is expedient to repeal and revoke such last-mentioned clause and provision, and to substitute for the same the clause and provision hereinafter mentioned and contained.

Now, we the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the powers reserved to us, in and by the said two before-mentioned Acts of Parliament, or either of them, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, do by this Warrant (under the hands of two of us, the said Commissioners, by the authority of the statute in that case made and provided), order and direct that so much of the said Warrant, bearing date the twenty-third day of January now last past, and so much of the orders, directions, and rates of postage respectively, as is and are contained in clause six of the said Warrant, and is and are in the words hereinbefore in that behalf mentioned, recited, and set forth, shall be, and the same is and are hereby repealed and revoked.

And we do hereby further order and direct, that if any packet sent, or tendered, or delivered, in order to be sent by the post under the provisions of the said recited Warrant, bearing date the twenty-third day of January now last past, between the United Kingdom and the several places mentioned and set forth in the Schedule B to the said Warrant annexed, shall contain any letter, whether closed or open, or any enclosure, sealed or otherwise closed against inspection, every such letter or enclosure may be taken out by any officer of the Post Office, and forwarded to the address on the packet, charged not only with the full rates of postage as an unpaid letter, but also with a further and additional rate of postage, equal in amount to the single rate of postage which would be chargeable under the said Schedule on a packet not exceeding half a pound in weight, and the remainder of the packet, if the postage be duly paid when posted, may be forwarded to the place of its address without any extra charge.

And we do hereby further order and direct, that this Warrant shall come into operation at the same time as the said Warrant bearing date the said twenty-third day of January now last past, namely, on the first day of March next, and shall be construed in all respects as if it were inserted in and were part thereof.

Whitehall, Treasury-chambers, the twelfth day of February, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-five.

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas an Act was passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," by which certain scales of weight are fixed, and rates of postage made chargeable and payable upon, for, and in respect of letters transmitted and forwarded by the post, and after reciting therein that letters and packets sent by the post are chargeable by law on being re-directed and again forwarded by the post, with a new and distinct rate of postage, it is thereby enacted that on every post letter re-directed there shall be charged for the postage of such letter, from the place at which the same shall be re-directed to the place of ultimate delivery (in addition to all other rates of postage payable thereon), such a rate of postage only as the same would be liable to if prepaid.

And whereas by the same Act the Postmaster-General is authorised to remit any of the rates of British postage or Inland postage, for the time being payable by law on the transmission of post letters, newspapers, or other printed papers, to such extent as the Lords of the Treasury shall from time to time direct.

And whereas it is expedient to make regulations by which certain rates of postage now by law payable on certain letters and packets may be remitted as hereinafter mentioned.

Now we, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the powers vested in us in and by the said before-mentioned Act, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, do by this Warrant (under the hands of two of us the said Commissioners by the authority of the Statute in that case made and provided), order and direct that the Postmaster-General may wholly remit the re-directed rates of postage now payable by law on letters re-directed and again forwarded by the post between places within any post town in the United Kingdom and between any places in the United Kingdom, and on packets re-directed and again forwarded by the post between places within any post town in the United Kingdom and between any places in the United Kingdom, which packets shall have been originally transmitted by the post under or by virtue of two certain warrants of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, under the hands of two of the said Commissioners, and each respectively bearing date the 23rd day of January, 1855, or either of them, and on newspapers or other printed papers, or other things chargeable with postage, which shall be re-directed and again forwarded by the post, provided such respective letters, packets, newspapers, printed papers, or other things shall be re-directed by an officer of the post office, and again forwarded by the post to any person within the limits of the post town or place to which such letters, packets, newspapers, printed papers, or other things shall have been originally addressed, or within the limits of any place subordinate to any such post town or place; and the Postmaster-General may also wholly remit the re-directed rates of postage now payable by law on letters, packets, newspapers, printed papers, or other things re-directed and again forwarded by the post, which shall be re-directed by an officer of the post office, and again forwarded by the post from any place subordinate to any post town in the United Kingdom to any other place subordinate to the same post town, whether such letters, packets, newspapers, printed papers, or other things, after being so re-directed shall, in the course of conveyance by the post pass through such post town or not; and the Postmaster-General may also wholly remit the re-directed rates of postage now payable by law on letters, packets, newspapers, printed papers, or other things re-directed and again forwarded by the post, which shall be re-directed by an officer of the post office, and again forwarded by the post from one post town to another post town, both being within the United Kingdom.

And we do further order and direct, that (subject to the directions hereinbefore contained) on any post letters and packets which shall be transmitted by the post between any post towns or places in the United Kingdom, and be re-directed by an officer of the post office, and again forwarded by the post; and on any post letters and packets of every description which shall be re-directed by any person other than an officer of the post office, and again forwarded by the post, whether between places within any post town in the United Kingdom, or between any post towns or places in the United Kingdom, there shall be charged for the postage of every such letter or packet from the place at which the same shall be re-directed to the place of ultimate delivery in addition to all other rates of postage payable thereon, such a new and distinct rate of postage as the letter or packet would have been liable to by law, if it had been originally posted at the place where it was re-directed, and there properly paid by stamps or in money when posted.

And we do further order and direct, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to annul, prejudice, or affect any of the exemptions or privileges granted by the said recited Act passed in the Fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, nor to affect any letters which may now be forwarded to any other place from the place to which they were originally addressed, without being charged with more than the postage originally payable for such letters nor to annul, prejudice, or affect any privileges under which printed newspapers or other printed papers are allowed to pass by the post free of postage.

And we do further direct, that the several terms and expressions used in this Warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had, if inserted in the said Act passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty.

And we do further direct, that this Warrant shall come into operation on the first day of March next.

And we do hereby declare and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by Warrant under their hands at any time hereafter, to alter or repeal any of the regulations hereby made, and to make and establish any new or other regulations in lieu thereof.

Whitehall, Treasury Chambers, the 19th day of February, 1855.

Alfred Hervey.

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage" certain scales of weight and rates of postage were fixed and made chargeable and payable upon, for, or in respect of letters, newspapers, Parliamentary proceedings, and printed papers transmitted and forwarded by the post, and various regulations were made for facilitating the transmission of such letters and papers by the post.

And whereas by the said Act, powers were given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time, and at any time thercafter by Warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British postage or inland postage, payable by law on the transmission by the post of foreign or colonial letters or newspapers, or of any other printed papers, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof, and a scale of weight to be contained in such Warrant, and from time to time by Warrant as aforesaid, to alter or repeal any of such altered rates and make and establish any new or other rates in lieu thereof, and from time to time, by Warrant as aforesaid, to appoint at what time the rates which may be payable are to be paid, and the power thereby given to alter and fix rates of postage is extended to any increase or reduction, or remission of postage.

And whereas by an Act, passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post, and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the Post-office," the provision fixing the maximum weight of letters to be sent by the post, in the first-mentioned Act, is repealed; and in order to prevent packets of an unwieldy bulk or an inconvenient size being transmitted by the post, power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, at any time or times thereafter, by Warrant under their hands, to fix the maximum weight of letters to be sent by the post, and from time to time to repeal or revoke such maximum weight, wholly or in part, and declare any other maximum of weight in lieu thereof; and it is provided, that all letters shall be forwarded, conveyed, and delivered by the post in conformity with any such Warrant, and also in conformity with and under and subject to all such orders, conditions, limitations, regulations, and restrictions as to the form, size, or dimensions thereof, whether in proportion to the weight or otherwise, as the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, shall from time to time direct. And by the said Act power is also given to the Postmaster-General to collect and receive the foreign and colonial postage charged or chargeable on any letters sent by the post, and also with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury to require the postage, British, colonial, or foreign, of any letters sent by the post, to be prepaid, either in money or in stamps as he may think fit, on the same being put into the Post-office, and also with such consent to abolish or restrict the prepayment in money of postage on letters sent by the post, either altogether or on certain letters, and to require the prepayment thereof to be in stamps, and also to refuse to receive or send by the post any letters tendered contrary to any regulations thereby made. And it is also declared and enacted that in all cases in which the British postage, chargeable on any letters sent by the post, shall exceed the sum of one penny, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury may, by Warrant under their hands, reduce such postage to any other rate of postage, they may from time to time think fit. And also that the Postmaster-General may, if he shall think fit (with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury), allow any printed words, writing, or marks (in addition to the direction), to be put on any printed newspapers or other printed papers sent by the post, or on the covers thereof, and that any such newspapers, or other printed papers shall from thenceforth be forwarded either free of postage or subject to such rates of postage as the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, shall from time to time direct. And it is also declared and enacted that the Postmaster-General and any officer of the Post-office may detain any letters which shall be posted or sent by the post contrary to the regulations of that Act, or the first-mentioned Act, or contrary to any regulations made under the authority of that Act, or of the first-mentioned Act, or contrary to the regulations of any Treasury Warrant to be issued under or by virtue of that Act, or which had been or should be issued under or by virtue of the first-mentioned Act, and open such letters, and either return them to the senders thereof or forward them to the places of their destination, charged in either case with such rates of postage as the Postmaster-General, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury shall, from time to time, direct.

And whereas the Postmaster-General hath, with the consent of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, and the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury have, at various times, since the passing of the said two before-mentioned Acts, and in pursuance and in exercise of the powers reserved to them thereby, by divers Warrants under their hands, made and given certain orders, directions, and regulations, relating to the weight, size, and dimensions, and to the rates of postage in conformity with, and under and subject to which, certain printed papers and Parliamentary proceedings therein respectively mentioned were to be, and are, transmitted by the post, and it is expedient that such Warrants, and such orders, directions, regulations, and rates should be altered, repealed, and revoked.

And whereas the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, by a certain Warrant under the hands of two of the said Commissioners, bearing date the twenty-third day of January now last past, and relating to the transmission by the post of packets consisting of books, publications, or works of literature or art, whether British, colonial, or foreign, and packets consisting of printed votes and proceedings of the Imperial Parliament or the Colonial Legislatures, between the United Kingdom and the several places mentioned and set forth in the Schedule B to the said Warrant annexed, have made and given certain orders, directions, and regulations, relating to the several packets hereinbefore and therein particularly mentioned, and have by a certain other Warrant of the said Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, under the hands of two of the said Commissioners, bearing date the twelfth day of February instant, made and given certain other orders, directions, regulations, and rates, as to certain of the said packets authorised to be sent, or tendered, or delivered, in order to be sent by the post under the provisions of the said Warrant, bearing date the twenty-third day of January last.

And whereas it is also expedient that the said two several Warrants, and the orders, directions, regulations, and rates of postage therein respectively mentioned and contained, should be altered, repealed, annulled, and revoked, and that the orders, directions, regulations, and rates, hereinafter contained, should be respectively made, given, and substituted, in lieu and instead of the said orders, directions, regulations, and rates in the said two Warrants respectively dated the twenty-third day of January last and the twelfth day of February instant contained.

1. Now we, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the powers reserved to us in and by the said two before-mentioned Acts, or either of them, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, do by this Warrant (under the hands of two of us the said Commissioners, by the authority of the statute in that case made and provided), order and direct that the several Warrants and parts of Warrants mentioned and set forth in the Schedule A to this Warrant annexed, shall be, and the same are, hereby, repealed, revoked, and annulled respectively, and that the several orders, directions, regulations, and rates of postage in such several Warrants and parts of Warrants respectively mentioned and set forth, shall wholly cease and determine.

2. And we do further order and direct, that all packets consisting of books, publications, or works of literature or art, whether British, colonial, or foreign, and all packets consisting of printed votes and proceedings of the Imperial Parliament or the Colonial Legislatures, may be transmitted by the post between any part of the United Kingdom and any part of the several places mentioned and set forth in the Schedule B to this Warrant annexed; and that all such respective packets shall be so transmitted in conformity with, and under, and subject to, the several regulations, orders, directions, and conditions hereinafter mentioned and contained; and that, as respects certain of the said places in the said schedule B mentioned, such transmission may also be by the routes mentioned against such places in such schedule; and that the single rate of postage for the transmission thereof shall be that which is mentioned and set forth against the said places respectively in the said Schedule B; and that all such respective packets so transmitted shall be subject to the several progressive and additional rates of postage hereinafter mentioned; that is to say:

On every such packet so transmitted under the provisions of this Warrant as aforesaid, if not exceeding half a pound in weight there shall be charged, taken and paid for the transmission thereof respectively as aforesaid, the uniform single rate of postage which is mentioned and set forth against the said places respectively, in the said schedule B.

And on every such packet exceeding half a pound in weight, there shall be charged, taken, and paid, progressive and additional rates of postage as follows; that is to say:

On every such packet, if exceeding half a pound and not exceeding one pound in weight, two rates of postage.

And on every such packet, if exceeding one pound and not exceeding two pounds in weight, four rates of postage.

And on every such packet, if exceeding two pounds and not exceeding three pounds in weight, six rates of postage.

And for every additional one pound in weight of any such packet above the weight of three pounds, there shall be charged, taken, and paid, two additional rates of postage, and every fractional part of such additional pound shall be charged as an additional pound in weight, and each progressive and additional rate, chargeable under this clause shall be estimated and charged at the sum which any such packet would be charged with under this Warrant, if not exceeding half a pound in weight.

No such packet, which in length or breadth or width, shall exceed the dimensions of two feet shall be forwarded by the post, under the provisions aforesaid.

No such packet, posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to the East Indies or New South Wales, or posted in the East Indies or New South Wales, addressed to the United Kingdom, exceeding the weight of three pounds, shall be forwarded by the post, under the provisions aforesaid.

The terms "books, publications, or works of literature or art" in this Warrant used, shall for the purposes of this Warrant mean and include all books, whether printed, written, or plain; publications or compilations, whether in print or in manuscript, almanacks, prints, maps, whether on paper or canvas or cloth, and whether printed or written, and any description of paper, parchment, or vellum, whether printed, written upon, or plain, together with any binding, mounting, or covering of or upon or belonging to any book or publication or work, or any portion thereof, or of or belonging to any paper, parchment, or vellum, and any cases or rollers of prints or maps, book markers, pencils, pens, or other articles usually appertaining to any such book, publication, or work, paper, parchment, or vellum, or necessary for its safe transmission; and that every such packet shall be sent open at the ends or sides and either without a cover, or in a cover or envelope, open at the ends or sides, and that there shall be no letter, either closed or open, nor any enclosure, sealed or otherwise, closed against inspection, sent in or with any such packet, nor shall there be any letter or any communication in the nature of a letter, written or printed on the cover or envelope of any such packet.

Upon every packet transmitted by the post, under the authority of this Warrant, between the United Kingdom, and the several places mentioned and set forth in the said Schedule B, which shall be posted in the United Kingdom, the postage thereof shall be paid at the time of the same being posted, not in money, but by being duly stamped with the proper postage stamp or stamps affixed thereto, which stamp or stamps shall in every case be affixed or appear on the outside of every such packet near the address or direction, and shall be of the value or amount of the postage duty payable thereon under or by virtue of this Warrant, unless any such packet be sent from any department or office in or connected with the public service of Her Majesty, which shall keep a postage account with the General Post-office in London, in which case the same shall be forwarded, post-paid, and the postage thereof shall be charged in such postage account; and upon every such packet which shall be posted in any of the colonies respectively mentioned and set forth in the said Schedule B to this Warrant annexed, the postage thereof shall be paid at the time of the same being posted.

3. And in order to prevent any obstacles to the due and regular transmission of letters by the post, we do further order and direct, that it shall be lawful for any officer of the Post Office to delay the transmission of any packet, posted or forwarded by the post under the provisions of this Warrant, either for the space of twenty-four hours after the time at which the same ought to be dispatched in due course of the post, or (at his option) until the dispatch of the mail next after that by which the same ought in due course of the post to be forwarded by him.

4. And we do further order and direct, that nothing hereinbefore contained shall be construed to interfere with or affect the transmission by the post of printed newspapers or other printed publications which are allowed to pass by the post under the newspaper privilege.

5. And we do further order and direct, that if any packet sent or tendered, or delivered, in order to be sent by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant, posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to the East Indies or New South Wales, or posted in the East Indies or New South Wales, addressed to the United Kingdom, shall exceed the weight of three pounds, or if any packet sent or tendered, or delivered in order to be sent by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant, between the United Kingdom and the several places mentioned and set forth in the said schedule B, shall, in length, or breadth, or width, exceed the dimensions of two feet ; or if any packet, or the cover or envelope of any packet sent or tendered, or delivered in order to be sent by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant, shall not be open at the ends or sides, or if there shall be any letter, or any communication in the nature of a letter, written or printed on any such cover or envelope, every such respective packet shall and may be detained and opened, and at the option of the Postmaster-General, shall be either returned or given up to the sender thereof, or be given up to the person to whom it shall be addressed, or be forwarded to the place of its destination ; and every such packet on being so returned, given up, or forwarded, shall be chargeable with the like amount of postage to which it would have been liable as a letter if the postage had been paid when posted, and such postage may be either paid by the sender, or be charged to the person to whom such packet shall he forwarded.

6. And we do further order and direct, that if any packet sent or tendered, or delivered in order to he sent hy the post, under the provisions of this Warrant, hetween the United Kingdom and the several places mentioned and set forth in the said schedule B, shall contain any letter, whether closed or open, or any enclosure, sealed or otherwise closed against inspection, every such letter or enclosure may he taken out hy any officer of the Post Office and forwarded to the address on the packet, charged not only with the full rates of postage as an unpaid letter, but also with a further and additional rate of postage, equal in amount to the single rate of postage which would be chargeahle under the said schedule on a packet not exceeding half a pound in weight, and the remainder of the packet, if the postage be duly paid when posted, may he forwarded to the place of its address without any extra charge.

7. And we do further order and direct, that if any packet sent or tendered, or delivered in order to he sent by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant, respectively between the United Kingdom and the several places mentioned and set forth in the said schedule B, shall be posted in the United Kingdom, having thereon or affixed thereto a stamp or stamps, the value of which shall he less in amount than the rate of postage to which such packet would be liable under and by virtue of the several regulations, orders, directions, and conditions hereinhefore contained, but equal in amount to the single rate of postage which would he chargeable under the said schedule, if such packet did not exceed half a pound in weight, every such last-mentioned packet shall be forwarded charged with the amount of the difference between the value of such stamp or stamps so being thereon or affixed thereto, and the postage to which such packet would be liable as aforesaid, together with a further and additional rate of postage, equal in amount to the single rate of postage which would be chargeable under the said schedule on a packet not exceeding half a pound in weight; but if any such packet shall be posted in the United Kingdom, having thereon or affixed thereto a postage stamp, or stamps, the value of which shall be less in amount than the single rate of postage chargeable under the said schedule, or if any packet sent, or tendered, or delivered, in order to be sent by the post under the provisions of this Warrant respectively, between the United Kingdom and the several places mentioned and set forth in the said Schedule B (any such packet sent from any department or office in or connected with the public service of Her Majesty, which shall keep a postage account with the General Post Office in London, and the postage thereof being charged in such account, only excepted), shall be posted in the United Kingdom without having thereon or affixed thereto any postage stamp, every such respective packet shall and may be detained and opened at any place in the United Kingdom, and, at the option of the Postmaster-General, shall be dealt with and chargeable in like manner as is hereinbefore directed with respect to any packet not open at the ends or sides, or exceeding in length or breadth, or width, the dimensions of two feet.

8. And we do further order and direct, that if any packet sent, or tendered, or delivered in order to be sent by the post under the provisions of this

Warrant respectively, between the United Kingdom and the several places mentioned and set forth in the said Schedule B, shall be posted in any of the colonies respectively mentioned in the said Schedule, and the postage paid thereon, at the time of the same being posted, shall be less in amount than the rate of postage to which such packet would be liable under and by virtue of the several regulations, orders, directions, and conditions hereinbefore contained, but equal in amount to the single rate of postage which would be chargeable under the said Schedule B, if such packet did not exceed half a pound in weight, every such packet shall be forwarded, charged with the amount of the difference between the postage so paid thereon, and the postage to which such packet would be liable as aforesaid, together with a further and additional rate of postage equal in amount to the single rate of postage which would be chargeable under the said Schedule B, on a packet not exceeding half a pound in weight; but if any such packet shall be posted in any of the colonies mentioned in the said Schedule B, without any postage having been paid thereon, or with a postage paid thereon less in amount than the single rate of postage chargeable under the said Schedule B, every such last-mentioned packet shall and may be detained and opened, and, at the option of the Postmaster-General, shall be either returned or given up to the sender thereof, or be given up to the person to whom it shall be addressed, or be forwarded to the place of its destination. And every such last-mentioned packet on being so returned, given up, or forwarded shall be chargeable with the like amount of postage to which it would have been liable as a letter if the postage had been paid when posted, and such postage may be either paid by the sender, or may be charged to the person to whom such packet shall be forwarded.

9. And we do further order and direct, that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to any packets sent through France, or any other foreign country, to which a transit rate of postage would be payable thereon.

10. And we do further order and direct, that the Postmaster-General shall and may have and exercise the option of sending any packets hereby authorized to be sent by the post under the provisions aforesaid, either by packet-boat, or by private ship, at the same rate of postage as by packet-boat, when and as he shall think fit.

11. And we do further order and direct, that the respective packets transmitted by the post under the provisions of this Warrant, shall be subject to the several orders, directions, regulations, and rates of postage respectively contained in a certain Warrant of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, under the hands of two of the said Commissioners, bearing date the nineteenth day of February instant, relating to re-directed rates of postage upon letters and packets which shall be re-directed and again forwarded by the post.

12. Lord Panmure has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to his Grace the Duke of Newcastle, by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
MY LORD DUKE, February 13, 1855.

I mentioned to your Grace in my Despatch of the 10th instant, that there had been a return of bad weather, and that the country was again saturated with wet.

On Sunday it rained or snowed from morning till night, and the wind was very high, and though it was fine yesterday, still the ground was in a worse state than I had seen it for some time.

The enemy has made no movement.

Major-General Jones, Royal Engineers, arrived a few days ago, and is busily engaged in making himself acquainted with the position occupied by both armies.

Lieutenant-General Sir George Brown has also returned, and, I have great satisfaction in adding, in excellent health. His wound is healed, and, with the exception of not having entirely regained the full use of his elbow, he no longer suffers any inconvenience from it.

He will resume the command of his division without loss of time.

I inclose the return of the casualties to the 11th instant.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

His Grace the Duke of Newcastle,
&c. &c. &c.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MARCH 2, 1855.

War Department, March 2, 1855.

LORD PANMURE yesterday received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Grace the Duke of Newcastle, by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord Duke, February 17, 1855.

I have the satisfaction to acquaint your Grace that the weather has improved since I last addressed you, and the country is becoming drier.

Two days ago the thermometer was up at 60. It was somewhat lower yesterday, and early this morning it was down below freezing point, and at this moment it is snowing.

I mention these particulars in order to show your Grace how variable this climate is.

No movement has been made upon the part of the enemy. The garrison of Sevastopol is engaged in deepening the ditches, and improving the defences of the south front, and in constructing works on the north side of the harbour.

I have received information that the Russian

Army, in the neighbourhood of Backshi Serai and Simpheropol, is suffering much from the want of provisions, and from privations of all kinds.

I am happy to be able to say that the railway is making considerable progress, and that every hope is entertained that in the course of a very short time it will be available for transit as far as Kadikoi, which will accelerate the conveyance of stores up to the camp.

I inclose the return of casualties up to the 16th instant.

I have great pleasure in stating that Colonel Bell, of the Royal Regiment, who received a slight wound in the side from a musket-ball, when commanding in the trenches on the night of the 14th instant, experiences very little inconvenience from it, and has felt well enough to continue to discharge his duty with his accustomed zeal.

I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

His Grace the Duke of Newcastle,
&c. &c. &c.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MARCH 6, 1855.

War-Department, March 8, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received Despatches and Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Grace the Duke of Newcastle, and to His Lordship, by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord Duke, February 20, 1855.

Your Grace will have learnt, by my telegraphic despatch of the 18th inst., that the enemy had on the previous morning, at daylight, attacked Eupatoria with a very large force, and a powerful body of artillery, and had been repulsed, after an eagagement which terminated with their retirement at 10 A.M.

I have now the honour to lay before your Grace copies of two letters which I have received from Colonel Simmons, who is attached to the head-quarters of Omar Pasha, containing the details of the action ; and, whilst your Grace will rejoice to see that the Turkish troops which have been landed at Eupatoria have availed themselves of the earliest opportunity to show that the character they acquired on the Danube was well merited and remained unimpaired, you will join in the regret which I feel that they have suffered so considerable a loss, and that among the killed is numbered the General of Division, Selim Pasha (an Egyptian), and among the wounded a General of Brigade, also an Egyptian.

This loss, however, and particularly that sustained by a battery of artillery, afford ample proof of the gallant and determined conduct of the troops, and of the serious nature of the attack made upon them, as well as of their being worthy of their illustrious chief.

I have great satisfaction in drawing your Grace's attention to that part of Lieutenant-Colonel Simmons' despatch, in which he bears testimony to the efficient assistance rendered to the Ottoman army by Her Majesty's ships in the bay, under the command of the Honourable Captain Hastings, of the Curaçoa.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

His Grace the Duke of Newcastle,
&c. &c. &c.

Eupatoria, February 17, 1855,
1 P.M.

My Lord,

I have the honour to inform your Lordship that on the 15th instant, several large convoys and arrivals of troops were seen moving along the north shore of the Sasik Putrid Lake, from the eastward.

This movement on the part of the enemy caused Omar Pasha to place the garrison on the alert. No further movement, however, was seen yesterday on the part of the enemy; but this morning, at daylight, they advanced in great force, and opened with artillery upon the entrenchments which inclose the town. The advanced line of works, which I informed your Lordship it was his Highness's intention to erect, were not yet commenced.

The enemy's artillery opened their fire about twelve hundred yards from the place, covered by skirmishers, and supported by heavy masses of infantry in their rear, and cavalry on their flanks. The artillery subsequently took up a second position more in advance, about four hundred yards from a small crown work which is being erected in front of the mills to the north-east of the town, and after continuing their fire for some time, the infantry advanced to the attack, having formed under the cover of a wall about six hundred yards from the right of the town. They were repulsed at this point, leaving from 150 to 200 dead on the field. On other points of the field a number of horses were left dead, but the killed men were removed. At length, about 10 A.M., the whole force retired, covered by the artillery and cavalry.

I am not able as yet to ascertain the number of men engaged, but I should think there were not less than 40,000 of all arms, with a very powerful artillery.

As many as sixty of the enemy's guns must have been firing at one time, amongst them some 32-pounders. Prisoners report that they were accompanied by 100 guns. As yet all the particulars I have been able positively to ascertain is, that Liprandi's division (the 12th) was present.

At present I understand that they are in position about five miles north from this, their left leaning on the Sasik Putrid Lake.

It is with much pleasure I have to inform your Lordship that the portion of Her Majesty's Fleet, under the Honourable Captain Hastings, have rendered most efficient assistance. The Valorous threw some well-directed shells, and completely covered our left, whilst the Viper gun-boat, which was at first stationed on the left with the Valorous, by Captain Hastings' directions moved and took up a flanking position on the right near the mills.

I cannot at present give your Lordship any details of the killed and wounded on the side of the Turks ; I regret to say, however, that Selim Pasha, commanding the Egyptian Brigade here, is amongst the former.

One battery of Turkish artillery was completely disabled, every gun having been struck and a great number (nearly one-third) of the horses killed.

I am desirous your Lordship should receive a report of the action, with as little delay as possible, by the Queen of the South ; so I must beg your Lordship to excuse further details, which shall be sent by a future occasion.

I am, &c.,

(Signed) JOHN SIMMONS,

Captain Royal Engineers, Brevet-Major.

Field-Marshal Lord Raglan, G.C.B.,

&c. &c. &c.

P.S. A prisoner informs us that a prince commanded, but he could not remember his name.

I am happy to say there are no casualties among the English or French officers. Two French sous-officers are among the killed, and two privates wounded.

(Signed) JOHN S.

Eupatoria, February 18, 1855,

My Lord, 6 P.M.

I have the honour to inform your Lordship that nothing of importance has taken place here since the enemy retired yesterday.

Owing to the deficiency of cavalry with the army of his Highness, Omar Pasha, we are not able to obtain exact information as to the position of the enemy, who have entirely disappeared, so far as we can see, with the exception of the usual cavalry advanced posts.

Convoys of wagons, however, have been seen from the fleet moving along the north shore of the Sasik Putrid Lake from the eastward. I am inclined, however, to believe that they are bringing forage and provisions for the cavalry which surrounds us.

In the meantime, however, his Highness is taking every precaution, by adding to the defences of the place, to provide against any further attempts of the enemy. Fortunately the two transports (sailing), containing artillery and materials for constructing works have arrived, and, in the course of the night, we shall have 12 or 14 more guns in position than yesterday. The parapets also have been raised, so that we may hope that our loss will not be so heavy on a future occasion.

The total loss yesterday amounted to as follows, of all ranks :—

Turks—97 killed ; 277 wounded.
French—4 killed ; 9 wounded.
Total combatants—101 killed ; 286 wounded.
Tartar Population—13 killed ; 11 wounded.
Horses of the Turkish Army—79 killed ; 18 wounded.

Amongst the killed of the Turks, were 1 General of Division (Selim Pasha, Egyptian), 1 colonel, and 5 subaltern officers ; and amongst the wounded 1 General of Brigade (Egyptian), 4 superior, and 5 subaltern officers. Amongst the French wounded, was an officer of the Henri IV., who was serving ashore in a land battery.

A greater portion of the horses of one battery were killed, and 19 men of the same battery, the whole of the guns being disabled.

I have not been able to obtain any further positive details of the enemy's force.

I am, &c.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord, February 24, 1855.

The weather has improved since I wrote my despatch of the 20th instant.

The snow is still on the ground, and the nights are cold ; but the wind has subsided, and we have to-day a bright sunshine.

Considerable activity continues to prevail in the movement of the enemy's troops on the north side of the harbour, and convoys of wagons are constantly arriving, and the object of the Russians would appear to be to fortify the heights extending to their left, and looking upon the valley of the Tchernaya.

The troops of the garrison having lodged themselves on the point of the spur of the ridge from Inkerman over the Careening Bay, at about 300 yards from the new French parallel, on the extreme right, General Canrobert determined to dislodge them; and this was gallantly effected at two o'clock this morning by 1,500 men, under the immediate command of General Monet, and the direction of General Mayran, with, however, I regret to say, some loss, the consequence of the heavy fire which was brought to bear upon them from the enemy's batteries and the shipping, whilst they were engaged in demolishing the works. When this object was accomplished, they withdrew to the trenches, as had been their intention.

The gallant General Monet is, I am much concerned to have to add, among the wounded.

I inclose a return of casualties to the 22nd instant.

Lieutenant-General Sir George Brown has, I am happy to say, resumed the command of the Light Division in perfect health. The railway is getting on remarkably well, and the exertions of Mr. Beattie, who is superintending the work, are unremitting, and entitle him to great praise.

Before Sevastopol,
February 24, 1855.

MY LORD,

I do myself the honour, with reference to my despatch, No. 172, of the 20th instant, to transmit to your Lordship the translation of a letter I have had from Omar Pasha, in which his Highness has been so good as to give me a detailed account of the Russian attack upon Eupatoria, on the morning of the 17th instant, and of the brilliant manner in which he repulsed the enemy, and forced them to retire from before the place.

Your Lordship will observe, with the greatest satisfaction, that the conduct of the Turkish troops was remarkable for its gallantry and determination, and that the arrangements of the generalissimo were such as might be expected from an officer of his high distinction and established reputation.

I understand from Colonel Simmons that the result of this successful action has had an excellent moral effect upon the Turkish army, which has since been busily occupied in improving the defences and increasing the armament of the works.

The English men-of-war Curaçoa, Furious, Valorous, and Viper, the French steamer Véloce, and the Turkish steamer Schehfaer, greatly contributed to the success of the day by the energy of their co-operation, and the power of their fire; and Omar Pasha has expressed his sense of their valuable assistance, as well as of that of a detachment of the French army, which your Lordship will regret to see sustained some loss in killed and wounded, and among the latter is a naval officer.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure,

(Translation.)

Head Quarters, Eupatoria.
February, 1855.

My Lord,

I have the honour to inform your Lordship, that the enemy attacked Eupatoria, on the morning of the 17th instant.

The troops intended for this attack had left the camp before Sevastopol six days ago, and other troops from Perekop and Simpheropol had joined them in the night of the 16th and the morning of the 17th, in the flat ground that lays behind the heights that are before Eupatoria.

As far as one could guess, and according to the information furnished by prisoners, the enemy mustered thirty-six battalions of infantry, six regiments of cavalry, four hundred Cossacks, eighty pieces of artillery in position, and some troops of horse artillery, which were in reserve.

The attack commenced at daylight by a strong cannonade, during which the enemy used even thirty-two pounders. At first the Russians showed themselves in great force along our whole position, but seeing that our left was protected by men-of-war, which went there when the first shot was fired, they concentrated against our centre and right.

I then requested the senior officer of the English Royal Navy to send the gun-boat Viper to the right, and to take up a position near the French steamer Véloce and the Turkish steamer Schehfaer, on board of which was the Vice-Admiral, Ahmed Pasha. At the same time I reinforced the right with some battalions of infantry and some pieces of artillery, which I withdrew from the left.

The enemy continued his fire, without ceasing, from the position held by his artillery, supported by a powerful fire of skirmishers, and then his infantry, carrying planks and ladders, three times tried to storm the works. Each time it was repulsed, and obliged to retire under our fire; but it was enabled to effect this retrograde movement under cover of its artillery, and of heavy masses of cavalry.

Our cavalry, which at the present moment only musters about 200 or 300 horses, and which charged the Russian infantry at the commencement of its retreat, did not dare to pursue it in the face of such heavy masses.

This superiority in artillery and cavalry prevented our disturbing the Russians on their retreat. After four hours and a-half fighting, they commenced retiring in three different directions, towards the bridge of Lake Sasik, towards Top Mamai, and towards the Perekop road.

I have every reason to be satisfied with the conduct of my troops during the day. Although behind works only half finished, and not fully armed, they showed a bold front and were very steady.

Our losses are not very numerous, but they are to be deplored. We regret the death of Selim Pasha, Lieutenant-General, commanding the Egyptian troops. We had, moreover, 87 killed, and 277 wounded; 79 horses killed, and 18 wounded.

Amongst the killed there are 7 officers, and 10 are wounded, amongst them Sulciman Pasha; 13 inhabitants of the town have been killed, and 11 wounded.

I consider it my duty to make honourable mention of the French detachment that is here, and of the English men-of-war, Curaçoa, Furious, Valorous, Viper, of the Turkish steamer Schehfaer, and of the energetic co-operation of the French steamer Véloce, who all contributed greatly towards frustrating the efforts of the enemy. The French detachment had 4 men killed, and 9 wounded ; amongst the latter is a naval officer.

The Russians must have suffered a heavy loss. According to the report of the civil authorities of the town, who had to bury the dead, their number of killed amounts to 453 ; their artillery lost 300 horses. They carried away a great many of their dead, and almost all their wounded. We have taken 7 prisoners.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) OMAR.

His Excellency the Lord Raglan,

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MARCH 9, 1855.

Admiralty, March 8, 1855.

DESPATCHES, of which the following are copies, have been received from Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B., Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's Ships and Vessels in the Mediterranean and Black Sea.

Unsuccessful Attack by the Russians on Eupatoria.

Royal Albert, off Sevastopol,
Sir, February 20, 1855.

I have the honour to enclose, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, copies of two letters which I have received from Captain Hastings, of the Curaçoa, Senior Officer at Eupatoria, reporting an unsuccessful attack made upon that place, at daybreak, on the 17th instant, by a large Russian force of cavalry, artillery, and infantry, and enclosing a letter from Omar Pasha, expressing warm acknowledgments for the great services rendered by Her Majesty's ships Curaçoa, Valorous, Furious, and Viper, as well as His Highness's thanks for the reinforcements of steamers which I had sent to him on hearing that the enemy was still in force in his neighbourhood.

2. Captain Hastings appears to have conducted his share of the defence with his accustomed zeal and ability, and to have been well and effectively seconded by Captains Buckle and Loring, and Lieutenant Brock, and the officers, seamen, and marines of all Her Majesty's ships present on that occasion.

3. Colonel Simmons, of the Royal Engineers, who is attached to Omar Pasha's Staff, estimates the attacking force at 40,000 of all arms, and he states that as many as sixty guns, some of them 32-pounders, played upon the place at one time.

4. I understand that at nine o'clock the enemy's infantry formed under the shelter of a wall, at 350 yards from the place, and advanced to the attack, but were repulsed with considerable loss, and soon afterwards retired, leaving nearly two hundred dead on the nearest spot, and removing the rest of their dead from the more distant parts of the field.

5. Omar Pasha's army appears from the latest and most authentic accounts, to have had nearly a hundred men killed and about two hundred and fifty wounded, and to have had eighty artillery horses killed, and some guns much damaged.

6. The Banshee has brought me a report from Captain Hastings up to noon yesterday, at which time the enemy remained encamped about five miles from Eupatoria, with his left leaning on the Putrid Lake Sasik; whilst Omar Pasha, with the garrison, having been reinforced after the battle by further Turkish troops, brought over from Varna in British transports, as well as by the Dauntless, Curlew, Arrow, and Lynx, sent by me from hence, and by two French steamers sent by Admiral Bruat, awaited an attack with confidence in a favourable result.

I am, &c.,

ED. LYONS,

Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

To the Secretary of the Admiralty,
London.

Enclosure No. 1.

Her Majesty's ship Curaçoa, Eupatoria,
SIR, February 17, 1855.

I have the honour to acquaint your Excellency that, this morning about 6·30 A.M., the Russians in considerable force attacked the Turkish troops which are encamped at this place under the command of his Highness Omar Pasha.

The ships under my command at this anchorage, which are named in the margin,* immediately proceeded under steam to close the flanking position of the Turkish entrenchments,—Valorous and Viper taking the left flank, and Curaçoa and Furious the right. About half an hour after the commencement of the attack, I received from his Highness Omar Pasha, a request to strengthen as much as possible the right flank, as the enemy were pressing their attack upon that point.

* Her Majesty's ships Valorous, Furious, and Viper.

The Viper was immediately recalled, and from her light draught of water was enabled to effect good service, as also the three other ships in their respective positions.

The conduct of the captains, officers, seamen, and marines under my command on this occasion, deserves your Excellency's approbation.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) G. F. HASTINGS,
Captain.

P.S.—The French and Turkish vessels also did good service in their respective positions which they took up.

His Excellency Rear Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B., K.C.H., &c. &c., &c.

Enclosure No. 2.

Her Majesty's ship Curaçoa, Eupatoria, February 18, 1855.

SIR,

I have the honour to acknowledge the receipt of your memorandum of yesterday's date, relative to my report of the Russians having attacked this place on the 17th instant, as communicated by the steam transport Queen of the South, and beg to inform you that the reinforcement of vessels mentioned therein have duly arrived here; and that I immediately informed his Highness Omar Pasha of the reinforcement being sent to his support, who begged me to offer to your Excellency his warmest thanks

In the late attack the Turks suffered a loss of 88 men killed, 250 wounded, and 78 horses killed. The loss on the part of the Russians cannot be ascertained.

No further attack has been made; but the Russians still remain in force about five miles from Eupatoria, and large reinforcements, both of men and wagons, are daily arriving from the road to Simpheropol. If the Arrow's services could be spared she would be of great assistance here.

I have, &c.,

Quartier-Général d'Eupatoria,
17 Février, 1855.

Monsieur le Capitaine,

Pendant l'attaque que les Russes ont tentée ce matin sur la ville d'Eupatoria avec des forces considérables, l'escadre de la marine de Sa Majesté Britannique qui se trouvait dans la rade sous votre commandement, a beaucoup contribué par les dispositions que vous avez prises, par leur prompte exécution et par la justesse du tir de votre artillerie, à rendre infructueux les efforts de l'ennemi et à assurer le succès de la journée.

En vous transmettant mes vives remerciments je vous prie d'être auprès de vos officiers et marins l'interprète de mes sentiments d'estime et de reconnaissance.

Recevez, Monsieur le Capitaine, les assurances de ma considération très-distinguée.

Le Généralissime de l'armée Ottomane.

Enclosure No. 1.

Camp, Naval Brigade,
February 11, 1855.

Sir,

In continuation of our proceedings, I have the honour to inform you that we have been employed this week in carrying shot into the batteries. The enemy continues augmenting his defences and firing on our working parties during the day. Several ineffectual sorties have been made on the French during the past week.

I have also been getting up slops and provisions, and have a supply for seven days of the latter in our store tents.

I have much pleasure in informing you of the healthy state of the brigade, having only 44 in the sick list, no serious cases, and victualling 998.

I have, &c.,

Commander-in-Chief.

Enclosure No. 2.

Camp, Naval Brigade,
February 18, 1855.

SIR,

I have the honour to inform you that the enemy still continues strengthening his works. I am happy to say that there have been no casualties this week, and that the brigade is remarkably healthy. We have only 27 men in the sick list, victualling 999 men and officers. All symptoms of scurvy have disappeared; and I am informed by the medical officer in charge, that he considers this as principally owing to the liberal supply of oranges issued to the brigade.

I have, &c.

(Signed) S. LUSHINGTON,
Captain, Commanding Naval Brigade.

Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B., &c. &c. &c.

Royal Albert, off Sevastopol,
February 24, 1855.

SIR,

I have the honour to report, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that no attack has taken place at Eupatoria since that of the 17th instant, which, as their Lordships will perceive by the enclosed copy of a letter from Colonel Simmons to me, was more serious than was at first supposed. Her Majesty's ships are in eligible positions for assisting in the repulse of any future attack.

The weather, which for the last few days has been very severe, is now remarkably fine.

I am, &c.,

(Signed) E. LYONS,
Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

The Secretary of the Admiralty, London.

Enclosure No. 1.

Eupatoria, February 20, 1855.

SIR, 9 P.M.

The bearer is an Aide-de-Camp of the Seraskier, bearing despatches from Omar Pasha to his Government.

His Highness would be much obliged to you if you would kindly order him a passage to Constantinople by the first opportunity.

The position is much stronger here than it was; in fact, I should say doubly so, and nearly twice as many guns mounted as on the 17th.

That affair was pretty sharp, and the Russians lost a great many men: we have interred 453, and there can be no doubt they carried off and buried many more who were killed at long ranges by our artillery.

They also left nearly 300 dead horses on the field.

Our loss was 87 killed, 277 wounded, Turks; 4 killed, and 9 wounded, French; and 13 killed, 11 wounded, of the population; besides 79 horses killed and 18 wounded. Our field battery had 19 men (Turks) killed, and every gun (6) disabled.

The Turks behaved very well. Selim Pasha, the Egyptian, who was killed, was a great loss, but his place is well supplied by Suleiman Pasha. who was wounded.

Omar Pasha is most gratified for the promptitude with which you sent up ships after hearing of the attack. The exertions of the officers and men of your fleet in disembarking troops, &c., here are beyond all praise; but unfortunately the weather during the last week or ten days has not been propitious, and consequently transports have been detained longer than they otherwise would.

I am, &c.,
(Signed) J. N. SIMMONS, Royal Engineers, attached to Omar Pasha's Staff.

Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, G.C.B.,
&c. &c. &c.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the session of Parliament, held in the ninth and tenth years of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act to "amend an Act for regulating the sale of waste "land belonging to the Crown in the Australian "Colonies, and to make further provision for the "management thereof," it was enacted that it should be lawful for Her Majesty, by Order in Council, amongst other things, to establish regulations respecting the more effectually making demises or licences of such waste land, and respecting the reservation on such demises or licenses of rents.

And whereas by an Order in Council, dated the 9th day of March, 1847, provisions were made respecting the mode of tendering and receiving tenders for leases of runs, thereinafter called pastoral leases, and respecting the amount of rent to be paid for such runs during the currency and after the renewal of such leases.

And whereas it may be expedient that the provisions of the said Order in Council should be altered in the above respects:

It is hereby ordered by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, that it shall be lawful for the Governor of Victoria, to cause a provision to be inserted in, or endorsed on, any pastoral lease, declaring what rate of rent (not being less than £10 per annum) shall be payable by the holder or holders of such lease during the currency and after any renewal thereof, and how such rent shall be calculated or assessed, and such rent

And it is further ordered that it shall be lawful for the Governor, with the advice of his Executive Council, notwithstanding anything contained in the said Order in Council, to make such regulations as to him shall seem fit respecting the mode of tendering and receiving tenders for pastoral leases, provided that no such regulations shall take effect till they shall have been published in the Government Gazette.

And it is further ordered, that in the construction of this Order in Council the term Governor shall mean the Officer for the time being, lawfully administering the Government of the colony.

And it is further ordered, that this Order in Council shall take effect from a day to be fixed by proclamation of the Governor.

Wm. L. Bathurst.

PRESENT,

The QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the present session of Parliament, intituled "An Act to "amend the Act for limiting the time of service "in the Army," it is enacted "that for three years "after the passing of this Act any person may be "enlisted to serve Her Majesty, or in the forces "of the East India Company, as a soldier, for any "such term, not exceeding ten years in the "Infantry, or twelve years in the Cavalry, "Artillery, or other Ordnance Corps, as may be "authorised by Her Majesty in Council in this "behalf."

PRESENT,

And whereas it hath been made to appear to Her Majesty, that due facilities will be given for recovering and apprehending seamen (not being Sardinian subjects) who desert from British Merchant Ships in the territories belonging to His Majesty the King of Sardinia:

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

Lighthouse in N.W. Passage, Key West, Florida.

This Lighthouse, recently erected, is situated on the Western Bank, forming the N.W. channel, in 6 feet ordinary low water.

Its position may be approximately laid down by the following magnetic bearings and distances.

Sand Key Lighthouse S. 11° 02′ east,
dist. 10 nautical miles.

Key West Lighthouse S. 57° east,
dist. 6·83 nautical miles.

N.W. Bar Buoy N. 20° 46′ east,
dist. 1·31 nautical miles.

The structure is founded on piles. The keeper's dwelling is 23 feet above the water, and is surmounted by the lantern.

The foundation is painted of dark colour; the dwelling and lantern white.

The illuminating apparatus is a Fresnel 5th Order, illuminating 270° of the horizon, and shewing a fixed white light.

The focal plane is 40 feet above the sea level; the light should therefore be seen, in clear weather, from the deck of a vessel 10 feet above the water at a distance of $11\frac{1}{2}$ nautical miles, or about 10 miles beyond the Bar.

The light will be exhibited for the first time on the 5th of March prox., and will continue to be exhibited from sunset to sunrise on each succeeding night till further notice.

Sailing Directions.

To enter the channel by day, bring the Lighthouse to bear S. by W. $\frac{3}{4}$ W. (mag.) or in range with the Buoy on the bar, and the western end of Mullet Key; then run till the bar is crossed and Buoy No. 2 is made, when haul up S.E. $\frac{3}{4}$ E. (mag.), for Buoy No. 1.

To enter by night, bring the light to bear S. by W. $\frac{3}{4}$ W. (mag.), and run on that course till Key West Light bears S.E. $\frac{1}{4}$ S. (mag.), when haul up for it, and when in 3 fathoms anchor for the night.

This light is designed to notify mariners of their approach to the Bar, and to guide them over it by day and night, but it is not intended, nor can it be used, as a guide in the passage from the Bar to Key West. Dependence for this purpose must be had, in the day time, on the channel buoys and ranges on shore, and at night on the bearings of Key West and Sand Key lights; to ascertain the relative position of which mariners are recommended to provide themselves with the chart of this harbour published by the Coast Survey.

By order of the Lighthouse Board.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship, by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
March 3, 1855.

My Lord,

Some more ships are said to have been sunk since I wrote to your Lordship on the 27th. I am not certain of this; but, according to my observation, the new barrier across the harbour appeared yesterday evening to have been extended beyond the point at which I had seen it two days before.

The enemy is busily occupied in establishing a work considerably nearer the French batteries on the extreme right than that which was attacked by our allies on the morning of the 24th.

The enemy seem to be increasing their force in the neighbourhood of Sevastopol, both to the northward, and upon the Tchernaya.

The railway continues to progress satisfactorily, and we already make considerable use of it in the conveyance of stores, hutting materials, &c., as far as Kadakoi; and the electric telegraph is completed between that village and my head-quarters.

The weather has again become extremely cold, and there was a fall of snow yesterday, and some little this morning.

I inclose a return of casualties to the 1st instant inclusive.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c. &c.

Despatches, of which the following are copies, have been received from Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B., Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's Ships and Vessels in the Mediterranean and Black Sea.

AHMED PACHA'S THANKS FOR THE SERVICES RENDERED BY HER MAJESTY'S SHIPS AT EUPATORIA.

Royal Albert, off Sevastopol,
March 2, 1855

SIR,

With reference to my letters of the 20th and 24th ultimo (Nos. 140 and 152), I beg leave to inclose, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, a copy of a letter from Ahmed Pacha, Commander-in-Chief of the Ottoman squadron, returning thanks for the assistance afforded by Her Majesty's ships during the attack on Eupatoria by the Russians, on the 17th ultimo.

I am, &c.,
ED. LYONS,
Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

To the Secretary of the Admiralty,
London.

Enclosure.

Féize Bari, Rade d'Eupatoria, le 26 Février, 1855.

Monsieur L'Amiral,

L'empressement que mettent les marins Anglais qui se trouvent ici, soit pour le débarquement des troupes, de leurs provisions, des chevaux, ainsi que de tout le matériel de guerre, qui nous arrive continuellement, soit pour courir au secours de nos troupes, concourir à la défence de la ville, en appuyant par mer et par terre les opérations militaires, comme ils l'ont fait le 17 du mois courant, lorsque l'ennemi nous a attaqué avec des forces considérables ; en un mot, les services que la marine Anglaise, sous votre commandement supérieur, nous rend journellement, avec zèle et dévouement, sont trop grands et trops sensibles pour que j'hésite davantage à vous les faire connaître.

Je vous prie donc d'agréer l'expression des sentiments sincères de notre reconnaissance éternelle.

J'avais l'intention de m'acquitter verbalement d'un devoir si agréable : je ne le fais néanmoins que par écrit à présent, espérant de pouvoir le faire plus tard en personne.

Veuillez agréer, Monsieur l'Amiral, l'assurance des sentiments da ma haute considération.

(Signé) AHMED.

At the Court at Buckingham Palace, the 28th day of February, 1855,

PRESENT,

The QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the tenth year of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act to "amend an Act for regulating the sale of waste "land belonging to the Crown in the Australian "Colonies, and to make further provision for the "management thereof," Her Majesty was empowered to grant leases or licenses for the occupation of any waste lands of the Crown in the colony of New South Wales (then including the present colony of Victoria), for any term of years not exceeding fourteen, and to make rules respecting the issue of such leases and licenses, and respecting the reservation of any rents thereon, and the insertion therein of any conditions and clauses of forfeiture, and respecting any other matters and things which might be requisite for carrying into complete effect the occupation of such waste land.

And whereas it is expedient to authorize the issue of such leases and licenses as may promote the working of mines (not being mines of gold or silver) on such waste land within the colony of Victoria,

It is hereby ordered by the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice of Her Majesty's Privy Council, as follows:

1. It shall be competent for the Governor of Victoria to license any person or persons to search for mines (not being mines of gold or silver) on such waste lands of the Crown, and for such period, not exceeding twelve months, as may be specified in such license.

2. It shall be competent to the said Governor to grant to the holder of any such license as aforesaid a lease, for mining purposes, of the whole or any part of the land specified in such license.

3. Every such lease shall be for a term not exceeding fourteen years, and shall be subject to a rent of not less than ten shillings per acre per annum, to be paid in advance, and shall be assignable under such rules as shall be ipso facto forfeited if the rent shall not be paid when due, provided that it shall be competent to the Governor to remit such forfeiture on such terms as he shall think fit.

4. The Governor may insert in such leases, such conditions and clauses of forfeiture as he may think fit, and especially such as may seem to him necessary, to secure the bonâ fide application of the land to mining purposes.

5. The extent of land to be comprised in such leases or licenses and the amount of rent to be reserved thereon, shall be regulated from time to time by the Governor with the advice of his Executive Council.

6. At the expiration of every such lease the land comprised therein shall be open to sale by public auction, under such Government regulations as shall be in force respecting such sales

7. Every such lease shall declare whether and under what circumstances the lessee shall be entitled to compensation for improvements effected by him, and shall also declare the mode of estimating and paying such compensation.

8. In this Order in Council the word Governor shall include the Lieutenant-Governor or Officer for the time being administering the Government of Victoria.

At the Court at Buckingham Palace, the 10th day of March, 1855.

PRESENT,

The QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MARCH 16, 1855.

War-Department, March 17, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship, by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol.

My Lord, February 27, 1855.

It appears that on Saturday night the enemy sunk three or four more ships of war in the harbour, as far within the booms as the first sunken ships were outside of them ; and, according to the most accurate examination yesterday, there are now four barriers or impediments to the entrance of the harbour, viz. : two of sunken ships, and two booms.

The only movement on the part of the enemy, since I last wrote to your Lordship, is the march of some infantry and artillery from the neighbourhood of Bakchi-Sarai towards the Tchernaya, upon which river, near Chagouna, they have at present five guns and several hundred men.

The weather has been fine for the last three days, the snow is gradually disappearing, and the country is becoming drier.

The enemy have re-occupied the ground which was the scene of contest between the French and Russians on Saturday morning before daylight ; and they are making great progress in a work they are establishing upon that point.

I inclose the return of casualties to the 25th instant.

I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MARCH 20, 1855.

Admiralty, March 19, 1855.

A DESPATCH, of which the following is a copy, has been received from Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B., Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's Ships and Vessels in the Mediterranean and Black Sea.

PROCEEDINGS AT KERTCH.

Royal Albert, off Sevastopol, February, 27, 1855.

SIR,

With reference to my letter of the 20th instant (No. 135), reporting the highly creditable proceedings of the blockading squadron off Kertch, under the command of Captain Giffard, of Her Majesty's ship Leopard,

2. I have now the honour to enclose copies of two letters which I have received from that active and intelligent officer, reporting his further proceedings, and of his having, in conjunction with His Imperial Majesty's steamer Fulton, captured and destroyed ten 50 cwt. 6-inch guns, and burnt seven large boats, two ranges of barrack buildings, also a quantity of military stores and provisions, near the Boghaz of the Kouban Lake, on the 22nd instant; and I beg leave to call their Lordships' particular attention to the fact that this gallant service was performed during weather which must have rendered its accomplishment exceedingly difficult, and that Vice-Admiral Bruat and I consider that it reflects the highest credit on Captain Giffard, Captain Lebris, of the Fulton, and the officers and men of both nations employed on the occasion.

3. The enemy appears to have lost a considerable number of men on the occasion, whereas no casualties have occurred on our side.

I am, &c.,

ED. LYONS,

Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

To the Secretary of the Admiralty,
London.

Enclosure.

Her Majesty's steam-frigate Leopard, off Kertch, February 25, 1855.

REPORTING THE CAPTURE of ENEMY'S GUNS, AND DESTRUCTION OF MILITARY STORES.

SIR,

I have the honour to inform you that on the 22nd instant, His Imperial French Majesty's ship Fulton having gone to Kaffa to reconnoitre, I proceeded towards Anapa in Her Majesty's ship

Leopard, but on passing the Boghaz of the Kouban Lake, we observed numbers of troops crossing the passage in boats, from Anapa to Taman, so I ran in and anchored off the passage in $4\frac{1}{2}$ fathoms.

The troops had landed, but we opened fire on them and drove them to the hills.

I sent a division of boats, under Lieutenant Graham, to examine the buildings on the points, which proved to be guard-houses, barracks, store-houses, and stables, some of which were burnt, but a heavy snow-storm coming on I recalled the boats.

Lieutenant Graham reporting he had seen some guns and other military stores, which he had not time to destroy, and which the enemy were transporting from Anapa to Kertch, I again proceeded there on the 24th instant, in company with the Fulton.

A few rounds of shot and shell drove the Cossacks and other troops, 400 or 500 in number, to the hills; when the boats under Lieutenant Graham landed, and Monsieur de Bris, in the Fulton took up a position, to the north-west, to check the advance of the enemy, who soon after brought some field batteries on the hills and opened a heavy fire of shot and shell upon the ships and boats.

The very accurate fire of the Fulton drove them from two positions, and the Leopard's shell from a third, after which they retreated behind the hills.

After three hours' work the boats returned, having captured and destroyed ten new and handsome 50 cwt. 6-inch guns and burnt seven large boats, two ranges of barracks and buildings, also a quantity of military stores and provisions.

The Fulton received one shot in her hull, but I am happy to say no casualties occurred.

The loss of the enemy must have been considerable.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) GEO. GIFFARD, Captain.

Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B., &c. &c. &c.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

Lighthouse on Cape La Higuera.

From the 1st of next April, the new lighthouse erected on the above-mentioned Cape, at the mouth of the river Vidasoa, will be lighted during the same hours of the night (from sunset to sunrise) as the light on Mount Igueldo, instead of the light at present existing on that place. This lighthouse lies on the western coast of the creek of the town of Tuenterrabia, in—

43° 23′ 35″ N. Latitude, and 4° 25′ 17″ E. Longitude from the Naval Observatory of San Fernando.

Its apparatus is of the fifth catadrioptical order, with a permanent light of a natural colour, and its range of about 7 miles, when the state of the atmosphere will allow it.

The elevation of the light above the level of the sea is 312 Castillian feet.

The new lighthouse on Cape La Higuera is the first of the lights on the northern coast of Spain on the Ocean, and is therefore combined with the French lights of the port of Socoa, which is a permanent one, and of the Biarritz Lighthouse, which is of the second order, with eclipses every 30″, and the range whereof extends to the mouth of the canal of Passages.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MARCH 20, 1855.

War-Department, March 20, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has received a Despatch and its Enclosure, of which the following are extracts, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Extract from a Despatch from Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, dated "before Sevastopol," March 3, 1855.

I beg now to lay before your Lordship Dr. Hall's report of the state of the sick, and I will direct him to make one weekly, which I will transmit for your Lordship's information.

Enclosure.

Extract from a Report from Dr. Hall, Inspector-General of Hospitals, to Field-Marshal Lord Raglan, dated March 2, 1855.

I will offer a few observations on the weekly state up to the 24th February; and, in doing so, I may premise that the result of the sanitary condition of the Army up to that period is by no means so satisfactory as the previous improvement during the week of fine weather that we had, had led me to anticipate; but though the unfavourable change in the weather, from the genial warmth of spring to the bitter cold of winter, which took place on the 20th, had an injurious effect on certain classes of disease in weakly subjects, still there is sufficient improvement remaining to enable us to look forward with confident hope to the future; and I am the more inclined to indulge this hope from the favourable change which has taken place in the type of fever prevailing in the General Hospital at Balaklava, in the 93rd Highlanders and some other regiments, from low typhoid, to that of a remittent, and even intermittent, form.

This afternoon 100 patients were to be removed from the General Hospital at Balaklava to the Convalescent Establishment on the plateau of the old castle, overlooking the sea; and when the remainder of the huts are erected, which I expect they will soon be now, I look for the happiest results to follow, from being able to place from 400 to 500 convalescents there, in place of sending them down to the crowded establishment at Scutari. In case of our having wounded men, I should wish of all things, to keep them in so desirable a locality; and, by a very little labour, the road up to the huts from the town could easily be made practicable for ambulance mules; and this, I am informed, the Commanding Royal Engineer has been ordered to carry into immediate effect.

The position of the huts I think promises every advantage; they are placed on a dry ridge overlooking the sea; sufficiently removed from the noise and stench of the town, and not too far from our stores and resources.

There is a running stream in a ravine close at hand, of easy access, and fed by a spring higher up in the hills, which could easily be led to the huts themselves by means of gutta percha tubing.

Out of 442 patients, treated in the General Hospital at Balaklava, between the 18th and 24th February, only three casualties have occurred, which, I think, may fairly be termed a low rate of mortality, considering the class of patients that are generally sent in there for treatment—men brought down from camp, and found too ill to embark when they arrive at Balaklava.

The huts in the vineyard in front of the hospital have relieved the hospital, and prevented the necessity of crowding it so much as we were formerly occasionally compelled to do.

The ventilation too of the main building has been improved, by boring two rows of large auger holes through the wooden ceiling of the wards. Mr. Hanbury and the medical officers doing duty under him are very attentive to their patients. The sick have also the benefit of the care of Miss Langston and the nurses under her, who are a great comfort to them; and I am glad to be able to assure your Lordship, that the state of the Purveyor's store is such as to insure every comfort the sick can require.

The cavalry Division, encamped in a sheltered valley near Kadikoi, has enjoyed better health of late, and the mortality this week, though high, as compared with service at home, still it cannot be considered excessive; but with the increased comforts the men now enjoy, and their exemption from night duty, further improvement may be expected. The Artillery has also enjoyed good health; so has the Highland Brigade, which occupies the lines in front of Balaklava, part of which are elevated, and much exposed. But being near Balaklava, they have exerted themselves, and got wooden huts up for the accommodation of both the sick, and a portion of the men in health. They have had the advantage of house shelter for their sick in the village of Kadikoi, during the whole winter. The men are warmly clad, and have the additional benefit of being nearer their resources than the men in front.

The 2nd, 4th, and Light Divisions have improved in health, but the 3rd, and the Brigade of Guards, still continue sickly.

The Guards have just been removed to Balaklava, where rest and better shelter will, I have no doubt, soon have a beneficial effect on their health.

The 3rd division, too, will be relieved in some degree by the 39th Regiment, just sent up to join it. The 39th has lately arrived, and is quite efficient. Huts have been erected for them on an eligible site, and they have a fair chance of escaping any serious outbreak of disease.

Bowel complaints continue to be the most prevalent class of diseases; but I think they are not so serious as they were a short time ago, nor is scurvy so manifest as it was since the issue of lime juice daily as a portion of the men's ration. Lately, I have instructed the medical officers of regiments to inspect the men for the purpose of detecting this complaint,—skin diseases, and seeing that the men are clean in their persons, and change their shirts and flannels at stated periods. The last weekly report is favourable. In the 4th Division, which is the only report I have at hand in my hut, only 138, out of 2,596 men inspected, bore any traces of scurvy; and this is one of the divisions which was as much or more affected with it than any division in the Army a short time ago. Mr. Roberts, the Staff-Surgeon recently appointed to superintend the medical concerns of the division, is an intelligent, active, and zealous officer, and he has effected wonderful reforms since he joined. If the issue of fresh meat could be insured, together with vegetables and lime juice, I am quite satisfied, now that the men are warmly clad, and will soon be better sheltered, a manifest improvement would take place in their health. And if the military operations carrying on would only admit of some longer exemption from duty, a still greater improvement would be observed.

I am inclined to think our greatest difficulties and miseries have been surmounted, and we may now look forward for better and more cheering times. It was wonderful to see the cheering effect the few fine days had on the health and spirits of the men; and as the winter may now be considered nearly at an end, I am full of hope and confidence.

SECOND SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MARCH 20, 1855.

War-Department, March 22, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship, by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
March 8, 1855.

My Lord,

The enemy continue to manifest great activity in preparing the work which I mentioned to your Lordship in my despatch (No. 187), and are now bringing up platform timber and guns for the equipment and armament of it.

Vast convoys are daily observed arriving on the north side of the town; and I learn, from information entitled to credit, that the road leading from Simpheropol is covered with wagons laden with provisions and munitions of war.

This morning three British guns, placed in a battery overhanging the Tchernaya, opened upon two small steamers anchored at the head of the harbour, and, after a fire of about an hour, obliged them to take refuge behind a point. One of them appeared to have sustained considerable damage, and is supposed to have been deserted by her crew.

The weather was fine yesterday, and is particularly so to-day, and the country is becoming quite dry.

I have reason to hope that the sick are deriving material benefit from this change.

I have established a convalescent hospital on the heights immediately above Balaklava, near a fine spring of water.

The Inspector-General of Hospitals entertains great expectations of the advantages that will result from placing the huts in so healthy a locality.

Lieutenant-General Pennefather has resumed the command of the 2nd Division; and is, I am happy to be able to report, looking remarkably well.

I inclose the return of the casualties to the 4th instant.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

Before Sevastopol,
March 10, 1855.

My Lord,

I have really nothing to report to your Lordship this day.

I am happy however to be able to inform you that the weather is exceedingly fine; and that I entertain great hopes, derived from the reports of the Principal Medical Officer, that the sick will materially benefit by the improvement in the temperature.

Our advanced batteries are making considerable progress.

Every effort is directed to the maintenance of the camps in a healthy state, which, as the warm weather approaches, becomes daily more important.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

The Minister of Marine, in connection with the announcement placed in the Staats Courant, under date of 28th October, 1854, gives notice that the two Lighthouses on the Island Schiermonnikoog being no longer required, in consequence of the erection of two Light Towers, have been broken away.

The Hague, 8th February, 1855.

The Minister aforesaid.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

The Minister of Marine

Gives notice to Mariners and others :

1st. That the iron pyramidical sea-buoy outside of the Slÿkgat of Goederede, is missing, probably occasioned by floating ice, and that as speedily as possible, in lieu thereof, a black globular buoy, of the largest size, with the word Goederede, in white painted letters round the top, will be stationed at the same place ;

2nd. That the shallow, at the north-eastern point of the Bank of Scheelhock, in the Goederede Sea Gat, having been found to extend further to the northward, has rendered it necessary to remove about $1\frac{1}{2}$ cable lengths towards the north, the white buoy, No. 6, on the Northern Pampus, as also the inner white Ton, No. 7, by which means the first mentioned will now lie in 38, and the second in 43 palms, at ordinary low water.

To avoid this shallow at night, mariners are provisionally warned, when crossing and Northern Pampus, now not to keep the Light of Goederede, entirely red but rather white, on the western side.

The Hague, 12th March, 1855.

The Minister aforesaid,

(Signed) DE SMIT VAN DEN BROECKE.

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MARCH 27, 1855.

War-Department, March 28, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received two Despatches and their Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord, March 13, 1855.

The enemy commenced working upon the mamelon in front of the tower of Malakoff in the night of Friday; but the nature of the work, from the thickness of the atmosphere, could not be distinguished.

Great progress, however, had been perceived on Sunday, and that night a strong working party of the British troops was occupied in commencing a parallel from the advanced point of our right attack, with a view to form a junction with the corresponding parallel to be made on their side by the French, who began it on the following evening; and much was done to forward the operation before daylight this morning, and it is hoped that the object will be completed to-night.

The weather is generally fine in the early part of the day, but towards evening heavy sea fogs come rolling in, and wholly obscure the view of the place.

The enemy have shewn a battalion and some Cosaques on the heights above Balaklava, and towards Kamara, probably with the view to interrupt the French and English wood-cutting parties, for the construction of gabions, in the immediate neighbourhood, but the allied detachments have not been obliged to discontinue their work.

I enclose a return of casualties to the 10th instant. I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

Before Sevastopol,
MY LORD, March 17, 1855.

The progress of the parallel, which I reported to your Lordship in my despatch of the 13th instant (No. 205), has not been as rapid as was anticipated, the ground being extremely rocky, and the difficulty of procuring cover consequently excessive, and rendering it almost impossible to carry on the operation during the day.

Both the English and the French have now, however, succeeded in establishing the communication between them. Her Majesty's troops have not been assailed; but our Allies have been kept constantly in action, and they have succeeded in driving the enemy from the rifle pits, in which they had established themselves in their immediate front, with distinguished gallantry and great perseverance. They, however, have sustained some loss, though not equal to that which they have inflicted upon their opponents.

A steady fire has been maintained upon the mamelon in the occupation of the enemy, from the guns in our right attack; and the practice of both the navy and the artillery has been conspicuously good, and reflects the highest credit on those branches of Her Majesty's service.

Although no positive attack had been directed against our works, our approaches are carried so close to the enemy, that the casualties are greater than they have lately been, as your Lordship will be concerned to remark in examining the returns I have the honour to enclose; and it is my painful duty to announce to your Lordship the death of Captain Craigie, of the Royal Engineers, whose zeal and devotion to the service could not be surpassed, and who was killed on the 13th, after he had been relieved from the trenches, and was on his way to the Engineer Park, by a splinter from a shell, which burst close to him.

I have the honour to report the arrival of Lieutenant-General Simpson, who joined my Head Quarters yesterday, and that of Sir John McNeill and Colonel Tulloch, who reached Balaklava a few days before.

I have, &c.,

Admiralty, March 28, 1855.

Despatches, of which the following are copies, have been received from Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B., Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's Ships and Vessels in the Mediterranean and Black Sea.

DESTRUCTION OF THE TOWER OF DJIMITEIA BY HER MAJESTY'S STEAM-VESSEL VIPER.

Royal Albert, off Sevastopol,
SIR, March 17, 1855.

I have the honour to enclose for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, a copy of a letter that I have received from Captain Giffard, of Her Majesty's ship Leopard, enclosing one from Lieutenant Armytage, reporting his having destroyed in Her Majesty's steam-vessel Viper, under his command the Martello Tower and Barracks of Djimiteia, which had been recently erected for the defence of the direct communication between Anapa and Kertch.

This very useful service has been performed by Lieutenant Armytage in the manner that might have been expected from an officer of his acknowledged merit.

I am, &c.,
(Signed) EDMUND LYONS,
Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

To the Secretary of the Admiralty.

Enclosure.

Her Majesty's ship Leopard,
SIR, off Kertch, March 8, 1855.

The wind being off shore this morning, I sent Her Majesty's ship Viper to examine the Boghaz of the Kouban Lake, and also the coast as far as ıe Tower of Djimiteia, and have the honour to nclose a letter from Lieutenant Armytage, reorting his having, in the latter place, destroyed he new tower, with two guns, also the barracks nd other buildings.

Lieutenant Armytage deserves great credit for he able manner in which he has performed this ervice with his small vessel.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) GEO. GIFFARD, Captain.

Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B., Commander-in-Chief.

Sub-Enclosure.

Her Majesty's steam-vessel Viper, off Kertch, March 8, 1855.

SIR,

I have the honour to report, that in obedience o your instructions, I left this anchorage at 5·30 his morning, for the purpose of examining the nouth of the Kuban Lake. I arrived off there at ıine, and observing a small force of Cossacks on he north spit, opened fire and dispersed them, hen examined the lake in the whale-boat of this hip, but observing nothing of consequence, proeeded along the coast to the south-eastward.

I had just previously taken possession of a small vessel laden with charcoal and other goods, which I have brought in with me, with three prisoners on board. I enclose you her papers, &c., as they may be useful to His Excellency, the Commander-in-Chief, and request your directions in reference to the prisoners.

At 1·50 P.M. I arrived off the Martello Tower, at Djimiteia, anchoring bow and stern at a distance of 500 yards from the beach, and at 2 P.M. opened fire upon the fort, dispersing the few Cossacks that remained.

It is now my pleasing duty to inform you that I have effectually destroyed the fort, barracks, and granaries (having set fire to the latter), spiked and disabled the two guns, destroying the ammunition ; and all, I am happy to say, without any casualty on board the Viper.

I beg to bring under your notice the conduct of Mr. James Roche, Second Master, who commanded the landing parties, and Mr. John R. Moss, Master's Assistant, who aided him in destroying the guns ; both having performed their duty much to my satisfaction.

I have, &c.

(Signed) WM. ARMYTAGE, Lieutenant-and Commander.

Captain George Giffard, H.M.S. Leopard, Senior Officer.

Royal Albert, off Sevastopol, March 17, 1855.

SIR,

I have the honour to enclose, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, a letter which has been addressed to me by Captain Giffard, stating that while making a reconnaissance near Soujak-Kalé, with Her Majesty's ship Leopard, under his command, and accompanied by Her Majesty's ships Highflyer, Swallow, and Viper, and also by H.I.M's steamship-of-war Fulton, he was informed by the Circassians in the neighbourhood, that the enemy had so reduced the strength of that fortress by the removal of men and guns to Anapa, that they were ready to attack it by land if he would do so by sea ; and that he, wishing to encourage the natives and to embarrass the Russians, had assented

o the proposal, and moved the ships to within .000 yards of the south face of the fort, where ıe performed his part, but that on finding the Circassians did not perform theirs, he withdrew, .fter having driven all the garrison out of the)lace, with the exception of a few gunners in the arthern batteries, and having also dismounted everal guns, and done considerable damage to the rsenal and public works; leaving the garrison bout a mile from the place, surrounded by Circassians who were collecting reinforcements.

The ships appear to have been well placed, and o have fired with great effect: and Captain Giffard xpresses his thanks to Captain Le Bris, his ıble coadjutor on former occasions, as well as to Captain Moore, Commander Craufurd, and Lieu- enant Armitage, and their respective officers and hips' companies for their support.

Of Captain Giffard himself, I may perhaps be ermitted to observe that this is not the first time hat his zeal and gallantry have been conspicuous ince he has been under my command.

I am, &c.,

(Signed) ED. LYONS,

Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

To the Secretary of the Admiralty,

London.

Reporting an Attack upon Soujak.

Her Majesty's ship Leopard, Soujak Bay,

Sir, March 13, 1855.

I have the honour to acquaint you, that from the information I had received from the Circas- sians, at Ghelenjik, and also from the observations of Monsieur Le Bris, of His Imperial Majesty's steam-vessel Fulton, as well as my own on the 6th instant in Soujak Bay, I was led to believe the Russians had sent many guns, stores, &c., away from that fort, and would probably leave if a force appeared off it.

Wishing to have more certain information for you on my return to your flag, I, on the evening of the 11th instant, when the Highflyer joined me, proceeded with the vessels named in the margin* to Soujak Bay, where we anchored on the morning of the 12th; but a fresh gale, with heavy swell, prevented our closing the batteries. I therefore threw some shells into the place; and the Circassians, who soon appeared in numbers, at the same time attacked the small fort at the head of the bay, opposite the town, drove out the garrison, and burnt it, at 8 A.M. This morning the Circassians informed me they had a sufficient force, and would attack Soujah Kalé by land if I would do so by sea, and, wishing to encourage them and embarrass the enemy, I immediately moved the squadron to within 1000 yards of the South Face, and opened fire on it. From this point the enemy only had ten guns to bear on the ships, but the light wind and damp weather made the smoke hang over and conceal them from our fire, while our masts above where conspicuous to them.

We soon drove all the inhabitants and troops out of the place, except those in the earthen batteries, but I was much disappointed to find that the Circassians did not advance to attack them when out of the town, as they had promised. I, therefore, moved out again, as, with our small force of men, it would have been too great a risk to land, the main body of the garrison being close at hand.

* Leopard, Highflyer, Swallow, Viper, and Fulton, French steamer.

The arsenal and public buildings are much injured, and several of the guns were silenced and dismounted. Our loss, I am happy to say, has been small; and some injury has been done to the masts and hulls of the ships.

I was much pleased with the able way in which all the ships took up their assigned positions, and have to thank Monsieur Le Bris, of the Fulton, Captain Moore, Commander Craufurd, and Lieutenant Armytage, commanding the Viper, for their able support, as well as all the officers and men.

The Russian force, apparently 1500 or 2000 men, and the other inhabitants, are now encamped about a mile north of the town, having left a few men in the batteries; they will have great difficulty in communicating with Anapa, being surrounded by the Circassians (who were collecting reinforcements), and should they return to the town, a small naval force can at any time drive them out again.

I enclose list of casualties among the ships.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) GEORGE GIFFARD,
Captain.

Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons,
Bart., G.C.B.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MARCH 30, 1855.

War-Department, March 30, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has received from the Earl of Clarendon a Letter and its Enclosure, of which the following are copies, addressed to Lord Clarendon by Major-General Cannon (Ottoman Army).

My Lord, Georgevo, August 1, 1854.

I have the honour to forward to your Lordship copy of a Despatch, dated 10th July, which I addressed to his Highness Omer Pacha after the action of the 7th July, at Rouschouk, and the passage of the Danube.

I take the liberty earnestly to recommend to your Lordship's most favourable notice the three surviving British Officers therein named, who served under my orders on that day, and I say it without fear of contradiction, that had they not, by their gallantry and firmness, led on the Turkish troops in the manner they did, the fate of that eventful day might have proved to be widely different.

Their names are Lieutenant-Colonels Balfour Ogilvy, Hinde, and Ballard, all of the Indian Army.

I have, &c.,

P. CANNON, Major-General.

To Right Hon. the Earl of Clarendon, K.G., G.C.B.

Enclosure.

Highness, Rouschouk, July 10, 1854.

It being my duty to bring under your Highness's favourable notice the conduct of the British officers engaged in the action of the 7th instant, and the passage of the Danube, I have the honour to state that I crossed the river on that morning, with the first body of troops, under the command of Ferik Beker Pacha, accompanied by Captain Bent, of the Royal Engineers, and Lieutenant Ballard, of the Bombay Engineers. These two officers were conspicuous for their gallantry in leading on our light infantry troops against the Russians, and successfully carried everything before them, until strong reinforcements of the enemy arrested their progress. At this critical moment my Aide-de-camp, Lieutenant-Colonel Youer Bey (Balfour Ogilvy), who had crossed higher up the river, with a body of 500 men, arrived, and with him Lieutenant-Colonel Beyzad Bey (Hinde). These two officers fought their way in the most gallant and spirited manner, and succeeded in forming a timely junction with the main body of our troops.

It is with pain that I have to inform your Highness that Lieutenant Burke, of the Royal Engineers, was killed whilst acting with a detached body of our troops. I have also the melancholy duty to record the death of Captain Arnold, of the 3rd Regiment Madras Light Infantry, and Lieutenant Meynell, of Her Majesty's 75th Regiment of Foot, both serving on my personal staff. These two brave British officers fell in a desperate conflict with the enemy, and their remains now rest on the spot ennobled by their fall. I am much indebted to all these officers for their valuable services on that day ; and when I remind your Highness that the following named officers,—Lieutenant-Colonels Youer Bey (Balfour Ogilvy) and Beyzad Bey (Hinde), Captains Arnold, Ballard, and Meynell, were all volunteers, freely and gratuitously giving their services in the just cause of His Imperial Majesty the Sultan, I feel confident your Highness will permit me to recommend the survivors,—Lieutenant-Colonels Youer Bey (Balfour Ogilvy), Beyzad Bey (Hinde, 65th Regiment Bengal Infantry), and Captain Ballard, to your Highness's most favourable consideration.

I have already, in a separate Despatch, done myself the honour to bring the services of Captain Bent, of the Royal Engineers, under the favourable notice of his Excellency General Lord Raglan.

With the highest respect,

I have, &c.,

(Signed) BEHRAM (GENERAL CANNON).

GALLANT REPULSE OF THE ENEMY FROM EUPATORIA, IN NOVEMBER LAST.

Britannia, in the Archipelago,
SIR, December 30, 1854.

SIR, Eupatoria, November 15, 1854.

I have the honour to inform you, that, encouraged by the catastrophe* mentioned in my other letter of this day's date, and our rockets having been blown down, a large body of the enemy's cavalry, between seven and eight thousand, supported by sixteen guns of horse artillery, made an attack on us at 3·45 P.M.

* Damages done by gale of November 14.

They planted their guns (under cover of the mills) at about a thousand yards, in front of our upper rocket battery, where we had two rockets, one 12-pounder howitzer, and an 18-pounder iron carronade, procured from a merchant ship.

They commenced a heavy fire of shot and shell, and with sufficiently good practice to fall very thick around us, and many shot lodged, and several shell exploded, in the parapet of the redoubt. Their fire was returned with great spirit on our side, by the two rocket batteries, the upper one commanded by Lieutenant Lambert, of the Spiteful, and Mr. Lake, midshipman of the Leander; Lieutenant Hood, of the Arethusa, attended the lower battery, with Mr. Mitchell, mate of the Leander, where were two 12-pounder howitzers, and one 18-pounder merchant ship's guns, and three rockets, one 24-pounder, and two 12-pounders.

Having no marines and but few seamen, I reinforced both batteries with fifty Arab troops, who, however, as the enemy did not approach within musket shot, had no opportunity of doing anything, though, from their behaviour under fire, they seemed to promise well. The fire was kept up with animation on both sides for nearly an hour, without any casualties amongst us, except one man's thumb slightly wounded; although it seemed wonderful that no one was struck by the shot and shell, which flew pretty thickly. The enemy's cavalry was drawn up in dense masses in the rear and on each flank of their artillery, and, though an occasional shot or rocket fell amongst them and disturbed their formation, they seemed to be in excellent order. Both our officers and men seemed animated with the highest spirit, and, considering the immensely superior force on the enemy's side, their firmness merited my warmest approbation. My attention was devoted to the upper battery, being nearest the enemy, and whence I could best observe his movements. Some of our rockets were beautifully directed by Lamb,* gunner's mate of the Arethusa, and Ball, quartermaster of the Leander, and appeared to fall amongst the horse artillery, and I have no doubt contributed to hasten their retreat, which they did at about 4·40.

I may add that the officers and men did their duty with alacrity, and seemed anxious to have an opportunity of meeting the enemy. I have particularly to call your attention to the steady and cool conduct of Lieutenant Hood, who rode over the field this morning, after the action, and ascertained that our shot and rockets were well directed, and appeared to fall exactly in the right place ; he has recovered many of our shot at a time when we most need them. I have likewise great satisfaction in bringing before your notice the zeal and intelligence of Mr. Brine, mate of the Leander, in charge of two 18-pounder merchant ship's guns, at the Hospital post, and he has reported to me the good conduct of James Montgomery, leading seamen of Her Majesty's ship Leander ; I beg to recommend him to your favourable consideration. The Tartars say the Russians lost many men, as they saw many saddles vacant.

I have great pleasure in particularizing the conduct of Mr. Hamilton, senior lieutenant of the Leander, from whom I have received the most efficient assistance throughout these trying times

* Lamb promoted in vacancy caused by death of Gunner of Banshee.

o both officers and men, as well as that of Messrs. rvine, mate of the Megæra, Dupuis, midshipman f the Leander, Phillips, master's-assistant of he Megæra, who has acted as my aide-de-camp, Doctor Blake, assistant-surgeon of the Leander, nd the Rev. S. Robson, of the same ship, whose nanifold services in the field, as well as his own luties, have merited great praise. Assistant-Commissary-General Gardiner I have found a nost able assistant in everything connected with his duty. I respectfully trust that, in the defence of this town that you have done me the honour to entrust me with, I have, as far as my limited neans will allow, carried your wishes into effect.

I have, &c.,

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," power is given to the Postmaster-General to remit any of the rates of British postage for the time being, payable by law on the transmission of post letters, newspapers, or other printed papers, to such extent as the Lords of the Treasury shall from time to time direct; and power is also given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury from time to time, by Warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British or Inland postage, payable by law on the transmission by the post of Foreign or Colonial letters or newspapers, or any other printed papers, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof, and a scale of weight to be contained in such Warrant.

And whereas it is expedient that regulations should be made for the transmission by the post of the letters hereinafter mentioned.

lieu of any rates of postage now payable by law on such letters, a combined British and foreign rate of three pence.

And we direct, that on every letter, transmitted as is mentioned in this Warrant, exceeding a quarter of an ounce in weight, there shall be charged, taken, and paid, in lieu of any rates of postage now payable by law on such respective letters, progressive and additional rates of postage as follows ; that is to say :

On every letter, exceeding a quarter of an ounce in weight, and not exceeding half an ounce in weight, two rates of postage.

On every letter exceeding half an ounce in weight, and not exceeding three quarters of an ounce in weight, three rates of postage.

On every letter exceeding three quarters of an ounce in weight, and not exceeding one ounce in weight, four rates of postage.

And for every quarter of an ounce in weight above the weight of one ounce, there shall be charged and taken one additional rate of postage ; and every fraction of a quarter of an ounce above the weight of one ounce shall be charged as an additional quarter of an ounce ; and each progressive and additional rate, chargeable under this clause, shall be estimated and charged at the sum which any such letter would be charged with under the provisions hereinbefore contained, if not exceeding one quarter of an ounce in weight.

And we further direct, that in respect of letters sent by any non-commissioned officers, serjeants, corporals, drummers, fifers, private soldiers, or seamen, under the regulations of this Warrant, the following conditions shall be observed ; that is to say : upon each such letter shall be superscribed the name of the writer, and his class or description in the regiment, detachment, or vessel, to which he shall belong; and upon every such letter there shall be written in the handwriting of, and signed by, the officer having at the time the command of the regiment, detachment, or vessel, to which the privileged person belongs, the name of such officer and the name of such regiment, detachment, or vessel.

And we further direct, that in respect to letters, received by the post under this Warrant, by any commissioned or warrant officers, midshipmen, or master's mates, or any non-commissioned officers, private soldiers, or seamen, the following conditions shall be observed; that is to say: the postage of each such letter posted in the United Kingdom shall be prepaid, either in money or by the proper stamp or stamps being affixed thereto, at the time of the same being posted; and as to letters received by any non-commissioned officers, private soldiers, or seamen, each letter shall be directed to the privileged person, specifying on the superscription thereof, the regiment, detachment, or vessel to which he shall belong.

And we further direct, that if the postage of any such letter posted in the United Kingdom shall not be prepaid either in money or by stamps when posted, the same shall not be forwarded by the post; and that if in any case any other of the conditions hereinbefore prescribed be not complied with, the letter shall be charged with the same rates of postage as if this Warrant had not been signed.

And we further direct that the several terms and expressions used in this Warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said recited Act.

Provided lastly, and we hereby declare and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by Warrant under their hands, at any time hereafter, to alter or repeal any of the rates hereby altered, or the regulations hereby made, and to make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and from time to time to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MARCH 30, 1855.

War-Department, April 2, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received two Despatches and their Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
March 20, 1855.

My Lord,

I do myself the honour to transmit to your Lordship a letter from the Inspector-General of Hospitals, forwarding the weekly return of sick to the 17th instant.

The number of sick is not diminished, but the cases are lighter, and every day the men in camp exhibit a more healthy appearance.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c. &c.

Enclosure.

Before Sevastopol,
March 19, 1855.

My Lord,

In transmitting the weekly state of sick of the Army to the 17th instant, I have the honour to state, that though the sickness still amounts to 14·31 per cent., the mortality does not exceed 0·51 per cent., which is a proof that the diseases are milder in character ; and I think I may safely say the general health and appearance of the men is greatly improved ; and had not the duty, by the unavoidable operations of the siege going on, been increased of late, I think the sick list would have been still more diminished, as the men's condition is in every other way so much improved both in diet, dress, and accommodation.

It has been proposed by the Minister-at-War to give the men Tea, Coffee and Cocoa on alternate mornings, and to-morrow your lordship will receive the report of the Medical Board ordered to consider the subject. The two first, I think good, and the change will be both agreeable and beneficial to the men, but cocoa I am afraid requires too much preparation to be usefully adopted in the Army under present circumstances.

The prevailing diseases are fevers of a low typhoid form in some instances, and in others assuming an intermittent and remittent type, and bowel complaints.

Fevers have been rather on the increase of late, but bowel complaints have become much fewer in number, and milder in character.

Scurvy, too, though the number appears large in the return, is on the decrease ; and I can assure your Lordship, from recent personal inspection of the men of the different divisions, that the generality of the cases returned under that head are of the most trifling character, and under the use of the present change of diet, I am in hopes the disease will soon totally disappear from our list.

In the 1st Division, the Brigade of Guards continues to improve in health and appearance, from its change of situation ; and the Brigade of Highlanders is also efficient. The 79th and 93rd are influenced by the locality of their camps, which cannot well be changed, and have more sickness than the 42nd, which are more favourably placed, and in this regiment the most scrupulous attention is paid to the sanitary condition of their camp.

To show how locality affects the health of the men, I may mention the wing of the 2nd battalion of the Rifle Brigade which occupies the high promontory of the southern extremity of the Balaklava lines overlooking the sea ; and here, though the men are exposed, and the duty is as severe as in any other part of the camp, there is little or no disease.

In the 2nd Division, the 41st and 95th Regiments have been more unhealthy than the rest, and have had a larger number of fever cases than others admitted into hospital, and many of them have been of a serious character. It is difficult to account for this, as there is nothing in the locality of the ground occupied by these two regiments different from that of the rest of the division. Perhaps their tents were a little more crowded than the rest, and the hospital huts, from the pressure of sickness, had more men in them than was advisable ; but this I directed to be remedied when I visited the hospitals a few days ago.

The health of the 3rd Division is improved, decidedly so in some of the regiments ; and the health of the 4th and Light Divisions is improved also.

The cavalry, with the exception of the 2nd Dragoons, is in good health, and the health of the 2nd, the Superintending Medical Officer seems to think, has been influenced by local causes that are now in course of removal.

The health of the artillery has been tolerably good during the week, and the cases under treatment, both in the general and convalescent hospitals at Balaklava, have progressed favourably; and when the remainder of the hospital huts at the Castle come into use, I expect great advantage from their occupation, both by convalescents and wounded men, should we unfortunately have any.

My Lord,

In my Despatch of the 17th instant, I reported to your Lordship the progress made in forming the parallel constructed to unite the right of our right attack with the left of the French on the Inkerman heights.

The contest of the latter with the enemy for the possession of the Rifle pits in their immediate front was renewed after dark on that night, and was continued for several hours, the fire being excessively heavy, particularly of musketry, and considerable loss must have been sustained by our allies I fear, as well as by the enemy, who continue to hold the ambuscades; but the French persevere, notwithstanding, in working forward, and are approaching the mamelon, on which the Russians are busily engaged in building a formidable work, though frequently interrupted by our batteries and those of the French.

On the night of the 17th the English parallels were not attacked, but the fire to which I have above alluded was so continuous, that the whole force was either under arms or ready to turn out.

I inclose the returns of casualties to the 18th instant.

It was currently reported yesterday that Prince Menchikoff had died on his way to Moscow. I have not been able to ascertain if this report be founded; but it was so fully credited as to have been dispatched to Constantinople.

Prince Gortchakoff is stated to have arrived at Bachshi Sarai, and to have assumed the command of the army.

Reinforcements are reported to be on their way from Russia, and the 9th Division to have reached the neighbourhood of Eupatoria. The position of the Russian troops in the vicinity of the Tchernaya remains unaltered.

The progress of the railway continues to be satisfactory, and we are already enabled to use it with considerable advantage, both for the conveyance of supplies and hutting, so far as the high ground some way on this side of Kadikoi.

Mr. Beattie's exertions deserve every commendation.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of APRIL 3, 1855.

War-Department, April 3, 1855.

LORD PANMURE, has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, adressed to His Lordship, by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord, March 20, 1855.

It is with deep concern that I transmit for your Lordship's information the copy of a letter, which I received on the 18th instant, from General Canrobert, announcing with every expression of concern, the death of a British officer, who appears to have wandered into the French camp, and not answering the challenge that was repeated three times, was shot dead by the French sentry, whose post he had approached.

This officer, Surgeon Le Blanc, of the 9th Foot, occupied a tent near the hospital huts of his regiment, situated at some distance from the encampment of the regiment itself. He was a gentleman of most temperate habits, and was occupied in reading, when suddenly, upon the alarm sounding, he rose from his seat, leaving his candle lighted and his book open, and walked out, he was never seen alive afterwards.

It should be explained that, shortly after the close of day on the 17th, there was a very heavy fire on the left of the French right, which was maintained for several hours. None of the English posts were attacked, but it was considered prudent to get the greater portion of our troops under arms. Mr. Le Blanc was shortsighted, and probably mistook his way from the first, the night being excessively dark, for he was found far distant to the left, and must have wandered from our position without knowing the direction in which he was going.

Being anxious to ascertain the facts of this unfortunate case, as correctly as possibly, I have set on foot an inquiry to be conducted by English and French officers, in association with each other; and I propose to do myself the honour to send you their report.

I have addressed a similar letter to the General Commanding-in-Chief.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c. &c.

Enclosure.

Au Quartier Général, le 18 Mars, 1855.

MYLORD,

J'ai la douleur d'avoir à vous rendre compte d'un événement bien regrettable, qui préoccupe péniblement l'Armée Française et son Commandant-en-Chef.

Cette nuit, alors que les troupes étaient tenues en état d'alerte perpétuelle, un officier Anglais s'est présenté vers minuit en avant du front de bandière du 18e régiment, établi près du clocheton en arrière de nos tranchées des attaques de gauche. Interpellé trois fois par le qui vive, cet officier n'a pas répondu, la sentinelle a fait feu et il a été tué sur le coup.

J'ai peine à m'expliquer comment ce malheureux officier se trouvait à pareille heure si loin du camp Anglais. Je crois que sa mort ne peut être attribuée qu'à son imprudence, mais je n'en déplore pas moins cet événement, qu'il faut attribuer aussi à l'émotion naturelle d'un jeune soldat, lequel, au milieu des circonstances qui ont marqué la nuit dernière a rigoureusement éxécuté le règlement militaire.

Je prie votre Seigneurie d'agréer l'assurance de mon respectueux dévouement.

(Signé) GL. CANROBERT.

A Sa Seigneurie le Feld-Maréchal Lord Raglan, Commandant-en-Chef l'Armée Anglaise.

(Translation.)

Head Quarters,

My Lord, March 18, 1855.

I am grieved to have to inform you of an event, much to be regretted, which painfully engrosses the French Army and its Commander-in-Chief.

Last night, whilst the troops were kept perpetually on the alert, an English officer presented himself before the line of the 18th Regiment, established near the watch tower behind our trenches of the left attack. Although summoned three times by the qui vive the officer did not reply; the sentinel fired, and he was killed on the spot.

I can hardly understand how this unhappy officer found himself at such an hour so far from the English camp. I believe that his death can only be attributed to his own imprudence; but I do not the less deplore this event, which must also be attributed to the natural emotion of a young soldier, who, in the midst of the events which marked last night, rigorously executed the military regulation.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) GL. CANROBERT,

General-in-Chief of the French Army.

Field-Marshal Lord Raglan, &c., &c.

And the Right Honourable Lord Panmure, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, and the Right Honourable the Commissioners for the Affairs of India, are to give the necessary directions herein, as to them may respectively appertain.

C. C. Greville.

And whereas Her Majesty has been pleased, by various Orders in Council to direct that burials should be discontinued in the churchyards and burial-grounds hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Bart., one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, has made certain representations stating that he is of opinion that the time for closing the said churchyards and burial-grounds may be extended;

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, having taken such representations into consideration, is pleased by and with the advice of Her Privy Council to order, and it is hereby ordered, that burials be discontinued in the undermentioned churchyards and burial-grounds as follows, viz.:

And whereas by an Order in Council of the eighteenth of October last, certain regulations were made in respect of Trinity Churchyard, FROME, and the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Bart., one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, has represented that such regulations may be altered, Her Majesty is thereupon pleased, by and with the advice of Her Privy Council, to order, and it is hereby ordered, that instead of such regulations, interments in the said churchyard be discontinued, except in that part of the churchyard which is more than five yards distant from the church, or any other building, and that in such part the regulations for new burial-grounds shall be observed.

And it is further ordered, by and with the like advice, and upon a representation as aforesaid, that in the case of the vaults and brick graves which can be opened without digging up the soil of the churchyard of the parish of BARNES, exemption be made from the prohibition of burial, contained in an Order in Council, of the eleventh of August last, in favour of persons standing in the relationship of husband, wife, son, or daughter to persons already buried in such vaults or brick

NOTICE TO MASTERS OF VESSELS TRADING TO RIO GRANDE DO SUL.

Board of Trade, Whitehall, April 3, 1855.

The Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade and Plantations have received a Despatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Rio Grande do Sul, notifying that British Shipmasters visiting that port have been in the habit of calculating the Brazilian "Palmo" as equivalent to nine inches British, and to signal the draught of water of their vessels (which is notified in Palmos) according to this estimate.

This custom, although sanctioned by the Sailing Directions with which Shipmasters are usually furnished for their guidance, is stated to have led to many mischiefs and inconveniences.

Her Majesty's Consul at Rio Grande do Sul has therefore officially ascertained from the Captain of that port that the exact equivalent of the Brazilian Palmo, as used there, is eight and three-quarters inches, British measure.

British Shipmasters trading with the port of Rio Grande do Sul are accordingly warned, that when hoisting the signals of the draught of water of their vessels, in order to enter or leave that port, they should signal the exact draught of water calculating the Brazilian Palmo at no more than eight and three-quarters inches British; as by doing otherwise they hoist signals of less draught of water than their vessels require, thus increasing the risk of their vessels being injured or lost upon the Bar, and giving to the authorities at the Bar the opportunity of attributing to the fault of the Masters the casualties which occur. Shipmasters also render themselves liable to a heavy fine for signalling incorrectly.

NOTICE TO MASTERS OF VESSELS TRADING TO RIO GRANDE DO SUL.

Board of Trade, Whitehall, April 3, 1855.

The Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade and Plantations have received, through the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a copy of a Despatch from Her Majesty's Minister at Rio de Janeiro, inclosing the translation of a Circular Note issued by the Brazilian Minister for Foreign Affairs respecting the practice by Masters of British vessels of attempting to cross the bar at Rio Grande do Sul, without waiting for the proper signal for entrance; copy of which translation is subjoined.

(Copy.)

(Translation, Circular.)

Ministry of Foreign Affairs,
Rio de Janeiro, January 18, 1855.

It having come to the knowledge of the Imperial Government that some captains of foreign vessels commit the error of imprudently attempting to cross the bar of the province of San Pedro do Rio Grande do Sul, without the signal for entrance having been made by the respective Harbour Master, wherefrom disasters have frequently resulted, I consider it my duty, in the interest of national and foreign commerce, to call the attention of Mr. H. F. Howard, &c., to this subject, hoping that he will on his part intervene, in order that the captains of the merchant ships of his nation, who seek the said bar, may comply with the established practice, and avoid committing an error which may be equally prejudicial to the captains themselves, and to commerce in general.

I avail myself, &c.,

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury from time to time by Warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British or Inland postage, payable by law on the transmission by the post of foreign or colonial letters or newspapers, or any other printed papers, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof and a scale of weight to be contained in such Warrant.

And whereas it is expedient that regulations should be made for the transmission by the post of the letters hereinafter mentioned.

Now we, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the power or authority in us for such purpose vested in and by the said Act, and for all other powers enabling us in this behalf, do by this Warrant, under the hands of two of us the said Commissioners, by the authority of the statute in that case made and provided, order and direct that on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight transmitted by the post between any place in the United Kingdom and the colonies of Sierra Leone and Turk's Island, or either of them (direct or through any other colony, or through any foreign country) there shall be charged and taken in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such letters, an uniform British rate of sixpence.

And we direct that on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, transmitted by the post between Sierra Leone or Turk's Island, and any other of Her Majesty's colonies, or any foreign country through the United Kingdom (whether through any colony or foreign country or not) there shall be charged and taken, in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such letters, the rates of British postage following; that is to say:

For the conveyance of every such letter between Sierra Leone or Turk's Island, and any part of the United Kingdom, a rate of sixpence, and for the conveyance of every such letter between the port in the United Kingdom of the departure or arrival of the packet or ship conveying the same and the colony or foreign country to or from which the same shall be forwarded, such a further or additional rate of postage as shall from time to time be charged and payable for British postage on letters posted or delivered at the port in the United Kingdom of the departure or arrival of the packet or ship conveying the same, and transmitted direct between such port and any such colony or foreign country.

And we direct that on every letter transmitted as is mentioned in this Warrant exceeding half an ounce in weight, there shall be charged, taken and paid progressive and additional rates of postage as follows; that is to say:

On every such letter exceeding half an ounce in weight and not exceeding one ounce in weight, two rates of postage.

On every such letter exceeding one ounce and not exceeding two ounces in weight, four rates of postage.

On every such letter exceeding two ounces and not exceeding three ounces in weight, six rates of postage.

And on every such letter exceeding three ounces and not exceeding four ounces in weight, eight rates of postage.

And for every ounce in weight above the weight of four ounces there shall be charged and taken two additional rates of postage, and every fraction of an ounce above the weight of four ounces, shall be charged as one additional ounce, and each progressive and additional rate chargeable under this clause shall be estimated and charged at the sum which any such letter would be charged with under this Warrant if not exceeding half an ounce in weight.

And we direct, that in all cases in which any letter, in respect of which any rate of postage is chargeable by this Warrant, shall pass through a foreign country, any foreign postage payable thereon shall be charged and paid thereon in addition to the British postage.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of APRIL 3, 1855.

War-Department, April 6, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship, by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol.

My Lord, March 24, 1855.

On the morning of the 22nd the French troops in the advanced parallel moved forward, and drove the enemy out of the rifle pits in their immediate front, but nothing of any importance occurred during the day.

Early in the night, however, a serious attack was made upon the works of our Allies in front of the Victoria redoubt, opposite the Malakoff tower.

The night was very dark, and the wind so high, that the firing which took place, and which was very heavy, could scarcely be heard in the British camp ; it is therefore difficult to speak with certainty of what occurred from any thing that could be heard or observed at the moment.

It appears, however, that the Russians, after attacking the head of the sap which the French are carrying on towards the Mamelon, fell with two heavy masses on their new parallel, to the rear of which they succeeded in penetrating and momentarily possessing themselves of, after a gallant resistance on the part of our Allies.

Having broken through, they passed along the parallel and in rear of it, until they came in contact with the troops stationed in our advanced parallel extending into the ravine, from the right of our advance, were it connects with the French trench.

The enemy was here met by detachments of the 77th and 97th Regiments, forming part of the guard of the trenches, who, although thus taken suddenly both in flank and rear, behaved with the utmost gallantry and coolness.

The detachments of the 97th, which was on the extreme right, and which consequently first came in contact with the enemy, repulsed the attack at the point of the bayonet.

They were led by Captain Vicars, who, unfortunately, lost his life on the occasion ; and I am assured that nothing could be more distinguished that the gallantry and good example which he set to the detachment under his command.

The conduct of the detachment of the 77th was equally distinguished ; and the firmness and promptitude with which the attack, in this part of our works, was met, were in the highest degree creditable to that regiment.

These troops were under the direction of Major

Gordon, of the Royal Engineers, who was wounded on the occasion so severely, as for some time I fear, to deprive the Army of the benefit of his valuable services.

The attention of the troops in our advanced works having been by these transactions drawn to the right, the enemy took occasion to move upon, and succeeded in penetrating into, the left front of our right attack, near the battery where two 10-inch mortars have recently been placed. They advanced along the works until they were met by a detachment of the 7th and 34th regiments, which had been at work in the neighbourhood, under the direction of Lieutenant-Colonel Tylden, of the Royal Engineers, who promptly made them stand to their arms, and led them with the greatest determination and steadiness against the enemy, who were speedily ejected from the works and fairly pitched over the parapet, with but little or no firing on our part.

Lieutenant-Colonel Tylden speaks in the highest terms of the conduct of the troops on this occasion, and particularly of that of Lieutenant Marsh, Acting-Adjutant of the 33rd Regiment, whose services and activity throughout the night were very useful to him.

Captain the Honourable Cavendish Browne, of the 7th, and Lieutenant Jordan of the 34th Regiment, were unfortunately killed in this attack, after displaying the most distinguished gallantry, and Lieutenant McHenry of the former Regiment was wounded, but I hope not very severely. Lieutenant-Colonel Kelly, of the 34th Regiment, who commanded in the trenches, is, I regret to have to add, missing.

The French, in retiring from their advanced parallel upon their supports, speedily rallied, and fell upon the enemy, whom they repulsed with great loss, and followed so far up towards the Mamelon, that they were enabled to level and destroy nearly all the "ambuscades" or "rifle concealments" erected along their front.

I fear, however, that this success has not been accomplished without considerable loss on their part, although that of the enemy is much greater.

Yesterday the whole of the ground between the posts of the two armies was covered with their dead, amounting to several hundreds, besides those which they had undoubtedly carried off before daylight.

In the meanwhile the enemy in great numbers found their way into the advanced batteries on our extreme left, which are not yet armed, and momentarily got possession of them.

The working parties were, however, speedily collected and reformed by Captain Chapman, of the 20th Regiment, Acting-Engineer, and they at once drove the enemy out of the trenches with the utmost gallantry.

Captain Montagu, of the Royal Engineers, who was superintending the works, unfortunately fell into the hands of the enemy.

I enclose the return of casualties to the 22nd, inclusive.

The wind is excessively high, but the weather is in other respects fine.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure,

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas an Act of Parliament was passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of "the duties of postage."

And whereas another Act of Parliament was passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for giving "further facilities for the transmission of letters "by post, and for the regulating the duties of "postage thereon, and for other purposes relating "to the Post-office."

And whereas the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the powers reserved to them in and by the said two beforementioned Acts, and of all other powers enabling them in that behalf, did, by a certain Warrant in writing (under the hands of two of them, the said Commissioners, by the authority of the statute in that case made and provided), bearing date the 22nd day of February, 1855, order and direct that all packets consisting of books, publications, or works of literature or art, whether British, colonial, or foreign, and all packets consisting of printed votes and proceedings of the Imperial Parliament or the Colonial Legislatures, might be transmitted by the post between any part of the United Kingdom and any part of the several places mentioned and set forth in the Schedule B, to the said now reciting Warrant annexed; and that all such respective packets should be so transmitted in conformity with, and under and subject to, the several regulations, orders, directions, and conditions thereinafter mentioned and contained; and that the single rate of postage for the transmission thereof should be that which was mentioned and set forth against the said places respectively in the said Schedule B; and that all such respective packets so transmitted should be subject to the several progressive and additional rates of postage thereinafter mentioned.

And whereas it is expedient to extend the provisions of the said recited Warrant of the 22nd day of February, 1855, except as hereinafter mentioned, to packets of a like kind to be transmitted by the post between any part of the United Kingdom and any part of the colony of Sierra Leone.

Now we, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the powers reserved to us in and by the said two hereinbefore recited Acts of Parliament, or either of them, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, do, by this Warrant, under the hands of two of us, the said Commissioners, by the authority of the statute in that case made and provided, order and direct that all packets consisting of books, publications, or works of literature or art, whether British, colonial, or foreign, and all packets consisting of printed votes and proceedings of the Imperial Parliament, or any of the Colonial Legislatures, may be transmitted by the post between any part of the United Kingdom and any part of the colony of Sierra Leone, and that the single rate of postage for the transmission thereof shall be sixpence; and that on every such packet so transmitted under the provisions of this Warrant as aforesaid, if not exceeding half a pound in weight, there shall be charged, taken, and paid for the transmission thereof as aforesaid, the uniform single rate of postage of sixpence, and that on every such packet exceeding half a pound in weight there shall be charged, taken, and paid such progressive and additional rates of postage as are directed to be charged, taken, and paid on, and in respect of, the several packets mentioned and contained in, and authorized to be transmitted by the post, under the provisions of the said recited Warrant of the 22nd day of February, 1855.

And we do further order and direct that all such respective packets to be transmitted by the post, under the provisions of this present Warrant, shall be so transmitted in conformity with and under and subject to the several regulations, orders, directions, and conditions contained in the said recited Warrant of the 22nd day of February, 1855, with respect to the several packets thereinmentioned (except such as relate exclusively to packets posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to the East Indies or New South Wales, or posted in the East Indies or New South Wales, addressed to the United Kingdom) and that all such respective packets so to be transmitted under the provisions of this present Warrant shall be subject as well to the several progressive and additional rates of postage aforesaid, as also to the said several regulations, orders, directions, and conditions (except as aforesaid) respectively mentioned, expressed, and contained in and by the said hereinbefore recited Warrant of the 22nd day of February, 1855, in like manner in all respects and as fully and effectually to all intents and purposes as if the said several progressive and additional rates of postage and the said several regulations, orders, directions, and conditions (except such only as relate exclusively to packets posted in the United Kingdom, addressed to the East Indies or New South Wales, or posted in the East Indies or New South Wales, addressed to the United Kingdom), respectively mentioned and contained in the said hereinbefore recited Warrant of the 22nd day of February, 1855, were contained, inserted, expressed, and repeated in this present Warrant, and as if the said colony of Sierra Leone, and the said single rate of postage of six pence, herein mentioned, had been and were mentioned and contained and included in the said Schedule B, annexed to the said hereinbefore recited Warrant of the 22nd day of February, 1855.

And we do further order and direct, that the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury may, by Warrant under their hands or the hands of any two of them, at any time hereafter, alter, repeal, or revoke any of the rates of postage hereby fixed, or any of the orders, directions, regulations, and conditions hereinbefore mentioned, relating to the packets hereby authorised to be transmitted by the post, under the provisions aforesaid, and may make and establish any new or other rates, orders, directions, regulations, and conditions in lieu thereof, and from time to time appoint at what time the rates which may be payable are to be paid.

And we do further order and direct that this Warrant shall come into operation on the first day of June next.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of APRIL 10, 1855.

War-Department, April 12, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sebastopol,
March 27, 1855.

My Lord,

Adverting to my Despatch of the 24th instant, I do myself the honour to state that the following officers have been brought to my notice as having distinguished themselves on the night of the 22nd and morning of the 23rd, in addition to those whose names I have already submitted to your Lordship ; Major The Hon. James Lyon Browne of the 21st Regiment, brother of The Hon. Captain Browne, of the Royal Fusiliers, who, it has already been my painful duty to report, fell upon this occasion ; Captain Butler of the 20th and Captain Rickman of the 77th.

I am happy to say that Captain Montagu of the Royal Engineers, who was taken prisoner was not wounded, and that Lieutenant-Colonel Kelly, of the 34th Regiment, who also fell into the enemy's hands, is not severely wounded, though he received some injury both in his head and hand.

Major-General Eyre the General Officer of the Trenches, highly eulogizes the dispositions of Lt.-Col. Kelly and laments the loss of his services.

The Major-General also speaks in the warmest terms of the conduct of Lieut.-Colonel Tylden, Royal Engineers, who received a contusion, which, however, I am glad to be able to assure your Lordship, does not incapacitate him from continuing those exertions and displaying those qualities which render him so valuable an officer.

There was a suspension of hostilities for about three hours on Saturday for the purpose of burying those who had fallen in the late encounters ; and it was evident from the numbers of bodies of the Enemy, and of the French to whom the last sad offices had to be paid, that the loss sustained both by the French and the Russians had been very severe, particularly that of the latter. Some French, too, were found lying close to the Mamelon, a proof that their gallant spirit had carried them up to the Enemy's intrenchments.

Nothing of importance has since occurred. The siege operations continue to progress, and during the last two nights the interruption from the fire of the Enemy has been inconsiderable.

The Enemy are very assiduous in the improvement of their defences, and in the establishment of a trench in the front of the Mamelon, towards which our ally is advancing by serpentine sap.

The weather continues very fine, and the appearance and health of the troops are manifestly improving.

Dr. Gavin of the Sanitary Commission, and Mr. Rawlinson, Civil Engineer, have arrived, and are earnestly applying themselves to the discharge of the duties they have undertaken to perform; and I will take care that they receive every assistance it may be in my power to afford them.

I inclose the return of casualties to the 25th instant.

The Himalaya has arrived, and has been disembarking her horses yesterday and this day in Kasatch Bay.

Since writing the above, I have received the official report that Captain A. E. Hill of the 89th Regiment was severely wounded, and taken prisoner last night whilst posting his sentries in front of the advanced trench on our extreme left.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN

The Lord Panmure,
&c. &c.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of APRIL 13, 1855.

War-Department, April 14, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sebastopol,
March 31, 1855.

My Lord,

Since I wrote to your Lordship, on the 27th instant, the operations of the siege have been continued, without any material interruption, from the enemy beyond occasional shots from guns and mortars, and the more constant firing of musketry from rifle pits, which have occasioned, I regret to say, the casualties which your Lordship will see in the returns I inclose.

Captain A. E. Hill, of the 89th Regiment, whom I mentioned in my Despatch, No. 222, as having been severely wounded and taken prisoner, died, I regret to say, of his wounds, before he reached the Russian ambulance, as I learnt last night from General Osten-Sacken, to whom I had written for information on the subject.

He had gone forward with a view to place the sentries in front of our advanced works, as I stated to your Lordship on Tuesday, and he, unfortunately, mistook a Russian for a French piquet, and, having challenged it in French, he was immediately fired upon, and brought to the ground.

Early yesterday morning a fire was observed in the town of Sebastopol, which raged with violence for a considerable time, but how it originated I have not been able to ascertain.

The enemy has made no movement on the side of the Tchernaya.

The railway continues to progress in the most satisfactory manner, and last night had nearly reached the top of the hill, usually called the Col de Balaklava, and advantage has been taken of it to bring up large quantities of ammunition and stores.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c.

The Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade and Plantations have received, through the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a copy of a Despatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Bahia, inclosing a translation of a Notice descriptive of a New Lighthouse on the Morro de S. Paulo, near that Port, copy of which is subjoined.

Captain of the Port's Office.

In compliance with orders from the Provincial Government, is made public, by the Captain of the Port, for the information of Navigators, the following description of the Lighthouse of the Morro of S. Paulo, which will begin to be lighted on the 3rd of next May, as also observations on the Port of the said Morro and the adjacent coast comprised between it and this city.

Bahia and Captain of the Port's Office, 9th March, 1855.

(Signed) DIOGO IGNACIO TAVARES, Commodore,
Captain of the Port.

Of the Port and Lighthouse of the Morro de S. Paulo.

The Lighthouse of the Morro de S. Paulo is built on the top of hill or cape of the same name, at the entrance of the port, in latitude 13° 21′ 40″ south, long. Grsv. west 38° 54′ 48″. The tower will be painted white, and the balcony has an elevation of 80 English feet above the hill, and 276 above the surface of the sea, and will be seen, by day, in fine weather, at 30 miles' distance. This lighthouse (the best on the coast of Brazil), on Fresnell's principle of refraction and of the first order, has, in the space of a minute, bright light for 15 seconds, followed by an eclipse of 45 seconds. The light, in clear weather, is seen from the quarter deck of a vessel at 20 miles' distance, and from the Tops at 28. Whatever may be the distance, it has always a strong and very bright light, and is distinguished from the lighthouse at the bar of Bahia by the time of its eclipses, by the greater brightness of its light, and by its colour, which is always brilliant, whereas that of S. Antonio has three different phases, each followed by an eclipse.

At a lesser distance than 12 miles the eclipses are not total, the bright light is followed by a faint one, in place of the eclipses, which become more notable as the distance increases; those who observe perfect eclipses may consider themselves more than 12 miles off. At the point of the compass 46° N.E. true, at a distance of 30 miles is the lighthouse of the bar at Bahia. From the Morro towards the north, a bay bordered with rocks is formed, and the western point of the island of Itaparica with the main land forms the bar of Jaguaripe, to which the existing hydrographical charts improperly give the name of Barra Falsa, the same being a small inlet of the island to the east of that bar, formed by the point of Aratuba and another which is further to the north, which at a distance of more than 14 miles has a similar configuration to the point of S. Antonio, appearing like the latter to detach itself from the land which lies to the westward of it. Even in the daytime these places ought not to be approached nearer by vessels at a less depth of water than 11 fathoms, if they have no pilot on board. Those which sight from the south the lighthouse of the Morro of S. Paulo, and wish to remain in sight of Bahia, ought not to pass to the north-west of the line N.E.—S.W. true, of the lighthouse, as long as they are to the south of Itaparica, and for greater caution ought to sound and veer the ship to the south as soon as they find 11 fathoms in depth, by which they will avoid nearing the shoals and rocks of the point of Caixa Pregos, Barra Falsa, and others, which on the eastern side encircle that island, which at night are so much more to be feared when the strong sea winds drive the waters into the bay ; besides which, in some places at 10 fathoms, the depth diminishes rapidly. If, on finding a lesser depth than 11 fathoms, it appears the vessel is not to the N.E. of the line N.W.—S.W. of the lighthouses, it must be understood that there is a defect in the compasses, and never hesitate to tack to the South, the sounding being on the northern tack the truest indication of danger. At a distance of 13 to 14 miles from the point of S. Antonio, the lighthouse of the bar of Bahia begins to be seen a faint light, showing distinctly its different colours at about a distance of 6 miles. The entrances of the port of the Morro is open for vessels of all descriptions, taking notice that at a mile to the westward of the Fort runs a shoal up the River Una, and whose depth goes gradually diminishing on the side of the shoal, and to which the hill on the eastern side runs lengthened by a ridge of rocks called "Coitas," which run out into the sea for 180 fathoms, more or less, with a depth of 8 fathoms in some places near them. However, against these care must be taken in the night-time by those who are tacking in to fetch the anchorage. By day the Breakers on these ridges of rock are very visible. Two miles distant from the shore of the Morro of S. Paulo, and from thence towards the south, with the lighthouse in sight, is an open passage for any kind of vessel; and those that wish to enter the port by it, can come near the hill by the northern side as far as the depth of the soundings will allow, and the open anchorage begins at the point of the Fort up to a mile inward. A pilot ought to be taken by those who wish to ascend the river, where there is a sheltered anchorage for a squadron.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of APRIL 20, 1855.

War-Department, April 20, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received two Despatches and their Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord, April 3, 1855.

I have the honour to transmit to your Lordship a letter of this date, from Dr. Hall, enclosing a weekly return of the sick of the Army, up to the 31st ultimo.

Your Lordship will see, with satisfaction, that the general health of the Army continues steadily to improve.

I have also to submit to your Lordship, with reference to your Despatch, No. 22, of the 26th February, the copy of a letter from the same officer, on the question of accommodation for wounded men, on the event of any sudden emergency occurring.

As the ships referred to by Dr. Hall are constantly on passage, and might all be so at the time they might be wanted for the wounded, I proposed to Sir Edmund Lyons to have some sailing vessels got ready for their reception, and accordingly, with his sanction, the following transports are under preparation ;—Orient, Sir George Pollock, St. Hilder, William Jackson, and Poictiers ;—and it is calculated that they will hold from 100 to 150 men each.

I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c., &c.

Enclosure 1.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord, April 3, 1855.

In transmitting the weekly state of sick to the 31st March, I have the honour to state, and I am sure it will be pleasing to your Lordship to learn, that the general health of the Army continues steadily to improve ; and although fevers and bowel complaints continue to prevail, they are both assuming a milder character, and the latter are of much less frequent occurrence.

During the present week the admissions to strength have been in the ratio of 3·93 per cent., and the deaths to strength 0·38 per cent.

Last week, the admissions to strength were 4·35 per cent., and the deaths 0·52 per cent. ; which makes a decrease of 139 in the admissions, and 43 in the deaths during the week.

Fever continues to prevail in some particular regiments more than in others ; but I am in hopes change of locality will correct this.

The comforts of the men are greatly improved in every respect, and it is evinced by their cheerfulness, and more healthy appearance.

The rations are good and abundant, the men are well clothed, and due attention is paid to the sanitary condition of the different camps. The supply of water is ample at present, and means are being adopted to insure it in future, by constructing new tanks, cleaning out those that already exist, and digging fresh wells.

Indeed, so far as the physical wants of the men are concerned, I am of opinion the force is as well provided as any army can reasonably expect to be when employed on active service in the field.

The hospitals are on a respectable footing, not crowded, and amply provided with all that is necessary for the comfort and welfare of the sick; and if the casualties of war do not fill our hospitals, we may fairly look forward to have a diminished sick list in future.

But should the chances of war unfortunately produce wounded, I calculate we shall be able to accommodate 1400 on shore, and arrangements are being made for the reception of between 500 and 600 on board ship, which I sincerely trust will be more than sufficient for our wants.

I have, &c.,

J. HALL,

Inspector-General of Hospitals.

To Field-Marshal Lord Raglan, G.C.B., Commanding-in-Chief.

Enclosure 2.

Before Sevastopol,
March 23, 1855.

SIR,

With reference to the question of accommodation for wounded men in the event of any sudden emergency arising, I have the honour to state, for the information of the Field-Marshal Commanding-in-Chief, that in addition to the accommodation which the regimental establishments of the divisions in front will afford—say from 250 to 300—I propose to occupy thirty of the new huts in rear of the 3rd Division, at present in possession of the 14th and 39th Regiments, which would afford comfortable accommodation for 480; and as these huts are built on dry, elevated, clean ground, with water not very distant, I calculate thirty more of the huts might be given over in case of any very great emergency, and the troops put under canvas, which would afford room for 480 more. At the Sanitarium at Balaklava, I calculate on accommodation for 200 wounded, in addition to the convalescents there at present, when the huts now in course of erection are completed.

From the crowded state of the general hospitals at Scutari, the length of time they have been occupied, and the amount of fever that has prevailed in them of late, I am most unwilling to send wounded men there if I can possibly avoid it; but should necessity compel us to resort to that measure, the

Brandon	110
Sydney	100	620
Australian	100
Severn	180

Steamers are already fitted as hospital ships, and would be capable of transporting, with ease and comfort, 620 wounded.

The hospital establishments at Smyrna, Abydos, and Gallipoli, are full; and as typhoid fever is reported to have made its appearance in the hospital at Smyrna, it would not be desirable to send wounded men there during its continuance.

If compelled to form another hospital establishment out of the Crimea, I should suggest, from what I have heard, that Sinope be selected. I speak from hearsay, for I have never been there myself, but perhaps the Commander-in-Chief might be pleased to have it surveyed by some competent person, and a report made of its capabilities.

Our accommodation for wounded, taking minimum numbers, will therefore, stand thus :—

(Signed) T. HALL,
Inspector-General of Hospitals.

To Major-General R. Airey, Quartermaster-General.

Before Sevastopol,
April 7, 1855.

My Lord,

Some interchange of troops has taken place since I addressed your Lordship on the 31st ultimo.

Battalions and considerable convoys have entered the town, and other bodies of troops have been seen to leave the north side. The garrison has been constantly engaged in adding to the works, and particularly in connecting the rifle pits in the immediate front of our right attack ; and as we have pushed forward, the fire upon our advance has occasioned more loss, I deeply regret to say, than we have sustained since the sortie of the 23rd March.

Lieutenant Bainbridge, of the Royal Engineers, was, I lament to have to add, killed on the morning of the 4th April, whilst in the execution of his duty, by the bursting of a shell.

He was a young officer of much promise, and though he had not long been here, he had acquired the esteem and good opinion of his brother officers, and his loss is greatly deplored by all.

I enclose the return of casualties to the 5th instant.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of APRIL 20, 1855.

INVESTITURE OF HIS IMPERIAL MAJESTY, NAPOLEON III, EMPEROR OF THE FRENCH, WITH THE ENSIGNS OF THE MOST NOBLE ORDER OF THE GARTER.

At the Court at Windsor Castle, April 18, 1855.

A CHAPTER of the Most Noble Order of the Garter having been summoned for this day, the following Knights Companions, in their mantles and collars, assembled in the Guard Chamber; viz. : the Marquess of Exeter, the Duke of Richmond, the Marquess of Landsowne, the Duke of Buckingham and Chandos, the Marquess of Salisbury, the Duke of Cleveland, Earl De Grey, the Marquess of Abercorn, the Marquess of Hertford, the Duke of Bedford, the Earl of Clarendon, Earl Spencer, Earl Fitzwilliam, the Duke of Northumberland, the Earl of Ellesmere, and the Earl of Aberdeen, attended by the undermentioned Officers of the Order, in their mantles, chains, and badges ; viz. ; the Bishop of Winchester, Prelate ; the Bishop of Oxford, Chancellor ; the Honourable and Reverend the Dean of Windsor, Register ; Sir Charles George Young, Knight, Garter Principal King of Arms ; and Sir Augustus William James Clifford, Baronet, Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod. At half-past three o'clock, the Knights Companions, were severally called over by Garter, and proceeded into the Grand Reception Room, when the Sovereign, and His Royal Highness the Prince Albert, His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, and His Serene Highness the Prince of Leiningen, having passed to the Throne Room, the Knights Companions, with the Officers of the Order, proceeded into the presence of the Sovereign.

The Chancellor then, by command of the Sovereign, promulgated a new Statute, dispensing with the existing Statutes of the Order, in as far as required for the especial purpose therein mentioned, and in consideration of the high friendship and close alliance now happily subsisting between the Sovereign and His Imperial Majesty, Napoleon III, Emperor of the French, ordaining and declaring His Imperial Majesty a Knight of this Most Noble Order, any statute, decree, rule, or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

His Royal Highness Prince Albert, and His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, the two Senior Knights Companions present, thereupon retired from the Chapter, and conducted the Emperor of the French from His Imperial Majesty's Apartments to the Chapter Room, between their Royal Highnesses, preceded by Garter (bearing the Ensigns of the Order upon a crimson velvet cushion) and by Black Rod.

On entering the Chapter Room, His Imperial Majesty was received by the Sovereign and the Knights Companions standing, and on approaching the Sovereign was seated in a Chair of State on the right hand of Her Majesty.

The Sovereign announced to the Emperor of the French that His Imperial Majesty had been declared a Knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter.

Garter then kneeling, presented the Garter to the Sovereign, and Her Majesty, assisted by His Royal Highness Prince Albert and His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, buckled it on the left leg of His Imperial Majesty, the Chancellor pronouncing the Admonition.

Garter next presented in like manner, the Riband with the George, and the Sovereign, assisted as before, put the same over the left shoulder of His Imperial Majesty, the Chancellor pronouncing the Admonition.

The Sovereign thereupon gave the Accolade to the Emperor of the French; and His Imperial Majesty then passing round the table received the congratulations of each of the Knights Companions, present, and then resumed his seat.

The Chapter being ended, the Knights Companions were severally called over by the Garter, and with the Officers of the Order, retired from the presence of the Sovereign with the usual reverences.

During the ceremony a Guard of the Honourable Corps of Gentlemen-at-Arms was in attendance at the door of the Chapter Room; and a special Guard of Honour of the Honourable Corps was on duty, in attendance upon His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of the French. A Guard of Honour, consisting of two Companies of the Grenadiers, and one Company of the Coldstream Guards, with the band of the latter corps at their head, were posted in the Great Quadrangle of the Castle, and, on the termination of the Investiture, saluted and retired.

Her Imperial Majesty the Empress of the French, attended by the Princess d'Essling, the Countess de Montebello, and the Baroness de Malaret witnessed the august Ceremony, as did also the French Ambassador and the Countess Walewski, and the following members of His Imperial Majesty's suite ; viz. : Marshal Vaillant, Minister of War, the Duke of Bassano, the Count of Montebello, Colonel Count Ney, Count Fleury, the Marquis de Toulongeon and Count Tascher de la Pagerie.

Their Royal Highnesses the Duchess of Kent, the Duchess of Cambridge, and the Princess Mary of Cambridge, several of the Great Officers of State and Cabinet Ministers, with the Officers of the Royal Household were also present.

At the conclusion of the Chapter, Her Majesty accompanied the Emperor to his apartments, followed by the Empress and His Royal Highness Prince Albert, and attended by the Ladies and Gentlemen of the Imperial and Royal Suites. Her Majesty and the Prince then returned to their own rooms.

The Officers of the Order had afterwards the honour of being severally presented to Their Imperial Majesties.

In the evening a State Banquet was given in St. George's Hall, to Their Imperial Majesties, at which were present the above-named Royal, Noble, and Distinguished Personages ; the Knights Companions and Officers of the Order.

During the Banquet Her Majesty drank to the health of Her Illustrious visitors the Emperor and Empress of the French.

In the Evening a Grand Concert was performed in the Music Room, to which a numerous party of the Nobility were invited, and the town of Windsor was illuminated.

At the Court at Windsor Castle, April 18, 1855.

The Queen, as Sovereign of the Most Noble Order of the Garter, hath been graciously pleased, by Letters Patent under Her Royal Sign Manual and the Great Seal of the Order, bearing date this day, to dispense with all the statutes and regulations usually observed in regard to Installation, and to grant unto His Imperial Majesty, NAPOLEON III, Emperor of the French, Knight of the said Most Noble Order, and duly invested with the Ensigns thereof, full power and authority to exercise all rights and privileges belonging to a Knight Companion of the said Most Noble Order of the Garter, in as full and ample a manner as if His Imperial Majesty had been formally installed, any decree, rule, or usage to the contrary notwithstanding.

FROM THE

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of APRIL 20, 1855.

War-Department, April 24, 1855.

LORD PANMURE, has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, adressed to His Lordship, by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
My Lord, April 10, 1855.

In accordance with the arrangement made between General Canrobert and myself, the batteries of the French and English armies opened upon Sevastopol soon after daylight yesterday morning.

The weather was extremely unpropitious. Much rain had fallen in the course of the night, and it continued during the day, accompanied by a tempestuous wind and a heavy mist, which obscured everything, and rendered it impossible to ascertain with any degree of accuracy the effect of the fire, which has been continued with little or no interruption from the commencement, and has been superior to that of the enemy, who were evidently taken by surprise, and except upon the extreme left, did not respond to the attack for nearly half an hour.

This morning has been hazy, and for some time there was a drizzling rain; but it is clearing this afternoon, and there is again a prospect of fine weather.

The country yesterday was covered with water, and the ground was again very deep. The trenches were likewise extremely muddy, and their condition added greatly to the labours of the men employed in the batteries, who consisted chiefly of sailors, artillerymen, and sappers.

They conducted their duties admirably, and I am sorry to say that the two former, particularly the Navy, sustained considerable loss.

I have not yet received the returns of the casualties beyond the 9th instant, which are herewith inclosed; but the death of Lieutenant Twyford, of the Royal Navy, a most promising officer, and greatly respected by all, has been notified to me; and Captain Lord John Hay, who has taken a most active part in the gallant and distinguished services of the Naval Brigade, was wounded almost at the very moment, I believe by the same shot. I hope the injury he has received is not very serious, but the loss of his assistance even for a time is much to be regretted.

The Russians have not shown themselves in any force in front of Balaklava.

I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c. &c.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of APRIL 24, 1855.

War-Department, April 26, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship, by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol.

My Lord, April 14, 1855.

Since I wrote to your Lordship on the 10th instant, a steady and heavy fire upon the works of the enemy has been maintained from all the batteries of the Allies.

The fire of the British artillery, chiefly directed against the Garden Batteries, the Barrack Battery, the Redan, the Malakoff Tower, and the Mamelon, has been most effective, and the enemy's works have suffered very considerably, although they have as usual made a good use of the night to repair damages, notwithstanding that the vertical fire has been continued throughout the twenty-four hours.

The practice both of the Naval Brigade and the Artillery has been excellent.

The casualties have not been very numerous, but the loss has fallen heavily upon the sailors, as your Lordship will see by the accompanying returns, and the Royal Navy has to deplore the death of Lieutenant Douglas, who had served with great ability and zeal from the commencement of the siege.

Lieutenants Urmston and D'Aeth, Royal Navy, and Steele, Royal Marine Artillery, all valuable officers, have been wounded.

The Royal Artillery has also to lament the death of Lieutenant Luce, who was an officer of much promise; and Lieutenants Sinclair and L'Estrange are among the wounded, The former has sustained several severe injuries, but I am happy to add that there is every hope of his recovery. They are both highly meritorious officers.

Captain Crofton, of the Royal Engineers, who had in the course of the protracted operations before Sevastopol rendered most essential service, has also received a wound, which will, I fear, detain him from duty for a very considerable time.

Our batteries and parapets continue to stand remarkably well, notwithstanding the very unfavourable state of the weather.

The enemy's fire has been comparatively slack, but the practice good, and owing to their having ascertained the range of our batteries with great nicety, several guns have been disabled in both the right and left attacks.

Towards the Tchernaya nothing important has been observed, but small bodies of men, from 150 to 500, have been seen, with a heavy gun and some ordnance carriages, moving along the Inkerman heights towards Mackenzie's Farm-road, near which it has been placed in position.

Although the duties have been unusually severe and arduous both by day and night during the week, they have been carried out with the utmost cheerfulness and zeal, reflecting much credit both on officers and men.

The submarine telegraph has been safely brought to the Monastery from Cape Kelegra, and as soon as it is established at the former place, the engineers will proceed to convey it from the latter to the immediate neighbourhood of Varna, where I hope it may be in a state to act in a week or ten days from this time.

The first division of the 10th Hussars arrived this day at Balaklava.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

STEPHEN LUSHINGTON,
Captain Commanding Naval Brigade.

The Military Secretary to H.E. Lord Raglan, Commander-in-Chief.

Admiralty, April 26, 1855.

A Despatch, of which the following is a copy, has been received from Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B., Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's Ships and Vessels in the Mediterranean and Black Sea.

PROCEEDINGS OF NAVAL BRIGADE.

Royal Albert, off Sevastopol,
SIR, April 13, 1855.

My letter of the 10th instant, No. 284, will have informed the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty that the siege batteries before Sevastopol re-opened their fire on the 9th instant.

I grieve to say that the casualties have been severe, though not, perhaps, more than might have been expected, considering the number of guns which are manned by seamen. Lists of the casualties on each day are enclosed for the information of their Lordships; and I have to lament the fall of two gallant and promising young officers, Lieutenant Samuel Twyford, of the London, and Lieutenant W. H. Douglas, of the Queen. Captain Lord John Hay and Lieutenant Urmston, of the Queen, have been wounded, though not severely.

The services of the officers and seamen of the Naval Brigade have been invaluable.

I have, &c.,
ED. LYONS,
Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

To the Secretary of the Admiralty,
London.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of APRIL 27, 1855.

Guildhall, April 19, 1855.

THIS day the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor and the Deputation of Aldermen and Common Councilmen of the city of London, waited upon His Imperial Majesty the Emperor of the French with the following Address, which was read by the Right Honourable J. A. Stuart Wortley, M.P., the Recorder, and which His Imperial Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To His Imperial Majesty the EMPEROR of The FRENCH.

The Address of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the city of London, in Common Council assembled.

May it please your Majesty.

WE, the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the city of London, in Common Council assembled, desire to offer to your Majesty our heartfelt congratulations on the arrival of your Majesty and the Empress of the French in this country, as the guests of our Most Gracious Queen, and, on behalf of our fellow citizens, and ourselves, we humbly tender to your Majesties the warmest expression of our gratitude for the welcome visit by which you have deigned to honour our city on this memorable day.

The attention of Europe and the world is already fixed on the attitude of dignity and united strength displayed by France and Great Britain in the present war, and the coming of your Majesty, invited by our beloved Queen, at such a time, will draw closer the bonds of mutual friendship and common interest so happily uniting the two countries.

The cordial alliance of two such mighty Powers, cemented and sealed by intimate and frank intercourse between their rulers, must sway the destinies of all; will abate the pride of our common enemies, increase the confidence of our allies, and give new vigour to our arms.

By the wise policy of your Majesty's reign all our ancient jealousies have been appeased, and the flags of France and England now mingle their colours alike in the Baltic and in the East; ranged together in a righteous cause, braving like hardships, and shedding their blood side by side in victory, the soldiery of our united armies and the seamen of our combined fleets, have learned to regard each other with the love of brave and generous comrades, second only to the love they bear their respective countries; and while such are the feelings of our heroes in the field, we rejoice that sentiments akin to these are growing daily and sinking deeply into the breasts of the people of these great and neighbouring nations.

None can doubt that the allied forces thus animated, led in perfect harmony by commanders of tried skill and valour, and guided by united counsels at home, will achieve by arms the just and unambitious objects of the present war; unless, as we may hope, the efforts of assembled statesmen shall yet avert the calamities of protracted warfare by the speedier negotiation of an honourable and enduring peace.

This cordial reception, therefore, of the chosen and puissant Emperor of the French, by the illustrious Sovereign who reigns over these realms, and lives in the hearts of the British people, we regard as the type of a close and lasting friendship between the two nations, and the happiest augury of a returning time when, undisturbed in the onward course of civilization, the nations of Europe may again lay aside the sword and resume their exalted rivalry in the works of beneficence alone.

We are earnestly anxious further to express to your Imperial Majesty the lively pleasure and respectful admiration with which we have seen you accompanied on this happy occasion by your illustrious consort, Her Majesty the Empress of the French. We tender to your Majesty the expression of our confident hope that you may ever find in the affections of domestic life the best solace and support which this world can afford under the cares and weight of the high destiny you are now fulfilling with such conspicuous power and moderation ; and we fervently pray that life and health may, by the blessing of Providence, be vouchsafed to your Majesties for many years to come.

Signed by order of the Court,
H. A. Merewether.

To which Address His Imperial Majesty was pleased to return the following most gracious Answer :

My Lord Mayor,

After the cordial reception I have experienced from the Queen nothing could affect me more deeply than the sentiments towards the Empress and myself, to which you, my Lord Mayor, have given expression on the part of the city of London ; for the city of London represents the available resources which a world-wide commerce affords, both for civilization and for war.

Flattering as are your praises, I accept them, because they are addressed much more to France than to myself ; they are addressed to a nation whose interests are to day everywhere identical with your own ; they are addressed to an army and navy united to yours by an heroic companionship in danger and in glory ; they are addressed to the policy of the two Governments, which is based on truth, on moderation, and on justice.

For myself, I have retained on the throne the same sentiment of sympathy and esteem for the English people that I professed as an exile, while I enjoyed here the hospitality of your Queen ; and if I have acted in accordance with my convictions it is that the interest of the nation, which has chosen me, no less than that of universal civilization, has made it a duty. Indeed, England and France are naturally united on all the great questions of politics and of human progress that agitate the world, from the shores of the Atlantic to those of the Mediterranean, from the Baltic to the Black Sea, from the desire to abolish slavery to our hopes for the amelioration of all the countries of Europe. I see, in the moral as in the political world, for our two nations but one course and one end.

It is then only by unworthy considerations and pitiful rivalries that our union could be dissevered ; if we follow then the dictates of common sense alone we shall be sure of the future.

You are right in interpreting my presence among you as a fresh and convincing proof of my energetic co-operation in the prosecution of the war if we fail in obtaining an honourable peace.

Should we so fail, although our difficulties may be great, we may surely count on a successful result; for not only are our soldiers and sailors of tried valour, not only do our two countries possess within themselves unrivalled resources, but above all, and here lies their superiority, it is because they are in the van of all generous and enlightened ideas; the eyes of all who suffer instinctively turn to the west;—thus our two nations are even more powerful from the opinions they represent, than by the armies and fleets they have at their command.

I am deeply grateful to your Queen for affording me this solemn opportunity of expressing to you my own sentiments and those of France, of which I am the interpreter; I thank you in my own name, and in that of the Empress, for the frank and hearty cordiality with which you have received us; we shall take back with us to France the lasting impression made on minds thoroughly able to appreciate it, of the imposing spectacle which England presents, where virtue on the throne directs the destinies of a country under the empire of a liberty without danger to its grandeur.

NAPOLEON.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MAY 1, 1855.

War-Department, May 2, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received two Despatches and their Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
April 17, 1855.

My Lord,

I have the honour to transmit for your Lordship's information a letter from the Inspector General of Hospitals expressing his satisfaction in being able to report that the sanitary condition of the army continues gradually to improve and the mortality from disease to diminish.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c.

Enclosure.

Before Sevastopol,
April 17, 1855.

My Lord,

It is satisfactory to be able to say that the sanitary condition of the army continues gradually to improve, and the mortality from disease to decrease.

Last week the ratio of admissions to strength was 3·95 per cent. ; this week it has been 3·52.

Last week the ratio of deaths to strength was 0·35 ; this week it has been 0·33.

This decrease may appear small to your Lordship, but it must be borne in mind that 106 of the admissions, and 13 of the deaths, were the result of accidents in the trenches ; besides which, 3 officers and 30 men were killed who have not been included in the above statement of casualties.

Fevers and bowel complaints continue to be the prevailing diseases amongst the troops, but in both there has been an evident decrease of admissions as well as deaths.

In the 79th Regiment, however, there has been an increase of 19 cases of fever during the week, and the mortality from the same disease has exceeded that of the preceding week by two. Last week the deaths from fever were 7, this week they have been 9. It is in contemplation to move the regiment a short distance from where it is at present encamped, as far, I understand, as the defence of the post will admit of, and I think good will result from it ; but if it could be moved up to the ground where the 63rd Regiment is stationed still greater advantages might be expected.

In the 93rd Highlanders the fever cases have become milder, and the mortality from that cause has decreased from 4, which it was last week, to 1.

In the 41st and 95th Regiments, the two other regiments which were suffering most from fever, the mortality has decreased during the week ; in the 41st from 5 to 2, and in the 95th from 8 to 3.

There has been a decrease in all the ordinary forms of bowel complaints, but I regret to have to notice two fatal cases of cholera, one in the Artillery, and the other in the 7th Fusiliers.

These were both brought up from the trenches, and both died after a few hours' illness. No other cases have occurred, and, from the general diminution of bowel affections, I trust they will prove accidental.

The cavalry continue to enjoy good health, and only one casualty, out of a force of 1880 men, has occurred during the week.

The mortality in the General Hospital, at Balaklava, has also been small, and the result of the Convalescent Hospital, on the Castle Hill, has been most satisfactory. We have huts there all ready for the reception of 280 patients, and I purpose reserving them for wounded men, as I am of opinion they would recover sooner in such a locality, than in either camp, or the General Hospital at Scutari. Besides the hospital huts at the Sanitarium, the following ships have been fitted out for the reception of wounded; viz.:

Hut accommodation - - - -	280
"St. Hilda," fitted for - - -	91
"Wm. Jackson," ,, - - -	100
"Orient," ,, - - -	100
"Poicticrs," ,, - - -	100
The huts in the rear of the Third Division will accommodate about 1000, but say that 30 of them are appropriated for hospital purposes, that would give room for - - -	480
And the calculation is, that at least 500 could be received into the different Regimental Hospitals - - -	500

The rations of the men are abundant and good, and fresh bread has been issued three days this week. The supplies for the hospitals are also ample.

Great attention is paid to the cleanliness of the different camps, and they are in a creditable condition. The men have received their new clothing, and the sheep skin coats, &c., are being collected and stored for future issue if required.

I have, &c.,

J. HALL,

Inspector-General of Hospitals.

To Field-Marshal Lord Raglan, G.C.B., Commanding-in-Chief.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord, April 17, 1855.

The fire of both the French and English armies has been continued upon Sevastopol since I addressed your Lordship on the 14th instant, and though superior to that of the enemy, it has not produced that permanent effect which might have been anticipated from its constancy, power, and accuracy.

The guns of the Russians have been turned upon some of our advanced works in vast numbers, and in one particular instance the injury sustained by a battery was so great that the unremitting exertions of Captains Henry and Walcot, and the gallantry and determination of the artillerymen under their orders, alone enabled them to keep up the fire and to maintain themselves in it.

In another battery yesterday a shell burst close to the magazine, which in consequence exploded, killing I am much concerned to say, one man, wounding two most severely, and seven in a less degree.

Both the batteries I have mentioned have been repaired and restored to their original condition.

I inclose the list of casualties that have arisen between the 13th and 15th instant. I have to lament the loss of two young and promising officers who had only lately joined the army, Lieutenant Preston, of the 88th Regiment, and Lieutenant Mitchell, of the Artillery; and I regret to add that two others have been severely wounded, Captain Green, of the East India Company's Service, who has been employed throughout the siege as an Assistant Engineer, with great credit to himself and every advantage to the service, and Captain Donovan, of the 33rd, who has most zealously served from the commencement of the campaign.

The French blew up several small mines in front of the Bastion du Mât after sunset on Sunday evening, with a view to establish a parallel on the spot. This operation greatly alarmed the enemy, who at one commenced a heavy fire of cannon and musketry in every direction from that part of the town, which they kept up for a considerable time. It occasioned no harm on our left attack, upon which a part of it was directed, and I hope did little injury to our allies.

Several hundreds of the Russian Cavalry and a small body of Cossacks appeared on the low range of heights in front of Balaklava this morning, and remained about an hour, when they retired, the greater portion by the bridge of Tractea. The object of this movement was probably a reconnaissance.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c.

FROM THE

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MAY 1, 1855.

War-Department, May 4, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord. April 21, 1855.

Omer Pasha having considered it expedient to make a reconnaissance in front of Balaklava, with a view to ascertain what force the enemy had on the Tchernaya, he proceeded at daylight on the 19th instant, by the extreme right of Sir Colin Campbell's position, towards Kamara, with about twelve battalions of Turkish Infantry, having in the plain on his left a body of French cavalry and a battery of horse artillery, under General Feroy, and two squadrons of heavy cavalry, and two squadrons of the 10th Hussars, the whole of which regiment have, I am happy to say, arrived, and half a troop of horse artillery under Colonel Parlby, these detachments of French and English troops having been placed at his Highness's disposal by General Canrobert and myself.

The enemy showed only a few Cosaques on this side of the river, who remained on a height overlooking Chagouria, till driven from it by a few discharges of rockets by the French artillery, and on the other side, behind the village, a small force with four guns only was visible.

Omer Pacha did not think it desirable to move across the river, but withdrew after he had satisfied himself that the enemy were not in strength and the troops returned to their camps, the infantry covered by the cavalry and artillery. The appearance of the Turkish army was very satisfactory.

The rifle pits in front of the approach from the advance of our trenches on the extreme right, were attacked and carried by assault the night before last in the most gallant manner, by a detachment of the 77th Regiment under Colonel Egerton, forming part of the additional force sent to reinforce the guard of the trenches in the evening.

The resistance of the enemy, although obstinate was speedily overcome by the impetuosity of our troops, and the pit, which it was desirable to retain, was, without the loss of a moment, connected with our approach, and thereby furnished protection to the working party to continue its labours without interruption for a considerable time. At the interval, however, of about three hours the enemy brought a heavy fire of artillery and musketry upon the party in advance of the pit, into which they retired, and which they effectually defended and maintained; but this brilliant achievement was not accomplished without considerable sacrifice of life, and it is most painful to me to have to announce to your Lordship the death of Colonel Egerton, of the 77th, who was unfortunately killed when forming troops for the support of those on the extreme advance, and of that of Captain Lempriere of the same regiment, who fell in the first affair, in which also Colonel Egerton received a contusion that only incapacitated him for duty for a few minutes ; and five officers were wounded, three of them dangerously.

Colonel Egerton was an officer of superior merit, and conducted all his duties, whether in the camp or in the field, in a manner highly to his own honour, and greatly to the advantage of the public ; and Her Majesty's service could not have sustained a more severe loss, and it is so felt in this army and in the 77th, where he was much beloved, and is deeply lamented.

Captain Lempriere was a very young but most promising officer.

Captain Owen, whose leg has since been amputated, and Lieutenant Baynes are both most valuable officers of Engineers, as is Captain King, of the same corps, who was wounded two nights before.

Brigadier-General Lockyer, who was the General Officer of the trenches in the right attack, Lieutenant-Colonel Mundy, of the 33rd, who succeeded to the command of the troops engaged in the operation on the death of Colonel Egerton, and Captain Gwilt of the 34th, deserved to be most favourably mentioned, and Lieutenant-Colonel Tylden, the Officer of Engineers in charge of the right attack, distinguished himself as he has done on many previous occasions in a remarkable manner. The conduct of the troops was admirable.

I beg to lay before your Lordship the list of casualties which have occurred since the return was made out which I forwarded to you on the 17th.

In my Despatch of that day, I informed your Lordship that a magazine had exploded in one of our batteries ; but I omitted to state that Captain

Dixon, of the Artillery, availed himself of that opportunity to evince the coolest judgment and most determined gallantry, by instantly opening a gun upon the enemy, notwithstanding the confusion which the bursting of the shell had occasioned, the number of men who had suffered from it, and the great damage the battery had sustained.

I have the satisfaction to report to your Lordship the arrival of the 48th and Royal Regiments from Corfu, in Her Majesty's ships Leopard and Sidon.

I have omitted to mention in the body of this letter, that two squadrons of Turkish cavalry were also in the plain.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MAY 4, 1855.

War-Department, May 7, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
April 24, 1855.

My Lord,

Nothing material has occurred since I made my report to your Lordship on the 21st instant.

The Russian rifle pit, immediately in front of that which was taken on the night of the 19th, was destroyed by a party of volunteers on the morning of the 21st instant. These were headed by Lieutenant and Adjutant Walker, of the 30th Regiment, who is stated to be an excellent officer, and to have conducted himself on the occasion in the most spirited manner.

The pit was found to be empty, and being useless was immediately levelled and filled in. The enemy did not interrupt the work.

I inclose the list of casualties, which, I regret to say, is heavy. The nearer we approach the place the more loss is to be apprehended. Hitherto it has been less than might have been expected.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c. &c.

The Queen has been pleased to approve of Mr. Francis Dutton as Consul at Adelaide, for the King of Prussia.

The Queen has been pleased to direct that the following Regulations respecting Foreign Orders and Medals shall be substituted for those now in force:

Regulations respecting Foreign Orders.

1. No subject of Her Majesty shall accept a Foreign Order from the sovereign of any foreign country, or wear the Ensignia thereof, without having previously obtained Her Majesty's permission to that effect, signified by a Warrant under Her Royal Sign Manual.

2. Such permission shall not be granted to any subject of Her Majesty, unless the Foreign Order shall have been conferred in consequence of active and distinguished service before the enemy, either at sea, or in the field ; or unless he shall have been actually and entirely employed, beyond Her Majesty's dominions, in the service of the foreign sovereign by whom the Order is conferred.

3. The intention of a foreign sovereign to confer upon a British subject the insignia of an Order, must be notified to Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, either through the British minister accredited at the court of such foreign sovereign, or through his minister accredited at the court of Her Majesty.

4. If the service for which it is proposed to confer the Order has been performed during war, the notification required by the preceding clause must be made not later than two years after the exchange of the ratifications of a Treaty of Peace.

If the service has been performed in time of peace, the notification must be made within two years after the date of such service.

5. After such notification shall have been received, Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs shall, if the case comes within the conditions prescribed by the present regulations, and arises from naval or military services before the enemy, refer it to Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the War Department, previously to taking Her Majesty's pleasure thereupon, in order to ascertain whether there be any objection to Her Majesty's permission being granted.

A similar reference shall also be made to the Commander-in-chief, if the application relates to an officer in the Army, or to the Lords of the Admiralty, if it relates to an officer in the Navy.

6. When Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs shall have taken the Queen's pleasure on any such application, and shall have obtained Her Majesty's permission for the person in whose favour it has been made to accept the Foreign Order, and wear the insignia thereof, he shall signify the same to Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department, in order that he may cause the Warrant required by clause 1 to be prepared for the Royal Sign Manual.

When such Warrant shall have been signed by the Queen, a notification thereof shall be inserted in the Gazette, stating the service for which the Foreign Order has been conferred.

7. The Warrant signifying Her Majesty's permission, may, at the request and at the expense of the person who has obtained it, be registered in the College of Arms.

8. Every such Warrant as aforesaid shall contain a clause providing that Her Majesty's licence and permission do not authorize the assumption of any style, appellation, rank, precedence, or privilege appertaining to a Knight Bachelor of Her Majesty's realms.

9. When a British subject has received the Royal permission to accept a Foreign Order, he will at any future time be allowed to accept the decoration of a higher class of the same Order, to which he may have become eligible by increase of rank in the foreign service, or in the service of his own country; or any other distinctive mark of honour strictly consequent upon the acceptance of the original Order, and common to every person upon whom such Order is conferred.

10. The preceding clause shall not be taken to apply to decorations of the Guelphic Order which were bestowed on British subjects by Her Majesty's predecessors, King George IV and King William IV, on whose heads the crowns of Great Britain and of Hanover were united.

Decorations so bestowed cannot properly be considered as rewards granted by a foreign sovereign for services rendered according to the purport of clause 2 of these regulations. They must be rather considered as personal favours bestowed on British subjects by British Sovereigns, and as having no reference to services rendered to the foreign crown of Hanover.

Regulations respecting Foreign Medals.

1. Application for permission to accept and wear medals which, not being the decoration of any foreign Order, are conferred by a foreign sovereign on British subjects in the Army or in the Navy for military or for naval services, should be addressed, as the case may be, to the Commander-in-chief, the Master-General of the Ordnance, or the Lords of the Admiralty, who, if they see fit, may submit the same to Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs for Her Majesty's sanction; upon obtaining which, they may grant such permission without any other formality.

2. Permission to wear a foreign medal cannot be granted to a British subject, unless such medal is bestowed for military or naval services performed by the command or with the sanction of Her Majesty. But no permission is necessary for accepting a foreign medal, if such medal is not to be worn.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord, May 1, 1855.

I have little to report to your Lordship to-day.

The Russians continue actively engaged in covering their advanced works, and they have constructed a new battery on their left of the Mamelon ; troops are constantly in motion on the north side, and there is every appearance of the establishment of a very large camp on the plateau above the Belbek, extending towards Mackenzie's Farm.

No movement has been perceived on the Tchernaya.

I have the satisfaction to acquaint your Lordship that the 3rd Regiment or Buffs has arrived at Balaklava, and that the Alma, having the draft of the Guards on board, reached Kazatch Bay yesterday; she has proceeded to Balaklava to-day.

I inclose the lists of casualties to the 29th ultimo.

STEPHEN LUSHINGTON,

The Military Secretary to H.E. Lord Raglan, Commander-in-Chief.

FROM THE

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MAY 15, 1855.

War-Department, May 18, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord, May 5, 1855.

Since I wrote to your Lordship on the 1st instant, nothing of importance has arisen; the enemy still appear to be collecting troops upon the high ground on the opposite side of the Tchernaya, in the neighbourhood of Sevastopol, and convoys are constantly seen moving in that direction.

The fire from the place upon our trenches has not been heavy; but, notwithstanding, I have some casualties to report to you, as shown in the accompanying returns; and I have to lament the death of three promising young officers, Lieutenants Carter of the Royal Engineers, Curtis of the 46th, and White of the 62nd Regiments.

On the night of the 1st instant the French attacked a kind of counterguard which the Russians had established in front of the central bastion.

The operation was quite successful, and the enemy were driven out with great loss, leaving behind them nine small mortars. Our Allies have remained in the work, notwithstanding the heavy fire to which they have been exposed, and have established themselves therein, frustrating the efforts made by their adversaries to dispossess them of it on the following day, when a vigorous sortie was repulsed, and the Russians were again great sufferers.

The conduct of the French troops was very brilliant.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c. &c.

The Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade and Plantations have received, through the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, the subjoined copy of a Despatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Varna, enclosing copy of a Despatch addressed by him to Sir Edmund Lyons, respecting the existence of a dangerous current which prevails to the northward of Kalakria.

(Copy.)

My Lord, Varna, April 25, 1855.

I have the honour to transmit herewith, for the information of your Lordship, a copy of a Despatch which I have addressed to Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, respecting the general belief which prevails among seafaring men with whom I have had the opportunity of conversing, respecting a current which is stated to set into the westward and North-westward, by which vessels navigating from Odessa, or the mouths of the Danube, to Varna or the Bosphorus, or from the Crimea to Varna, have been frequently drawn upon the shoals at Shabla.

I have, &c.

(Signed) E. ST. JNO. NEALE.

The Earl of Clarendon, &c. &c. &c.

(Copy.)

SIR, Varna, April 23, 1855.

I have the honour to acquaint you, that six merchant vessels have been wrecked during the last month, between Shabla and Mangolia, on this coast, all bound from Kamiesch to Varna. Of these, three were British — the "Edinburgh," steamer, the "Banshee," barque, and the "Economy," schooner, and were all wrecked on the 15th ultimo.

H. M. steam sloop "Inflexible," being then at Varna, Commander Popplewell most promptly went to the assistance of the crews, consisting of about sixty persons, and brought them off. They were subsequently transferred at Burzhas, from the "Inflexible" to H. M. S. "Harpy," which conveyed them to Constantinople.

The log-book of these vessels not having been brought to Varna, I am unable to state the precise circumstances attending the loss of these vessels. I deem it, however, to be my duty to bring under your notice the frequently expressed opinion of masters of merchantmen of all nations, and pilots, navigating the Black Sea, respecting the predominating causes of the shipwrecks, which have so continually occurred in the locality referred to.

In the month of December, 1852, no less than thirteen vessels, English, French, Austrian, and Sardinian, within the space of a week, went on shore near Point Shabla ; and the masters of those vessels, who came to Varna, were unanimously of opinion, that a strong current sets into the westward and north-westward, drawing vessels navigating southwards from Odessa or the Mouths of the Dauube, and bound for Varna or the Bosphorus, upon Shabla.

In the opinion of seafaring men, long resident on this coast, vessels so bound, and encountering northerly or north-easterly gales, incur the risk of being drawn, by the current, upon Shabla, while endeavouring to seek shelter under Cape Kalakria ; the force of the current not being generally known, shipwrecks have occurred in that locality in dark and foggy weather, even without the prevalence of stormy weather.

In like manner vessels bound from the Crimea to Varna, and not steering a sufficiently S. W. course to allow for the current, are liable in thick or stormy weather, to be set to the northward, and to fall into the influence of the current referred to as prevailing to the northward of Kalakria.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) E. ST. JNO. NEALE.

Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart.
&c. &c. &c.

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MAY 18, 1855.

War-Department, May 21, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
May 8, 1855.

My Lord,

The enemy assaulted our advanced parallel on the right attack on the night of the 5th instant, and some actually got into the trench; but they were speedily driven out and repulsed with the utmost gallantry by the detachments occupying it, of the 30th and 49th Regiments, under Captain Williamson and Lieutenant Gubbins, of the former, and Lieutenant Rochfort, of the latter, who, unfortunately, was severely wounded; and I regret to have to add that several valuable non-commissioned officers and men were killed and wounded on the occasion.

On the same night Captain Arnold,* of the 4th Foot, was wounded and taken prisoner, whilst posting the advanced sentries on the left attack. The loss of the services of this officer is greatly to be lamented. He had done his duty unremittingly, and in the most spirited manner, throughout the operations of the siege.

I inclose the return of casualties to the 6th instant.

I have heard that six ships, having on board Sardinian troops, have arrived in the Bosphorus.

I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

P.S. I have the satisfaction to announce to you the arrival of the first detachment of the 12th Lancers.

At the Court at Buckingham-Palace, the 1st day of May, 1855.

The QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty in Council was pleased to approve the regulations submitted (as set forth in this Gazette) by the Corporation of the Trinity House of Deptford Strond, for granting Pilotage Certificates to masters and mates of ships, and for punishing any breach of such regulations committed by such masters and mates, pursuant to the provisions of the "Merchant Shipping Act, 1854."

At the Court at Buckingham-Palace, the 21st day of May, 1855.

PRESENT,

The QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas it is expedient to make provision for testing, according to fixed rules, the qualifications of the young men who may from time to time be proposed to be appointed to the junior situations in any of Her Majesty's Civil Establishments.

Now, therefore, Her Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of Her Privy Council, doth order, and it is hereby ordered, that the Right Honourable Sir Edward Ryan, Assistant-Comptroller-General of the Exchequer; John George Shaw Lefevre, Esq., Companion of the Bath, Clerk-Assistant to the House of Lords; and Edward Romilly. Esq., Chairman of the Board of Audit; or such other persons as Her Majesty may from time to time approve, in the stead of them or any of them, shall be Commissioners for conducting the examination of the young men so proposed to be appointed to any of the junior situations in the Civil Establishments as aforesaid, and shall hold their offices during the pleasure of Her Majesty, and shall have power, subject to the approval of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, to appoint from time to time such Assistant-Examiners and others as may be required to assist them in the performance of the duties hereinafter assigned to them.

And it is hereby ordered, that the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury do prepare and submit to Parliament an estimate for the remuneration of a Secretary to the said Commissioners, and of such Examiners and others as may be required to assist in the performance of their duties.

And it is hereby ordered, that all such young men as may be proposed to be appointed to any junior situation in any department of the Civil Service shall, before they are admitted to probation, be examined by, or under the directions of, the said Commissioners; and shall receive from them a certificate of qualification for such situation.

And it shall be the duty of the Commissioners, in respect of every such candidate, before granting any such certificate as aforesaid—

1st. To ascertain that the candidate is within the limits of age prescribed in the department to which he desires to be admitted.

2nd. To ascertain that the candidate is free from any physical defect or disease which would be likely to interfere with the proper discharge of his duties.

3rd. To ascertain that the character of the candidate is such as to qualify him for public employment, and

4th. To ascertain that the candidate possesses the requisite knowledge and ability for the proper discharge of his official duties.

The rules applicable to each department under each of the above heads, should be settled, with the assistance of the Commissioners, according to the discretion of the Chief Authorities of the department; but, except that candidates for admission to any of the junior situations in any branch of the Civil Service will be required to obtain certificates of qualification as aforesaid, such Examining Board shall not make any alteration in respect to the nomination or appointment of candidates by those who are or may be charged with the duty of nomination and appointment.

After the candidate has passed his examination and received his certificate of qualification from the Commissioners, he shall enter on a period of probation, during which his conduct and capacity in the transaction of business shall be subjected to such tests as may be determined by the Chief of the Department for which he is intended; and he shall not be finally appointed to the Public Service, unless upon satisfactory proofs of his fitness being furnished to the Chief of the Department, after six months' probation.

And it is lastly hereby ordered, that in case the Chief of any department considers it desirable to appoint to any situation for which there are no prescribed limits of age, a person of mature age, having acquired special qualifications for the appointment in other pursuits, such person shall not in virtue of this order be required to obtain any certificate from the said Commissioners in order to obtaining such appointment; but the Chief of the Department shall cause the appointment of any person not previously examined to be formally recorded as having been made on account of special qualifications.

Board of Trade, Whitehall, May 18, 1855.

The Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade and Plantations have received, through the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a copy of a Despatch from Her Majesty's Minister at Athens, enclosing copy of a proposed law for establishing steam communication between different parts of Greece, of which the following is a translation:—

ART. I. A Joint Stock Company (anonyme) may be established, under royal authority, and subject to the conditions specified in the following Articles, in order to establish lines of steam communication between the islands and coast of Greece.

ART. II. The Company shall be bound,—

1. To employ and to maintain, for the purpose of this Trade, three or four steam-ships, none of which shall be of less than 70 horse power; and also to keep in reserve one steam-ship at least, to provide against contingencies.

2. To sail their ships under the Greek flag. The captains and at least three-fourths of the crews must be Greek subjects, with the exception of the engineers, who may be subjects of any other power.

3. To establish a workshop for the repair of the machinery and boilers of the steam-vessels.

4. To establish a slip, or to obtain and maintain a machine for the purpose of drawing up vessels in need of repair.

5. To carry, free of charge, to all places at which the vessels may touch, the Government despatches and the packets of stamped papers, and also the public moneys.

ART. III. In remuneration of these services the (Greek) Government will grant to the Company the following advantages:—

1. An exclusive privilege for twelve years, reckoning from the day when the vessels begin to run.

2. Acquisition by the State of a number of shares, equal to a fifth of the total capital of the Company, but not in any case exceeding a maximum sum of 400,000 drachmas.

3. A guarantee to the shareholders of an amount of interest not exceeding 5 per cent., payable every six months. That is, in the event of the Company not being able, after deduction of working expenses and cost of direction, as well as of the amount annually devoted to the redemption of the original capital, to pay interest out of the net revenue, at the rate of 5 per cent., the Government will supply the deficiency.

4. Freedom from Customs' duties on the materials required for the fitting out, repair, and maintenance of the Company's steam-ships and workshop. This exemption shall be granted in respect of machinery and coal for so long as the Company shall continue in existence; but in respect of other materials shall be limited to six years.

5. Assimilation of the Company's steam-ships to vessels of war, and enjoyment of the same privileges.

6. Concession, either by the Government or the commune, at the rate of valuation adopted for works of public utility, of the land required for the construction of docks, workshops, and other necessary establishments.

7. The privilege of maintaining order on board by means of its own agents, but under the surveillance of the Government, and in conformity with the regulations which may be issued on this head by the Minister of the Interior.

ART. IV. The Government shall come to an understanding with the Company on the following points, to be agreed upon by both parties:—

1. Everything relating to the duration of the privilege, to the number, power, and speed of the steam-ships to be employed, as also the amount to be annually deducted from the revenue in execution of Articles II. and III., for the purpose of redeeming the original capital of the Company.

2. The equality of treatment with ships of war provided for by sect. 5 of Art. III., and the privileges which the Company's vessels shall enjoy under this head.

3. The period at which the Company shall commence running its vessels.

4. The sites of the agencies of the Company, and their branches.

5. The exact lines of communication and any alterations to be made in them.

6. The number and order of departure of the vessels.

7. The charges for passengers and goods.

8. The relations between the Post-office and the Company, and especially the amount of remuneration to be paid to the Company for the carriage of private letters.

9. The relations between the Company and the departments of War and Marine, that is to say, the conditions to which it shall be subject, and the remuneration which it may claim for conveying the military or naval forces of the kingdom to any place, whether ordinarily touched at by its vessels or not.

10. The responsibility of the Company, in case of loss or damage of articles shipped on board its vessels, and the amount of compensation to be paid in such cases.

11. The obligations of the Company in case of non-fulfilment of its engagements.

12. Everything relating to the publicity of the Company's proceedings, and the mode of effecting it.

13. The internal regulations of the Company.

14. The surveillance to be exercised by the authorities.

Art. V. In case no Company shall accept the conditions specified in Art. II., steam communication between the different parts of the kingdom may be established at the expense of the state, on condition of the outlay not exceeding for the present the sum of one million and a half drachmas.

Art. VI. This charge may be defrayed either out of the public revenue or by means of a loan.

Art. VII. Until the Government shall have negotiated and concluded such loan, a credit of one million drachmas shall be opened at the Ministry of the Interior. In case of the loan being effected, the first instalments of the amount borrowed shall be applied to the repayment to the Exchequer of the sum advanced by it.

Art. VIII. The revenue of the undertaking shall be applied specially to the payment of the interest, the extinction of the loan, and the cost of maintaining and directing the undertaking.

Art. IX. If, after the establishment by the Government of the service in question, a Company should offer to take charge of it, the Government may concede it to it upon the most favourable conditions authorized by the present law.

Henry Marker, Clerk, sometime of Exmouth, and afterwards Vicar of Aylesbeare, both in the said county of Devon, deceased, Her Majesty's royal licence and authority that they and their issue may take and use the surname of Marker, in lieu of that of Smith, and that he and their issue may also bear the arms of Marker, in compliance with a desire expressed in the last will and testament of Richard John Marker, of Uffculme aforesaid, Esquire, lately deceased, uncle of the said Margaret-Frances Smith, and in order to testify their grateful and affectionate respect for the memory of the testator; such arms being first duly exemplified, according to the laws of arms, and recorded in the Herald's Office, otherwise the said licence and permission to be void and of none effect.

And also to command, that the said royal concession and declaration be registered in Her Majesty's College of Arms.

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," power is given to the Postmaster-General to remit any of the rates of British postage for the time being, payable by law on the transmission of post letters, newspapers, or other printed papers, to such extent as the Lords of the Treasury shall from time to time direct; and power is also given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury from time to time, by Warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British or Inland postage, payable by law on the transmission by the post of Foreign or Colonial letters or newspapers, or any other printed papers, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof, and a scale of weight to be contained in such Warrant.

And whereas it is expedient that regulations should be made for the transmission by the post of the letters hereinafter mentioned.

Now we, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the power or authority in us for such purpose vested in and by the said Act, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, do by this Warrant (under the hands of two of us the said Commissioners, by the authority of the statute in that case made and provided) order and direct, that on every letter not exceeding one quarter of an ounce in weight, posted in or addressed to any part of the United Kingdom, and sent from or to any commissioned Officer employed in Her Majesty's regular Forces, Artillery, or Royal Marines, in the White Sea, or the adjacent waters, are sent from or to any commissioned or warrant officer, midshipman, or master's mate employed in Her Majesty's Navy, or any of Her Majesty's ships in the White Sea, or the adjacent waters, transmitted by the post between any place in the United Kingdom and any port or place in the White Sea, or the adjacent waters, either by packet-boat or private ship, or viâ Christiania, (the conveyance between the United Kingdom, and Christiania being direct by packet-boat or private ship), there shall be charged and taken, in lieu of any rates of postage now payable by law on such letters a uniform rate of three pence (which shall include any foreign postage that may be payable thereon).

And we further order and direct, that on every letter not exceeding one quarter of an ounce in weight, posted in or addressed to any part of the United Kingdom, and sent from or to any non-commissioned officer, serjeant, corporal, drummer, trumpeter, fifer, or private soldier, employed in Her Majesty's regular Forces, Artillery, or Royal Marines, in the White Sea, or the Adjacent waters, or sent from or to any seaman employed in Her Majesty's Navy, or any of Her Majesty's ships in the White Sea, or the adjacent waters, transmitted by the post between any place in the United Kingdom, and any port or place in the White Sea, or the adjacent waters, viâ Christiania, (the conveyance between the United Kingdom and Christiania being direct by packet-boat or private ship), there shall be charged and taken, in lieu of any rates of postage now payable by law on such letters, a combined British and foreign rate of three pence.

And we direct, that on every letter, transmitted as is mentioned in this Warrant, exceeding a quarter of an ounce in weight, there shall be charged, taken, and paid, in lieu of any rates of postage now payable by law on such respective letters, progressive and additional rates of postage as follows; that is to say:

On every letter, exceeding a quarter of an ounce in weight, and not exceeding half an ounce in weight, two rates of postage.

On every letter exceeding half an ounce in weight, and not exceeding three quarters of an ounce in weight, three rates of postage.

On every letter exceeding three quarters of an ounce in weight, and not exceeding one ounce in weight, four rates of postage.

And for every quarter of an ounce in weight above the weight of one ounce, there shall be charged and taken one additional rate of postage; and every fraction of a quarter of an ounce above the weight of one ounce shall be charged as an additional quarter of an ounce;

and each progressive and additional rate, chargeable under this clause, shall be estimated and charged at the sum which any such letter would be charged with under the provisions hereinbefore contained, if not exceeding one quarter of an ounce in weight.

And we further direct, that in respect of letters sent by any non-commissioned officers, serjeants, corporals, drummers, fifers, private soldiers, or seamen, under the regulations of this Warrant, the following conditions shall be observed ; that is to say : upon each such letter shall be superscribed the name of the writer, and his class or description in the regiment, detachment, or vessel, to which he shall belong ; and upon every such letter there shall be written in the handwriting of, and signed by, the officer having at the time the command of the regiment, detachment, or vessel, to which the privileged person belongs, the name of such officer and the name of such regiment, detachment, or vessel.

And we further direct, that in respect to letters received by the post under this Warrant by any commissioned or warrant officers, midshipmen, or master's mates, or any non-commissioned officers, private soldiers, or seamen, the following conditions shall be observed ; that is to say : the postage of each such letter posted in the United Kingdom shall be prepaid, either in money or by the proper stamp or stamps being affixed thereto, at the time of the same being posted ; and as to letters received by any non-commissioned officers, private soldiers, or seamen, each letter shall be directed to the privileged person, specifying on the superscription thereof, the regiment, detachment, or vessel to which he shall belong.

And we further direct, that if the postage of any such letter posted in the United Kingdom shall not be prepaid either in money or by stamps, when posted, the same shall not be forwarded by the post ; and that if in any case any other of the conditions hereinbefore prescribed be not complied with, the letter shall be charged with the same rates of postage as if this Warrant had not been signed.

And we further direct, that nothing herein contained shall be construed in anywise to annul, prejudice, or affect any of the exemptions and privileges granted by or under the said recited Act ; and that all such exemptions and privileges shall remain in full force.

And we further direct, that the several terms and expressions used in this Warrant shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects as they would have had if inserted in the said recited Act.

Provided lastly, and we hereby declare and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by Warrant under their hands, at any time hereafter, to alter or appeal any of the rates hereby altered, or the regulations hereby made, and to make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and from time to time, to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of MAY 22, 1855.

War-Department, May 24, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord, May 12, 1855.

I do myself the honour to acquaint your Lordship that General de la Marmora, with a portion of the Sardinian Contingent, arrived off Balaklava on the night of the 8th instant, and he came up to head-quarters the following morning.

The very unfavourable state of the weather since the 9th has prevented any material part of the force being landed; and it has been found necessary to send the vessels that brought it, and which could not be got into the harbour, to Kazatch Bay, until it should moderate.

Five troops of the 12th Lancers landed on the 9th from the Himalaya, which performed the voyage from Alexandria to Balaklava in ninety-four hours.

The enemy made two serious assaults upon our most advanced parallel of the right attack on the night of the 9th, but were on each occasion most nobly met and repulsed with considerable loss.

The arrangements of Colonel Trollope, who had charge of the right attack, and Lieutenant-Colonel Mundy, the Field Officer of the trenches, were most judicious; and Captain Turner, of the Royal Fusiliers, and Captain Jordan, of the 34th Regiment, are reported to have done their duty in the most gallant manner.

They opened a powerful fire on our trenches on the following night, and exposed their columns to a heavy musketry fire from the troops on duty. They did not however reach the parapets, nor indeed come very near them.

Last night a very determined sortie was made upon the advance of our left attack. The enemy moved forward in two columns from the Woronzow road. Our advanced sentries having slowly retired, the guard of the trenches was prepared to receive them, and consequently drove them back in the most determined manner. A few Russians only got into the parallel, and five were left dead close outside.

The conduct of both officers and men was admirable, and it is with deep concern that I have to report the death of Captain Edwards, of the 68th Foot, and that of five men.

I have also the pain of saying that the wounded amount to thirty.

Owing to the great quantity of rain which has fallen during the last few days, the service in the trenches has again been most arduous and severe upon our men, who deserve all praise for their energy and untiring perseverance.

I enclose the returns of casualties to the 10th instant.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c. &c.

LONDON GAZETTE of MAY 25, 1855.

War-Department, May 28, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received two Despatches and their Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord, May 15, 1855.

Since my despatch of the 12th instant, nothing has occurred worthy of being reported to your Lordship.

The fire has been very slack, and that of the enemy has been directed towards the French works rather than against the English trenches.

The remainder of the 12th Lancers has arrived and will be disembarked to day.

All our means are devoted to the landing of the Sardinian troops, which the bad weather had prevented on the arrival of the first ships.

I have found it necessary in some instances, to land artillery horses at Kazatch Bay, to avoid further crowding the harbour of Balaklava.

I enclose the return of casualties to the 13th instant inclusive.

I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c. &c.

Before Sevastopol,
May 15, 1855.

MY LORD,

I have the honour to inclose a letter from the Inspector General of Hospitals, forwarding the weekly report on the sick of the Army under my command. I deeply regret to have to draw your Lordship's attention to the fact that cholera has reappeared here,* that 20 men have died, and that 52 men were yesterday labouring under the fatal disease.

The troops had been free from it for several months, and I was in hopes that we should have had no return of it.

General Canrobert informs me that it had never ceased to prevail in the French Army in a greater or lesser degree.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c.

Enclosure.

Head Quarters, Camp, before Sevastopol,
My Lord, May, 14, 1855.

I have the honour to report on the weekly state of sick of the Army serving in the Crimea, from the 6th to the 12th instant, and to observe that the following are the proportions, which are extremely moderate; viz.:

Ratio of admissions to strength during the week, 3·92 per cent.;

Ratio of deaths to strength during the week, 0·20 per cent.:

but I regret to have to add that, since the 12th instant, spasmodic cholera has considerably increased, and as many as 18 deaths, and 52 cases under treatment, have been reported within the last twenty-four hours.

The 4th, including the Buffs and 71st, the 2nd and the Light Divisions, with B G and P batteries of Artillery have suffered most; but as yet the disease can hardly be said to exist in the cavalry, 1st and 3rd Divisions, nor in the siege train. This exemption, however, there is reason to apprehend, will not be of any very long duration.

Hitherto the disease has chiefly attacked new comers and many of the cases have occurred when the men were either actually in the trenches, or immediately after their return from duty in them. This may have been owing to the combined causes of fatigue and local miasma, but to neither in particular; for we find the men of the B G and P batteries, who never go into the trenches at all, and who are not overworked, have suffered nearly as much as any others. All the men attacked in them, with I believe one exception, had recently arrived in the Crimea. In the P battery, two of the men attacked had only just landed; one I think had been about 24, and the other 36 hours on shore when they were attacked, and in both the disease followed intemperance.

The weather, which for some days previous to the 10th had been extremely warm, was followed on that day by heavy rain, which continued, alternating with periods of dense fog during the whole of the 11th and 12th, but it has now cleared up again and the temperature has been considerably reduced.

The Buffs and 71st, which had only just marched up to their new encamping-ground before the rain set in, were ill prepared for such an occurrence; and their tents, which had not been properly trenched, were speedily flooded.*

* The camps of the Buffs, 48th, and 71st, have all been changed to the only available sites, but to a greater distance to where their services will be required; and it is altogether problematical what degree of benefit may be derived.

All the ground is now dry.

The 48th Regiment, in the 4th Division, and the 2nd battalion of the Royals, in the 2nd Division, both newly arrived regiments, had been a few days longer in camp and were somewhat better prepared, but the sites of their camps are not good, nor are those of the Buffs or 71st either. The 48th are on a level piece of ground, where the 63rd hospital establishments were in the winter; the soil is tenacious and the water lodges in pools, and remains until evaporated by the sun's rays. The Buffs and 2nd battalion of the Royals are on low ground between the 2nd and 4th Divisions, with the same disadvantages as the 48th; the 71st occupy rather better ground, as their tents are pitched just where the ground begins to rise to form the hill on which the huts of the 14th and 39th have been built; but, I think all these regiments might be removed with great advantage to their health to the higher and drier ground, and I hope, from the short distance, without any very material detriment to their military position.

The health of the 1st Division continues to improve, and the number of fever cases in the 79th and 93rd is considerably reduced. The men are well supplied, and the duties and fatigues comparatively light.

In the left siege train and attack some cases of low continued fever have occurred, arising, Mr. Elliot the Superintending Surgeon thinks, from fatigues in the heat of the day and exposure

Although the weather was beautiful when these regiments encamped, the rain came on with its usual suddenness and violence, causing the mud to be nearly a foot deep over the whole surface of the country, in a manner that must be seen to be believed. They had no time to intrench their tents, although they were supplied with the proper tools.

JAMES SIMPSON,
Chief of the Staff.

to damp at night. Two serious accidents have occurred during the week, one requiring amputation of the thigh, on account of cannon-shot injury of the knee; the other an injury of the foot, occasioned by the same shot, requiring removal of the heel and a bone adjoining it, called the astragalus. These injuries occurred on the 7th, and are both doing well. There is another interesting case in the hospital of the left siege train, where the greater part of the lower jaw on both sides was carried away by a cannon shot. This case, under the able and indefatigable care of Staff-Assistant-Surgeon A. H. Taylor, is rapidly proceeding to a cure; and, by judiciously drawing the parts together, the deformity will by no means be so considerable as might be imagined. The man is now walking about, and though he as yet requires to be fed through a tube, he is able to smoke his pipe.

The Cavalry Division is improving in health. There are fewer fever cases; and the man of the 13th Light Dragoons, who last week was considered in a hopeless state, is, I am glad to say, progressing favourably.

The 10th Hussars is the only regiment in the Cavalry Division that has anything like a heavy sick list, and they are suffering from dysentery contracted in Egypt, and kept up by sleeping on the ground here after the comforts of Indian barrack life.

In the 2nd Division, febrile complaints still continue to be the most numerous class of diseases, but bowel affections are becoming more common, and spasmodic cholera has made its appearance; eighteen cases have occurred during the week, of which seven proved fatal.

In the 3rd Division, although there is no marked diminution in the number of sick, the decreased mortality marks a mitigation in the form of fever that is prevailing. The mortality this week is only half what it was last week.

4th Division.—Cholera has made its appearance in this division during the week, and thirteen cases have occurred, seven of which died, and four of them belonged to the 48th Regiment.

On the night of the 11th, the Russians made a sortie, and 1 officer and 5 men, of the 68th were killed, and 22 men were wounded,—amongst the latter is a case of musket bullet lodged in the brain. The man must have been shot from above, as the ball entered the upper part of the head and lodged. The trephine was applied, and several spiculi of bone, that had been driven down, removed, but the ball was so deeply embedded in the brain it could not be discovered. He is still alive, but there is little or no hope of his ultimate recovery.

Light Division.

In this division, as in all others, fever is the prevalent disease, but only two deaths have occurred from it during the week. Seven men have died from wounds and two of cholera, one in the 77th and the other in the 23rd Regiment. Fifty-five cases of gun-shot wounds were admitted during the week, the greater portion of them fresh wounds. Of the seven deaths that occurred, one was a wound of the lung, one a wound of the abdomen, in which the small intestines were wounded, one a fracture of the skull by a musket-ball, another a severe fracture of the thigh and ankle, by the bursting of a shell, besides bullet wounds through both arms. There was a second case of injury of the head, as well as a second of injury of the lungs. The seventh death is not detailed.

Every precaution is being taken to remove nuisances from the camps and their neighbourhoods, and to improve their sanitary condition, as well as that of the locality, and in this the Sanitary Commissioners sent out from England afford their cordial assistance.

Board of Trade, Whitehall, May 30, 1855.

The Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade and Plantations have received, through the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, the copy of a Despatch from Her Majesty's Consul-General in Christiania, notifying the substance of a Royal Rescript admitting rye, barley, oats, and potatoes into Finmark, duty free, until the 31st October next.

Board of Trade, May 31, 1855.

The Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade have addressed the following letter to the Commissioners of Customs, on the subject of continuing for a limited period the system of registration, de novo, in this country, of colonial ships, as practised before the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, came into operation. The Commissioners of Customs have issued the subjoined Order on the subject.

Office of Committee of Privy Council for Trade, Marine Department, May 25, 1855.

Sir,

Various communications having been made to my Lords concerning the inconvenience sustained with respect to ships registered in the British possessions abroad, in consequence of the mode in which the changes effected by the Merchant Shipping Act have been brought into operation, I am directed to bring the subject to the notice of the Commissioners of Customs, and to request their attention to the following observations and suggestions.

The cases complained of are two-fold—

1. Where a ship being registered in a colony, a Bill of Sale, or a Power of Attorney to execute a Bill of Sale, have been sent by the registered owner to the United Kingdom.

2. Where a ship being registered in a colony, the registered owner is in the United Kingdom, and wishes to sell her here.

In both these cases, the registrars of shipping would, before the 1st of May, have registered the ship, de novo, without waiting to ascertain the state of the colonial register; whilst, since the 1st of May, they have refused to register the ship, de novo, in this country, and the Commissioners of Customs have supported them in such refusal.

This Board entirely concur with the view which the Commissioners have thus taken of the principles on which the system of ship registry should be carried into effect.

One of the most important objects of the system introduced by the recent Act, is to prevent a ship from being disposed of in two places, to two different persons at the same time; and to effect this object, it is necessary that all dealings with the register of the ship should either be effected at her port of registry, or appear on the register book kept at that port.

If it is wished to sell or mortgage the ship in any part of the empire other than that in which the ship is registered, Statutory Powers of Attorney for the purpose (called in the Act "Certificates of Sale or Mortgage"), can be procured at the port of registry. These certificates will confer a perfect title on those who take under them; whilst, as they will be entered on the register book at the port of registry, persons who might desire to purchase or lend money on the ship there, will have full notice of their existence.

My Lords consider it of very great importance for the interests of shipping that these certificates, should be brought into use as quickly and as universally as possible, and that nothing should be done which would have the effect of permanently infringing the principles of the new system, or of inducing persons concerned in shipping to believe that it will henceforward be possible to confer a title to a ship by any means except those which the Act, and the regulations which have been issued under it, point out as necessary.

But since it appears that it has, under former Acts, been the practice to register colonial ships, de novo, in this country upon the production of duly executed Bills of Sale, without first ascertaining the state of the colonial register; and since it further appears that many ships have lately been sent, and are now being sent from the colonies, for the purpose of being sold in this country, according to the practice which has heretofore prevailed, and that considerable inconvenience would be caused if the new system were brought suddenly into stringent operation:

My Lords wish to suggest to the Commissioners the expediency of adopting the following relaxations, to take effect at once, and to last during such time only as may be necessary to bring the new system into complete operation.

1. Ships registered in the colonies may, for such time as hereinafter mentioned, be registered, de novo, in this country, upon the production of such documents or evidence of title as the registrars have heretofore been in the habit of receiving as sufficient.

2. In all such cases the vendor or his agent shall give to the registrar security that the transaction shall be completed, and that the registrar and the Commissioners shall be kept harmless from any loss or damage which they might incur if it were to happen that the ship was in the meantime disposed of in the colony. A suggested form of bond for this purpose is enclosed.

3. The vendor or his agent must fill up, and sign, and deliver to the registrar at the port of registry, de novo, a form of application to the registrar at the port of original registry in the colony, calling for a transfer of the registry under the provisions of the Act. This application, the registrar at the port of registry, de novo, will forward with the old certificate of registry to the colony. A suggested form of application is enclosed, with forms of letters from the registrar in this country to the colonial registrar, and of the reply to be sent by the latter.

4. On registering the ship, de novo, the registrar will insert in his book the words "registry to be transferred from the port of ;" and, on receiving the requisite information from the colonial registrar, he will write under those words "registry completed by transfer from the port of ," with the date.

5. The relaxation is to take effect at once, and to last, as to ships registered in the American colonies, until the end of September, and as to ships registered in more distant colonies, until the end of February next.

The effect of the relaxation will be to place the persons who accept the title in this country in as good a position, so far as regards registry, as they could have enjoyed under the former practice; whilst they will have the additional advantage (which they could not have had under former Acts) that their equitable title to the ship will under the provisions of the new Act, be perfectly good. I am, &c.,

T. H. FARRER.

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury from time to time, by Warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British or Inland postage, payable by law on the transmission by the post of foreign or colonial letters or newspapers, or any other printed papers, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof and a scale of weight to be contained in such Warrant.

And whereas it is expedient that regulations should be made for the transmission by the post of the letters hereinafter mentioned.

Now we the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the power or authority in us for such purpose vested in and by the said Act, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, do by this Warrant, under the hands of two of us the said Commissioners, by the authority of the statute in that case made and provided, order and direct that on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight transmitted by the post between any place in the United Kingdom and the colony of Van Diemen's Land (direct or through any other colony, or through any foreign country), there shall be charged and taken in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such letters, an uniform British rate of sixpence.

And we direct that on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, transmitted by the post between Van Diemen's Land and any other of Her Majesty's colonies, or any foreign country through the United Kingdom, (whether through any colony or foreign country or not) there shall be charged and taken, in lieu of any rates of British postage, now payable by law on such letters, the rates of British postage following; that is to say:

For the conveyance of every such letter between Van Diemen's Land and any part of the United Kingdom, a rate of sixpence, and for the conveyance of every such letter between the port in the United Kingdom of the departure or arrival of the packet or ship conveying the same and the colony or foreign country to or from which the same shall be forwarded, such a further or additional rate of postage as shall from time to time be charged and payable for British postage on letters posted or delivered at the port in the United Kingdom of the departure or arrival of the packet or ship conveying the same, and transmitted direct between such port and any such colony or foreign country.

And we direct that on every letter transmitted as is mentioned in this Warrant exceeding half an ounce in weight, there shall be charged, taken and paid progressive and additional rates of postage as follows ; that is to say :

On every such letter exceeding half an ounce in weight and not exceeding one ounce in weight, two rates of postage.

On every such letter exceeding one ounce and not exceeding two ounces in weight, four rates of postage.

On every such letter exceeding two ounces and not exceeding three ounces in weight, six rates of postage.

And on every such letter exceeding three ounces and not exceeding four ounces in weight, eight rates of postage.

And for every ounce in weight above the weight of four ounces there shall be charged and taken two additional rates of postage, and every fraction of an ounce above the weight of four ounces, shall be charged as one additional ounce, and each progressive and additional rate chargeable under this clause shall be estimated and charged at the sum which any such letter would be charged with under this Warrant if not exceeding half an ounce in weight.

And we direct, that in all cases in which any letter, in respect of which any rate of postage is chargeable by this Warrant, shall pass through a foreign country, any foreign postage payable thereon shall be charged and paid thereon in addition to the British postage.

And we further direct, that nothing in this Warrant contained shall be deemed or construed to extend to any letters posted in or addressed to France, or any foreign country through France, and transmitted between France or foreign countries (through France) and Van Dieman's Land; all which last-mentioned letters shall be charged and chargeable with the same rates of postage as if this Warrant had not been signed.

And we further direct, that nothing herein contained shall be deemed or construed to annul, prejudice, or affect any of the exemptions and privileges granted by or under the said recited Act, or by or under any other Acts of Parliament relating to the Post Office, and that all such exemptions and privileges shall remain in full force.

And we further direct that the term "by the post," used in this warrant, shall, as to the sea conveyance, include the conveyance by any British or colonial, or foreign packet-boat, (packet-boats belonging to or employed by or under the Government or Post Office of the United States of America and French Mediterranean packet-boats excepted) and also the sea conveyance by any private ship.

And we further direct, that this Warrant shall come into operation on the 1st day of August, 1855, so far as respects letters transmitted from the United Kingdom addressed to Van Dieman's Land, and on the 1st day of October, 1855, so far as respects letters transmitted from Van Dieman's Land to the United Kingdom.

Provided lastly, and we hereby declare and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by Warrant under their hands, at any time hereafter, to alter or repeal any of the rates hereby altered, or the regulations hereby made, and to make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and from time to time to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.

NOTICE.

Whereas the Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the city of London did, within six calendar months after the passing of "The Metropolitan Market Act, 1851," signify under their common seal to the Right Honourable Spencer Horatio Walpole, then one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, that they desired to undertake the execution of that Act, and have accordingly proceeded in the execution thereof, and have provided the market places, slaughter-houses, and conveniences authorized by the said Act to be provided and have fixed a table of tolls and payments, in the manner required by the said Act, and appointed the market days, and have done all other acts which appeared to them necessary previously to the opening of the said market-places and slaughter-houses, and have reported to me, the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Baronet, one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, what they have done concerning the premises, and have also annexed to their report a copy of the said table of tolls and payments: Now, I hereby fix Friday the 15th day of June, 1855, as the time for the opening of the said markets and slaughter houses; and I do hereby notify, by this present notice under my hand, that such market-places and slaughter-houses have been provided, and that the same will be opened on Friday the 15th day of June, 1855, and that from that day Smithfield Market will cease to be a market for the sale of cattle and horses.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 5, 1855.

Lord Chamberlain's Office, June 5, 1855.

NOTICE is hereby given, that Her Majesty will hold a Levee at St. James's Palace, on Wednesday the 27th instant, at two o'clock.

War Department, June 5, 1855.

Lord Panmure has received two Despatches and their Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
May 22, 1855.

My Lord,

Adverting to my despatch No. 251, of the 14th April, I do myself the honour to lay before your Lordship the copy of a letter which I have received from Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, with its enclosure from Commander Priest, of the Himalaya, bearing testimony to the exertions and valuable services of Captain Gell, of the East India Company's Service, Acting Quartermaster-General in conducting the 10th Hussars and 12th

Lancers through Egypt, and in superintending the embarkation of those regiments at Alexandria.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c.

Enclosure 1.

Royal Albert, off Sevastopol,
MY LORD, May 10, 1855.

I have the honour to inclose for your Excellency's information copy of a letter from Commander Priest, of the Himalaya, calling my attention to the praiseworthy exertions of Captain Gell, of the Honourable East India Company's Service, and as Her Majesty's Consul at Alexandria, and Colonel Pole, of the 12th Lancers, both bear testimony to this officer's valuable services, I shall feel greatly obliged if your Excellency will have the goodness to bring his conduct under favourable consideration in the proper quarter.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) E. LYONS,
Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

His Excellency Field-Marshal Lord Raglan, G.C.B., &c., &c.

Enclosure 2.

Her Majesty's Steam-vessel Himalaya,
SIR, Karatch, May 7, 1855.

I trust that you will not think me presuming if I endeavour to place before you some of the merits of Captain Gell, Honourable East India Company, the Deputy Assistant Quartermaster-General, conducting the transit of the 10th and 12th Regiments of Cavalry through Egypt, and superintending their embarkation.

Colonels Polc and Parlby are morc capable than I can be of bcaring testimony to his services, but I bcg to add my witness to the zeal, great energy, and consummate tact, by which he obtained a maximum of work from a people notoriously inert, and thus made my portion of the embarkation very simple : that no casualty of any kind has occurred in getting from the shore into pontoons and alongside the several ships more than 1000 horses, is attributable to his forcsight and prudence. I respectfully submit that it may prove advantageous to the service if his exertions be brought to the notice of Lord Raglan.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) BEN. P. PRIEST, Commander.

Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B., Commander-in-Chief.

Before Sevastopol,
May 22, 1855.

My Lord,

I have the honour to lay before your Lordship the copy of a letter, which I received a short time ago from the Hon. Algernon Egerton and Mr. Thomas Tower, who succeeded Mr. Jervoise Smith and Mr. Glyn in the duty of distributing all that was sent out by the Crimean Fund for the use of the British Army.

I cannot speak too highly of the exertions of all these Gentlemen. Their courtesy, their kindness of heart, and their unceasing desire to gratify the wishes of all, are above all I can say in their favour ; and they carry with them the grateful acknowledgments of every officer and man, who are equally anxious with myself to bear the amplest testimony to the manner in which they have fulfilled their onerous task, despite of fatigue, weather, and every possible inconvenience.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c.

Enclosure.

Kadikoi, May 8. 1855.
Crimean Army Fund Agency.

My Lord,

We have the honour to report to your Lordship that the operations of the "Crimean Army Fund," of which we are the Honorary Representatives in the Crimea, have now closed.

In announcing this officially to your Lordship, we beg to express the hope that our endeavours to carry out the thoughtful and generous intentions of that association towards our noble and gallant countrymen in the Crimea have in some slight degree promoted the public service, and have not interfered in any respect prejudicially, to the organization of an army which we so love and admire.

We cannot conclude our mission without thanking your Lordship, the Quartermaster-General, and the authorities, for the kind countenance and support which we have received from the very commencement to the termination of our difficult but most grateful task.

Your Lordship will allow us to speak most highly of the Quartermasters of Regiments with whom we have been thrown in such frequent contact.

We have, &c.,
(Signed) ALGERNON EGERTON.

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," certain scales of weight and rates of postage were fixed, and made chargeable and payable, upon, for, or in respect of, letters, newspapers, Parliamentary proceedings, and printed papers, transmitted and forwarded by the post, and various regulations were made for facilitating the transmission of such letters and papers by the post ; and by the same Act powers were given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, from time to time, by Warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of postage therein mentioned.

And whereas further powers were given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury by an Act passed in the eleventh year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for giving further facilities for the transmission of letters by post, and for the regulating the duties of postage thereon, and for other purposes relating to the Post-office."

And whereas by a certain Warrant of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, dated the 23rd day of January, 1855, it was ordered and directed, that packets consisting of books, publications, or works of literature or art, might be transmitted by the post within the United Kingdom, subject to the several rates of postage and regulations therein contained.

And whereas it is expedient that the said Warrant should be repealed, and that such other rates of postage should be charged, and such other regulations made with respect to certain packets sent by the post as are hereinafter contained.

1. Now we, the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the powers vested in us in and by the said before-mentioned Acts, or either of them, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, do by this Warrant (under the hands of two of us the said Commissioners, by the authority of the Statute in that case made and provided), order and direct that the said Warrant, dated 23rd day of January, 1855, and the several rates of postage and the several orders, directions, and regulations therein mentioned and set forth relating to the transmission by the post, of packets consisting of books, publications, or works of literature or art within the United Kingdom shall cease and determine, and shall be, and the same are, hereby repealed and revoked. Nevertheless, no Treasury Warrant repealed by the said Warrant of the 23rd day of January, 1855, shall be revived by this Warrant.

2. And we do further order and direct, that all packets consisting of books, publications, or works of literature or art, posted in the United Kingdom, may be transmitted by the post within the United Kingdom, subject to the several rates and regulations hereinafter contained ; that is to say :

On every such packet, if not exceeding four ounces in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of one penny.

And on every such packet, if exceeding four ounces and not exceeding eight ounces in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of two pence.

And on every such packet, if exceeding eight ounces, and not exceeding one pound in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of four pence.

And on every such packet, if exceeding one pound, and not exceeding one pound and one half of another pound in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of six pence.

And on every such packet, if exceeding one pound and one-half of another pound, and not exceeding two pounds in weight, there shall be charged and taken one uniform rate of postage of eight pence.

And for every additional half a pound in weight of any such packet, above the weight of two pounds, there shall be charged and taken an additional rate of postage of two pence.

And every fractional part of every such additional half of a pound in weight, shall be charged as one half of a pound in weight.

3. And we do further order and direct, that no such packet, which in length or width or depth shall exceed the dimensions of two feet, shall be forwarded by the post under the provisions aforesaid.

4. And we do further order and direct, that the postage of all such packets as aforesaid, shall in every case be paid at the time of the same being posted, not in money, but by being duly stamped with the proper postage stamp or stamps affixed thereto, which stamp or stamps shall in every case be affixed or appear on the outside of every such packet, near the address or direction, and shall be of the value or amount of the postage duty payable thereon, under or by virtue of this Warrant, unless any such packet be sent from any department or office in or connected with the public service of Her Majesty, which shall keep a postage account with the General Post Office in London, in which case the same shall be forwarded post paid, and the postage thereof shall be charged in such postage account.

5. And we further order and direct, that for the purposes of this Warrant, the terms "Books, publications, or works of literature or art," shall mean, comprise, and include all books (whether printed, written, or plain), publications or compilations (whether in print or in manuscript), almanacks, prints, maps (whether on paper or canvas or cloth, and whether printed or written), and any description of paper, parchment, or vellum (whether printed, written upon, or plain, or any mixture of the three), together with any binding, mounting, or covering of or upon or belonging to any book or publication or work, or any portion thereof, or of or belonging to any paper, parchment, or vellum, and any cases or rollers of prints or maps, book-markers (whether of paper or otherwise), pencils, pens, or other articles usually appertaining to any such book, publication, or work, paper, parchment, or vellum, or necessary for its safe transmission, except where any such packet shall be transmitted by the post, upon or in respect of which a less rate of postage than a minimum rate of four pence shall be paid, and in all cases where any such packets shall be transmitted by the post, upon or in respect of which a less rate of postage than a minimum rate of four pence shall be paid, every such packet shall consist of and comprise all such before-mentioned books, publications, or compilations, almanacks, prints, maps, paper, parchment or vellum only as shall be printed or contain printed matter only (whether bound or unbound) and shall not comprise, extend to, or include any packet consisting of or containing any writing (except the address), nor any cases or rollers of prints or maps or book-markers, pencils, pens or other articles.

6. And we do further order and direct, that every such packet shall be sent open at the ends or sides, and either without a cover, or in a cover or envelope open at the ends or sides and that there shall be no letter, either closed or open, nor any communication in the nature of a letter, nor any enclosure, sealed or otherwise closed against inspection, nor any other enclosure not authorised by this Warrant, sent in or with any such packet, nor shall there be any letter or any communication in the nature of a letter written or printed in or upon any such packet, or on the cover or envelope thereof, nor (unless the minimum rate of postage of four pence shall be paid upon or in respect of such packet), and writing whatever written in or upon any such packet, or upon the cover or envelope thereof, except the address.

7. And in order to prevent any obstacles to the due and regular transmission of letters by the post, we do further order and direct, that it shall be lawful for any officer of the Post-office to delay the transmission of any packet, posted or forwarded by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant, for the space of twenty-four hours after the time at which the same ought to be despatched, in due course of the post, or (at his option) until the despatch of the mail next after that by which the same ought, in due course of the post, to be forwarded by him.

8. And we do further order and direct, that the transmission of the packets aforesaid, under this present Warrant, shall be restricted to such as shall be sent by the post between places within the United Kingdom and by the post of any post town in the United Kingdom, and that nothing herein contained shall be construed to extend to interfere with or in anywise to affect any privileges beyond those granted by this Warrant which may relate to the transmission by the post of printed votes and proceedings of Parliament, or of newspapers or other periodical publications which are allowed to pass by the post between places within the United Kingdom under the newspaper privilege, nor shall this present Warrant be construed to extend to any packet sent by the post between the United Kingdom and places beyond the seas.

9. And we do further order and direct, that if any packet, or the cover or envelope of any packet sent or tendered, or delivered in order to be sent by the post, under the provisions of this present Warrant shall not be open at the ends or sides, or shall in length or width or depth exceed the dimensions of two feet, or if there shall be any letter or any communication in the nature of a letter, written or printed in or upon any such packet, or on the cover or envelope thereof, every such packet shall and may be detained and opened, and at the option of the Postmaster-General, shall be either returned or given up to the sender thereof, or be given up to the person to whom it shall be addressed, or be forwarded to the place of its destination; and every such packet, on being so returned, given up, or forwarded, shall be chargeable with a postage of double the amount of postage to which it would have been liable as a letter, if the postage had been paid by stamps when posted, and such double postage may be either paid by the sender or be charged to the person to whom such packet shall be forwarded.

10. And we do further order and direct, that if any packet sent, or tendered, or delivered in order to be sent by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant, shall contain any writing whatever (such writing not being a letter, or any communication in the nature of a letter), either enclosed in or written upon any such packet, or upon the cover or envelope thereof (except the address), and a rate of postage less than a minimum rate of four pence shall have been paid upon or in respect of such packet, every such packet shall be forwarded charged with the amount of the difference between the postage paid thereon and the postage to which such packet would be liable as a book packet under this Warrant, together with a further and additional rate of four pence.

11. And we do further order and direct, that if any packet sent, or tendered, or delivered in order to be sent by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant, shall contain any letter, or any communication in the nature of a letter, whether closed or open, or any enclosure sealed or otherwise closed against inspection, or any other enclosure not authorized by this Warrant, every such letter, or communication, or enclosure may be taken out by any officer of the Post Office, and forwarded to the address on the packet, charged not only with the full rates of postage as an unpaid letter, but also with a further and additional rate of four pence, and the remainder of the packet, if duly prepaid by stamps, may be forwarded to the place of its address without any extra charge.

12. And we do further order and direct, that if any packet sent or tendered, or delivered in order to be sent by the post, under the provisions of this Warrant (any such packet sent from any department or office in or connected with the public service of Her Majesty, which shall keep a postage account with the General Post-office in London, and the postage thereof being charged in such account, only excepted), shall be posted, having thereon or affixed thereto a stamp or stamps, the value of which shall be less in amount than the rate of postage to which such packet would be liable under and by virtue of the several regulations, orders, directions, and conditions hereinbefore contained, but equal in amount to one penny at the least, every such last-mentioned packet shall be forwarded, charged with the amount of the difference between the value of such stamp or stamps so being thereon, or affixed thereto, and the postage to which such packet would be liable as aforesaid, together with a further and additional rate of four pence: and if any such packet shall be posted without having thereon or affixed thereto any postage stamp, every such last-mentioned packet shall, and may be detained and opened at any place in the United Kingdom, and at the option of the Postmaster-General, shall be dealt with and chargeable in like manner, as is hereinbefore directed, with respect to any packet not open at the ends or sides, or exceeding in length, or width, or depth the dimensions of two feet.

13. And we do hereby further order and direct, that in every case in which the postage chargeable on any packet, under the provisions of this Warrant, shall exceed the rates of postage to which any such packet would be liable as a letter, no higher amount than the letter rates shall be charged thereon.

14. And we do hereby further order and direct, that the several packets transmitted by the post under the provisions of this Warrant shall be subject to the several orders, directions, regulations, and rates of postage, respectively contained in a certain Warrant of the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, bearing date the 19th day of February, 1855, relating to re-directed rates of postage upon letters and packets which shall be re-directed and again forwarded by the post.

15. And we do further order and direct, that the terms and expressions used in this Warrant, shall be construed to have the like meaning in all respects, as they would have had if inserted in the said Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty.

16. And we do further order and direct, that this Warrant shall come into operation on the eleventh day of June instant.

17. And we do further order and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners, for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury, by Warrant duly made at any time hereafter, to alter or repeal any of the rates hereby fixed or altered, or the regulations hereby made, and to make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and from time to time to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 5, 1855.

War-Department, June 6, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received two Despatches and their Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,
May 26, 1855.

My Lord,

I have the honour to report to your Lordship that a portion of the Allied Armies took up a position yesterday on this side of the Tchernaya, the left of the French resting under a redoubt established upon the head of this ridge overhanging the valley, and opposite the Inkerman heights; the right extending beyond Tractir; and the ground more to the right, behind Chorgouna, being occupied by the Sardinian troops, aided in their advance by the 10th Hussars and 12th Lancers and the Horse Artillery, under Colonel Parlby.

Omer Pasha at the same time moved forward to the low heights in front of Balaklava, and thus afforded support to the French Divisions before him. These were commanded by General Canrobert, who pushed forward across the bridge of Tracktir, and drove the enemy, who were not in great numbers, off, and having cleared his front, he withdrew to this side of the river, where he now remains.

Sir Colin Campbell advanced the Royal Marines from the high ridge on our extreme right to a point commanding the old Baïdar-road; and Colonel Parlby, with the regiments I have mentioned, reconnoitred the country on the immediate right of General La Marmora's position, and patrolled along the Woronzow-road, in the direction of Baidar.

The appearance and bearing of the Sardinian troops are highly satisfactory, and I anticipate the greatest advantage from their addition to this army under their distinguished leader General La Marmora, whose zeal for the service and ardent desire to co-operate with us, I am happy to have so early an opportunity of acknowledging and recording. Nothing of importance has occurred in the British trenches since I wrote to your Lordship on the 19th instant.

The death of Colonel Egerton, of the 77th, on the night of the 19th ultimo, as already announced to your Lordship, prevented my receiving in due course the official report of the conduct of the officers serving immediately under him, and it is only a few days ago that I learnt that Captain Gilby was the next in seniority to him, of the 77th, on the occasion, and that he highly distinguished himself.

I deem it an act of justice to a most deserving officer to bring his conduct under the notice of your Lordship.

I enclose the return of casualties to the 24th instant. Your Lordship will regret to see that Lieutenant Williams, of the 17th, has been severely wounded.

I have the greatest pleasure in announcing to your Lordship the brilliant success which attended an attack by the French Army, of some ambuscades at the head of the Quarantine Bay, and in front of a cemetery near it. The attack was made on the night of the 22nd, and the operation was completed on the following evening. The enemy had collected a very large force on the first occasion to resist our Allies; but, notwithstanding, the French were enabled by their brilliant gallantry and determined resolution to maintain themselves in the pits at the head of the bay on the 22nd, and on the 23rd to occupy the whole with less resistance on the part of the Russians, who are stated to have sustained a very severe loss.

The French were necessarily exposed to a very heavy fire, and were assailed by vastly superior numbers. The achievement they accomplished redounds therefore highly to their renown, and is hailed with satisfaction by their Allies.

An expedition, composed of British, French, and Turkish troops, sailed for Kertch on Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning, and I hope soon to be able to announce the landing of the corps, and the result of its first operations. It is commanded by Lieutenant-General Sir George Brown, and has been conveyed in English and French ships, under the command of Admiral Sir

E. Lyons and Admiral Bruat, whose exertions to carry out this important service have been most conspicuous.

The 31st Regiment has arrived from Corfu.

I am much concerned to have to report that Major-General Buller has been obliged by the failure of his health to leave the army. He has been constant in the discharge of his duty s he joined this army, distinguished himself both at Alma and Inkerman, and persevered in taking his turn in the trenches until driven by illness to withdraw.

I regret the loss of his services exceedingly.

I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c. &c.

Enclosure.

Before Sevastopol,
May 26, 1855.

My Lord,

I have the honour to enclose a Return of the daily progress of Cholera in the army in the Crimea, from 19th to 25th May, inclusive.

Your Lordship will notice by this Return, that the disease has moderated in violence, and that the mortality is one-third less than it was during the preceding seven days, though I cannot say that the number of attacks has diminished in proportion, or that the disease has been circumscribed by narrower limits; on the contrary, I think it, if anything, more generally diffused, as cases have occurred in every division.

At Balaklava several admissions into the General Hospital there have taken place from the Sardinian Contingent, from the Land Transport Corps, and from ships in the harbour, which have swelled out our lists of both admissions and deaths.

The removal of the Buffs and 48th Regiment to higher and drier ground has been attended with good results.

Great attention is paid to the sanitary condition of the camps, and to all matters that it is thought may tend to excite the disease.

The attention of medical officers has been drawn to the subject of cholera belts, and I have reason to believe that the whole army has been supplied with them, and if not, the supply in store is ample enough to meet the demand.

I have, &c.,

J. HALL,
Inspector-General of Hospitals,

Field-Marshal Lord Raglan, G.C.B.
Commanding-in-Chief.

Admiralty, June 6, 1855.

A Despatch, of which the following is a copy, has been received from Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B., Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's Ships and Vessels in the Mediterranean and Black Sea.

Royal Albert, Straits of Kertch,
SIR, May 26, 1855.

I have great pleasure in requesting you to inform the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty that the Allied Forces are masters of the Straits of Kertch, and that they have in the Sea of Azof a powerful steam flotilla, of light draught of water, capable of cutting off the enemy's supplies, and harassing him at all points; and, moreover, that the means are at hand for sending in a vast number of gun-boats of the lighter draught, if it should be found desirable to do so.

My letter of the 22nd instant, No. 396, will have informed their Lordships that an Allied Expedition, consisting of 15,000 men of all arms, and five batteries of artillery, were then on the point of leaving the anchorage off Sevastopol, for Kertch, and my message by electric telegraph will have announced the complete success of that expedition; but it now remains for me to give an account of our proceedings for their Lordship's information:

The Fleet, which consisted of Her Majesty's ships named in the margin,* and a French Fleet of nearly equal force, under the command of my very gallant and energetic colleague, Vice-Admiral

* Royal Albert, Hannibal, Algiers, Agamemnon, St. Jean d'Acre, Princess Royal, Sidon, Valorous, Leopard, Tribune, Simoom, Furious, Highflyer, Terrible, Miranda, Sphinx, Spitfire, Gladiator, Vesuvius, Curlew, Swallow, Caradoc, Stromboli, Ardent, Medina, Wrangler, Viper, Lynx, Recruit, Arrow, Banshee, Snake, Beagle.

Bruat, assembled off the Straits of Kertch at early dawn on the birthday of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen, and both armies and navies confidently anticipated a successful celebration of that auspicious day. The Fleets steamed rapidly up to Kameish, where the Army landed under cover of the guns of the steam-frigates, and immediately ascended the heights without opposition, whilst the steamers of light draught of water pushed on towards Kertch and Ennikalé; and the enemy, apparently taken by surprise at the rapidity of these movements, and at the imposing appearance of the expedition, blew up his fortifications on both sides of the straits, mounting not less than fifty guns (new and of heavy calibre), which have fallen into our possession, and retired after having destroyed 3 steamers and several other heavily armed vessels, as well as large quantities of provisions, ammunition and stores, thus leaving us masters of the entrance into the Sea of Azof, without our having sustained any loss whatever.

4. As the disembarkation was unopposed, in consequence of the fire of the steam frigates having arrested the advance of the ememy, there was no field for the gallantry that animated every one in the expedition; but the duties they had to perform were very arduous, and I should be doing injustice to them and to my own feelings if I were not to say that no Commander-in-Chief was ever more ably assisted than I am by the captains and those under their command—one and all follow the admirable example of the zealous and talented second in command, Rear-Admiral Stewart, and they could not possibly do better. There was, however, an incident during the day that called forth the admiration of both fleets, and which deserves to be particularly noticed. Lieutenant McKillop, whose gun vessel, the Snake, was not employed like the others in landing troops, dashed passed the forts after an enemy's steamer, and although he soon found himself engaged not only with her but also with two others who came to her support, he persevered, and by the cleverness and extreme rapidity of his manœuvres, prevented the escape of all three, and they were consequently destroyed by the enemy, and the Snake had not a man hurt, though shot passed through the vessel.

5. Yesterday Admiral Bruat and I accompanied the combined steam flotilla, named in the margin,* into the Sea of Azof, and despatched them, under the orders of Captain Lyons, of the Miranda, on the interesting and important service they have before them.

6. Had this expedition been deferred but a short time longer, there would have been many and great difficulties to overcome, for the enemy was actively employed in strengthening the sea defences and in replacing the sunken vessels which had been carried away by the current during the winter months.

Of the 40 vessels sunk last year some still remain, and a French steamer touched upon one of them yesterday. It appears that the enemy did not succeed in destroying the coals, either at Kertch or Ennikalé, so that about 17,000 tons remain, which will be available for our steamers.

7. It will be evident to their Lordships, that the rapid operations which I have had the honour and happiness to describe to them, could not have been brought to so satisfactory a conclusion, if the most perfect understanding, and the most hearty good will towards each other, had not prevailed throughout the allied fleets and armies.

---

* Miranda, Vesuvius, Curlew, Swallow, Stromboli, Arlent, Medina, Wrangler, Viper, Lynx, Recruit, Arrow, Snake, Beagle, and five French steam-vessels.

I am, &c.

(Signed) EDMUND LYONS,
Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

The Secretary of the Admiralty,
London.

Admiralty, June 6, 1855.

With reference to the above Despatch, Lieutenant Henry Frederick McKillop will be promoted to the rank of Commander, so soon as he shall have completed the sea time required to qualify him for that rank.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 8, 1855.

Whitehall, June 7, 1855.

THE following Addresses of the General Assembly of the Church of Scotland, having been transmitted by Robert Montgomery, Lord Belhaven, Her Majesty's Commissioner, to the Right Honourable Sir George Grey, Bart., one of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, have been by him presented to the Queen; which Addresses Her Majesty was pleased to receive very graciously.

To the QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

We, your Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the Church of Scotland, now convened as the Representatives of the several Presbyteries, Royal Burghs, and Universities in Scotland, have received with profound respect and gratitude your Majesty's gracious letter addressed to this General Assembly.

In the renewed assurance of your Majesty's affectionate and undiminished regard for this National Church, and in the expressed resolution to maintain this Ecclesiastical Establishment in the possession of its ancient rights and privileges, we recognise a solemn pledge on which we rely with that entire confidence which is due from subjects to a Sovereign whose determination it is to make the long established Laws and Constitution of the State the unvarying and inviolable rule of her Government.

We are also cheered and encouraged, in the labours of our several vocations, by the satisfaction which your Majesty has been pleased to express with the frequent proofs given by former Assemblies of anxiety to promote the interests of true religion and piety ; and we earnestly pray that our deliberations may, through the aid of Divine Grace, contribute effectually to the present happiness and the everlasting welfare of the people committed to our charge.

We are seriously impressed by the momentous considerations to which your Majesty has called our attention, as incitements to the zealous performance of our sacred functions at a time when the Sovereign and the subjects have equal cause to implore the protection and counsel of the Almighty God in the war which the general voice of the nation has pronounced to be just and necessary. Participating fully in the sympathy which your Majesty feels with the suffering inevitably resulting from war, we at the same time cherish the most earnest desire that the sacrifices so cheerfully made by the people may be the means, under the guidance of Providence, for obtaining an honourable and lasting peace.

Your Majesty's Royal Warrant for two thousand pounds to be applied to the Reformation of the Highlands and Islands of Scotland has been most gratefully received; and it shall be our earnest study so to distribute this substantial boon as to effect the pious and benevolent purposes for the accomplishment of which it has been so liberally bestowed.

The reappointment of the Right Honourable Lord Belhaven as your Majesty's Representative in this General Assemby, is regarded by us as a special proof of your Royal favour, as we have hitherto found that distinguished nobleman to be a firm and ardent friend of this National Church, and in all respects highly entitled to our respect and confidence.

That the Lord God Almighty, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, may, in the good pleasure of His unspeakable goodness, multiply to our beloved Queen the choicest blessings of the present life, with the higher glories and felicities of the life everlasting,—that the same rich and unfading benefactions may be abundantly vouchsafed to the Prince Albert, to the Prince of Wales, and to all the Royal Family,—that the vast population of the British Empire, now living under the mild and beneficent rule of a Sovereign so justly endeared to every loyal and patriotic heart, may through the ages to come, enjoy the same inestimable privileges; and that the time may soon arrive when the people of every land, rejoicing in the light of the Gospel, shall universally be actuated by the pure, holy, and beneficent principles of Christian truth which alone can purify their souls from the influence of every hostile and hateful passion, and make them meet for the enjoyment of the incorruptible inheritance of heavenly places in Christ, is the earnest prayer of, may it please your Majesty, your Majesty's most fathful, dutiful, and loyal subjects,

The Ministers and Elders met in the National Assembly of the Church of Scotland.

Signed in our name, in our presence, and at our appointment, by Andrew Bell, Moderator.

Edinburgh, May 26, 1855.

To the QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty.

May it please your Majesty,

We, your Majesty's most loyal and dutiful subjects, the Ministers and Elders of the Church of Scotland, convened in General Assembly, embrace the opportunity, afforded by our meeting, to approach the Throne with the humble expression of our warm attachment to your Majesty's person, and family, and Government.

We beg to convey to your Majesty the assurance of our heartfelt sympathy in the present trying and anxious state of the Nation over which your Majesty rules, as still engaged in a protracted war with an enemy of great power and resources, as well as unbounded ambition.

While, as subjects of the Prince of Peace, we regard war as a great evil, and devoutly recognize in it the chastisement of a Holy and Righteous God, yet we know that he can overrule it for good; and we are fully persuaded that the present contest has been engaged in by your Majesty for just ends, such as we trust the just King and Judge of all may approve.

We deplore the many painful events that have occurred during its continuance, and the sacrifice that has been incurred of many lives, valuable to your Majesty and the Nation. While we recognize the hand of God in those events, and would strenuously inculcate on the flocks committed to our care, resignation to the Divine Will under such inflictions, together with the exercise of repentance and amendment of heart and life, we would venture to express to your Majesty our congratulations on the patient endurance and dauntless bravery which have been displayed by your Majesty's Forces by sea and land, and the hope which we are encouraged to entertain that their efforts may ere long be crowned with triumphant success; and it is our earnest prayer, which we will not fail, along with our people, to prefer at the Throne of the Heavenly Grace, that, through your Majesty's wise administration, and the blessing of God on the councils and arms of your Majesty and your Allies, the ends for which the present war was undertaken, may be speedily attained, and a safe, honourable, and lasting peace secured.

We unite in praying Him, who is King of Kings and Lord of Lords to enrich your Majesty with every temporal and every spiritual blessing, and, in His goodness to this Nation, to spare your Majesty long to reign in righteousness and with true glory over a loyal, happy, and religious people.

Given at Edinburgh this 26th day of May, 1855, in name of the General Assembly.

Andrew Bell, Moderator.

TREASURY WARRANT.

Whereas by an Act, passed in the fourth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled "An Act for the regulation of the duties of postage," power is given to the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury from time to time, by Warrant under their hands, to alter and fix any of the rates of British or inland postage, payable by law on the transmission by the post of foreign or colonial letters or newspapers, or any other printed papers, and to subject the same to rates of postage according to the weight thereof and a scale of weight to be contained in such Warrant, and, from time to time, by Warrant as aforesaid to alter or repeal any such altered rates, and to make and establish any new or other rates in lieu thereof.

And whereas it is expedient that further regulations should be made for the transmission by the post of the letters hereinafter mentioned.

Now we the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, in exercise of the power or authority in us for such purpose vested in and by the said Act, and of all other powers enabling us in this behalf, do by this Warrant, under the hands of two of us the said Commissioners, by the authority of the statute in that case made and provided, order and direct that on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, transmitted by the post between any place in the United Kingdom and the colony of Victoria (direct or through any foreign country), there shall be charged and taken in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such letters, a uniform British rate of one shilling, if the sea conveyance be by packet boat, and a uniform British rate of eight pence if the sea conveyance be by private ship.

And we direct that on every letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, transmitted by the post between the colony of Victoria, and any other of Her Majesty's colonies, or any foreign country through the United Kingdom (whether through any foreign country or not) there shall be charged and taken, in lieu of any rates of British postage now payable by law on such letters, the rates of British postage following; that is to say:

For the conveyance of every such letter between the colony of Victoria and any part of the United Kingdom, the sea conveyance being by packet-boat, a rate of one shilling; and, if the sea conveyance be by private ship, a rate of eightpence, and for the conveyance of every such letter between the port in the United Kingdom of the departure or arrival of the packet or ship conveying the same, and the colony or foreign country to or from which the same shall be forwarded, such a further or additional rate of postage as shall from time to time be charged and payable for British postage on letters posted or delivered at the port in the United Kingdom of the departure or arrival of the packet or ship conveying the same, and transmitted direct between such port and any such colony or foreign country.

And we direct that on every letter transmitted as is mentioned in this Warrant, exceeding half an ounce in weight, there shall be charged, taken, and paid progressive and additional rates of postage as follows; that is to say:

On every such letter exceeding half an ounce in weight and not exceeding one ounce in weight, two rates of postage.

On every such letter exceeding one ounce and not exceeding two ounces in weight, four rates of postage.

On every such letter exceeding two ounces and not exceeding three ounces in weight, six rates of postage.

And on every such letter exceeding three ounces and not exceeding four ounces in weight, eight rates of postage.

And for every ounce in weight above the weight of four ounces there shall be charged and taken two additional rates of postage, and every fraction of an ounce above the weight of four ounces, shall be charged as one additional ounce, and each progressive and additional rate chargeable under this clause shall be estimated and charged at the sum which any such letter would be charged with under this Warrant if not exceeding half an ounce in weight.

And we direct, that in all cases in which any letter, in respect of which any rate of postage is chargeable by this Warrant, shall pass through a foreign country, any foreign postage payable thereon shall be charged and paid thereon in addition to the British postage.

And we further direct, that nothing in this Warrant contained shall in anywise prejudice or affect the privilege granted by the said recited Act in favour of petitions and addresses, forwarded to Her Majesty by the post, nor the privilege, granted by the same Act, to members of each House of Parliament, to receive by the post petitions and addresses to Her Majesty, and petitions addressed to either House of Parliament, not exceeding thirty-two ounces in weight, exempt from postage, nor shall anything in this Warrant contained in anywise prejudice or affect the privilege which seamen and soldiers employed in Her Majesty's Service, and seamen and soldiers employed in the service of the East India Company, now by law enjoy of sending and receiving by the post letters not exceeding half an ounce in weight, subject to the regulations and restrictions in respect of the same.

And we further direct, that nothing in this Warrant contained shall be deemed or construed to extend to any letters or packets posted in or addressed to France, or any foreign country through France, and transmitted between France or foreign countries through France, and the colony of Victoria; all which last-mentioned letters and packets shall be charged and chargeable with the same rates of postage as if this Warrant had not been signed.

And we further direct, that this Warrant shall come into operation on the twentieth day of this present month of June.

Provided lastly, and we hereby declare and direct, that it shall be lawful for the Commissioners for the time being of Her Majesty's Treasury, or any two of them, by Warrant under their hands, at any time hereafter, to alter or repeal any of the rates hereby altered, or the regulations hereby made, and to make and establish any new or other rates or regulations in lieu thereof, and from time to time to appoint at what time the rates that may be payable are to be paid.

The Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade and Plantations have received, through the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a copy of a Despatch from Her Majesty's Minister at Rio de Janeiro, enclosing the translation of an extract from a report of the Head of the Pilotage Department of Rio Grande do Sul, relative to the state of the Bar at that Port, copies of which are subjoined.

(Copy.)

Rio de Janeiro,

My Lord, April 13, 1855.

I have the honour of transmitting herewith an extract, in copy and translation, from a report of the Head of the Pilotage Department of Rio Grande do Sul, relative to the state of the Bar at that Port, which has been communicated to me by the Brazilian Minister for Foreign Affairs, Viscount Abaeté, in a circular note, dated the 10th instant. The information contained in this extract, and which his Excellency appears to wish should be made known to foreign commerce, relates to the draught of water which should not be exceeded by vessels frequenting the port of Rio Grande in the present state of the Bar.

In the same note Viscount Abaeté acquaints me, that His Majesty the Emperor has sent Lieutenant-Colonel Jardin, of the Engineers, to Rio Grande, to study and propose the means which may be employed for satisfying the want experienced by that province, of a permanent and accessible entrance to the vessels employed in commerce with it; and that the Imperial Government awaits the report of that officer in order to take measures which may tend to facilitate that commerce.

Having communicated to Viscount Abaeté, for the consideration of the Imperial Government, the copy of a letter transmitted to me by Mr. Consul Vereker, which was addressed on the 15th ultimo, to the President of the province of Rio Grande do Sul, by the principal members of the consular body at that port, suggesting various ameliorations in the arrangements concerning the Bar, his Excellency has repeated to me in a note, dated the 11th instant, his above-mentioned statement relative to Colonel Jardin's mission, adding that he is persuaded that the latter officer will not fail to take into due consideration the measures proposed in that representation.

Extract from the Report of Lieutenant Rodrigo Antonio de Lamare, Harbour Master of the Port of Rio Grande de Sm. Pedro do Sul, respecting the Bar of that Port.

"The only means of which the commercial body "can avail itself, until an improvement is effected "at the Bar, is that of employing vessels which do "not draw more than 14 to 15 palms* of water, "because the Bar when smooth, and at the full, "never exceeds 16 to 16½ palms† depth of water, "and that is not always the case; whereas, when "the waters diminish, the quantity on the Bar is "reduced to 11 and 12 palms,‡ besides which the "rapidity of the flow and ebb is most extraordi- "nary, so that frequently the transition from very "low to high water on the Bar takes place in 15 "minutes."

Board of Trade, Whitehall, June 12, 1855.

The Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade and Plantations have received, a Despatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Rotterdam, enclosing a Notice to Mariners issued by the Netherland Minister of Marine, a translation of which is subjoined.

(Copy.) Marine Department,

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

The Minister of Marine hereby gives notice, that in consequence of the depth of water on the Westplaat, situated between the beaconed channels of the mouths of the North and West Maese, having been found to equal the depth of water in those mouths, the following buoys will be taken up on the first suitable opportunity after the 15th of June next, namely:—

The white buoys, Nos. 1 and 2, of the North Maese, and the black buoys, Nos. 1, 2, and 3, of the West Maese, by which measure this whole expanse of water will became one channel.

The outer white buoy will then be situated about one and a half cable lengths to the N.W. of the spot where that of the West Maese now lies in these courses.

The steeple of Goedereede a handspike's length to the east of the large wood, and the steeple of Brielle two ships' lengths to the eastward of Oostvoorne; in bearing —

Goedereede S.S.W.,
Brielle . . S.E. by E.,

in 50 palms' depth of water.

Somewhat to the N.W. on the so-called West-plaat, a wreck buoy will be placed to indicate a sunk wreck, the masts of which remain about 15 palms below low water mark; the wreck buoy will be painted in black and white checks, in the following courses:

The steeple of Brielle in the easterly white spot of the high sand hill, and the high steeple of Delft, in a small wood to the east of Steilduin, in bearing S.W. $\frac{3}{4}$ S. (Goedereede), S.E. $\frac{1}{8}$ E. (Brielle), in 24 palms' depth of water.

And further that the white buoy, No. 4, lying dry inside the shallow, will be placed $1\frac{1}{2}$ cable lengths more to the S.S.W. in this course.

The steeple of Maasland a little to the north of the stone beacon, in 29 palms' depth of water.

In consequence of this change in the buoys, the lights of the Maese will be so regulated as to illuminate the entire span of the horizon of this channel from north to west, that being the situation of the black buoys lying from the north side to the N.W. $\frac{3}{4}$ W., whereas the white buoys are situated on the south side.

The bearings mentioned above have been taken by unadjusted compass, and the soundings at ordinary low water.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 12, 1855.

War-Department, June 13, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received four Despatches and their enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord, May 29, 1855.

Sir Edmund Lyons's telegraphic despatch of the 25th, which was forwarded from hence on the morning of the 27th, and one from me that immediately followed, will have informed your Lordship that the Allied Expedition to Kertch reached its destination on the morning of the 24th, and the troops having landed without delay, and the war steamers drawing little water having pushed on towards Kertch and Enikali, that all the objects in contemplation were accomplished in twenty-four hours without any resistance on the part of the enemy, who blew up the fortifications on both sides of the passage and retired, thus leaving us masters of the Sea of Azov, to be speedily occupied by a French and English flotilla.

I have now the honour to lay before you a copy of the report of Lieutenant-General Sir G. Brown, commanding the allied troops ; and in congratulating your Lordship, which I do most cordially, on the complete success of the operation, I have the greatest satisfaction in drawing your attention to the promptitude with which the disembarkation was effected, to the efficient measures taken by the Lieutenant-General to ensure his position and attain the objects in view, and to the just tribute which he pays in his interesting narrative to the judicious arrangements of Admiral Bruat and Sir E. Lyons, and to the zeal and energy displayed by the officers and men of the allied fleets in carrying them out under their vigilant superintendence, as well as to the cordial co-operation and assistance of General Dantemarre, commanding the French Division, and Reschid Pasha, commanding the Turkish troops.

I have not received any further advices from Sir G. Brown or Sir E. Lyons.

Nothing material has occurred in front of the new position taken up by the Allies on the morning of the 25th. The enemy have made no movement from the high ground towards the advance, but they have displayed a considerable force to-day on the Inkerman heights.

Convoys continue to arrive on the north side of Sevastopol.

I enclose a return of casualties to the 27th instant.

A further portion of the Sardinian Contingent has arrived, under General La Marmora's brother, the details of which I have not yet received.

I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c.

Enclosure 1.

Veni Kali, May 25, 1855.

My dear Lord Raglan,

The Expedition to this place so far has proved entirely successful, and we have got possession of all we proposed without striking a blow, and almost without firing a shot.

On leaving the anchorage off Sevastopol, on the 22nd, the night became so foggy that the fleet made but little progress towards its destination, but the whole of the ships and steamers reached the rendezvous, four leagues off Cape Takli, soon after daylight on the morning of the 24th, when it was speedily determined to run at once in for the spot at which, as your Lordship is aware, it was originally proposed to disembark, and which is a fine smooth bay, round a low point running out immediately under the village of Kazatch Bouroun.

The water in the straits is so shallow that large ships cannot ascend higher than about three miles from this spot, but the steamers and vessels, in which the whole of the British infantry and artillery were embarked, could get at least a mile nearer to it.

All the vessels got as high up as the depth of water would permit, and came to an anchor about eleven, when the English and French troops began to get into the boats, and small steamers, which were assigned to them, towed them to the shore, and the gun-boats and smaller war-steamers were stationed to scour the beach, and protect the disembarkation.

Although we had observed some six or eight pieces of light artillery following us along the shore, no opposition was made to the disembarkation, and the first of the troops reached the shore at ten o'clock, which, as soon as they were formed, were pushed on to occupy the village on the rising ground bordering the marshy plain, on which they landed for the purpose of covering the remainder of the disembarkation. As they were the most numerous, and as your Lordship had done so on a former occasion, I placed the French on the right, and the British troops on the left, intending to hold the Turkish Contingent in reserve.

Soon after the disembarkation had commenced, several loud explosions were heard, and it was soon discovered that the enemy had blown up the magazines of all his batteries on Cape St. Paul, and was retiring by the road leading to Theodosia or Kaffa. It therefore became exceedingly desirable that I should advance to occupy the ridge of which the cape is the continuation; but as only a few of the Turkish troops had got landed, and but little of the artillery, I contented myself by requesting General Dantemarre to patrol to the cape and towards Kertsch, and took up the best position I could find for the security of the troops, and the protection of the disembarkation of all the necessary material and horses during the night, just before dark—which, in an open steppe, where we were exposed to the attacks of cavalry, was an operation of some difficulty.

In the course of the evening, several more loud explosions were heard, and it was soon discovered that he had also blown up and abandoned the whole of his works here, and along the coast between this and Kertch, and spiked all the guns. He had also set fire to and destroyed some large corn magazines in Kertch, as well as two steamers in the harbour; and the Cossacks, as usual, burnt all the forage and farm-houses in their way.

As soon as the batteries on Cape St. Paul were abandoned, or soon before, some of the smaller war-steamers were enabled to round Cape Ackbouroun, and enter the Bay of Kertch, when they engaged and endeavoured to cut off some of the enemy's steamers attempting to escape into the Sea of Azof. They succeeded, I believe, in capturing a small one; but the other two managed to get through.

The disembarkation of horses, guns, and material went on during the whole night, under the zealous and active superintendence of Rear-Admiral Houston Stewart and Captain Sir Thomas Pasley; but, with all this, there was a good deal to be done at daylight this morning, and I was ultimately compelled to proceed with only three of the guns of the Turkish Contingent, and without any of their officers' horses.

Under the circumstances, however, I considered it imperative to proceed, and the whole force marched off their ground at six this morning,—the French in contiguous columns, followed by their artillery; the British in echelons of columns, covering their flank, and their own artillery and baggage; and the Turkish troops in contiguous columns of battalions, covering the rear of the whole, until they approached the precincts of Kertch, when the whole of the troops broke into an ordinary column of route. The town of Kertch is clean, and remarkably well built, and the troops passed through it with the greatest regularity and without the slightest disorder ; subsequently the day became excessively hot, and the march being a long one, the men suffered greatly from fatigue and want of water, which was only to be found at occasional wells. We managed to get in here, however, by one o'clock, where we were soon after visited by the three Admirals, and found a large squadron of small steamers and gun-boats, ready to proceed into the Sea of Azof, under the command of Captain Lyons, of the Miranda.

The result of these operations, besides the opening of the passage into that sea, and the destruction of the enemy's works, has been the capture of upwards of fifty of his guns, many of them of the largest calibre and the best construction; and if the enterprize has from circumstances not added greatly to the glory of Her Majesty's arms, it has, as already stated, so far been attended by complete success.

That success, however is mainly to be attributed to the judicious arrangements of Admirals Bruat and Sir E. Lyons, and to their indefatigable attention in carrying them out, as well as to the able and willing assistance they have received from the Captains and other officers of the French and British navy under their respective commands ; nor must I omit to mention the invariable and willing assistance I have on all occasions received in the course of this service from General Dantemarre, commanding the French Division, and from Reschid Pasha, commanding the Sultan's troops.

I omitted to state, that in passing through Kertch this morning, observing that an iron foundry there had been employed in the manufacture of shot and shells, as well as in casting Minié bullets, I caused it to be destroyed, with all its new and expensive machinery.

Yours, &c.,
G. BROWN.

MY LORD,

I have the honour to transmit to your Lordship a letter from the Inspector-General of Hospitals, with the weekly return of sick to the 26th instant.

Cholera is, I hope, on the decline, but it is still prevalent, to a certain extent. Captain King, of the 32nd, a fine young man who was much esteemed, fell a victim to it yesterday.

It has also occasioned some death in the Sardinian Contingent, three cases of which ended fatally on the voyage from Genoa to Balaklava.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c. &c.

Enclosure.

Before Sevastopol,
May 28, 1855.

My Lord,

The enclosed weekly state of sick to the 26th instant, I am glad to say, shows an improvement in the sanitary condition of the army. The cases of cholera which have been admitted during the week have been of a milder character, and the mortality from that disease has been much less; but it has extended to the Sardinian Contingent, to the men of the Land Transport Corps, and to the shipping in the harbour of Balaklava; and, from these sources, the admissions and deaths in the general hospital there, have been considerably increased; no fewer than eighteen out of the twenty-five casualties which occurred there, having taken place amongst these extra patients. In future I will have the extra patients excluded from the weekly state and shown separately; but as I cannot get fresh returns made out in time for the post on the present occasion, I have deducted the numbers from the general return.

The admissions to strength during the present week, have been in the ratio of 4·20 per cent.; and the deaths to strength, 0·27 per cent. Last week they were 4·53, and 0·47, respectively.

Fevers have been less numerous during the week, but diarrhœa has been slightly on the increase; and it has been noticed that many convalescent from fever have been seized, in some of whom the disease has run on to cholera, and terminated fatally.

In the Artillery cholera is abating, and many of the cases of fever under treatment are of a mild character, and in the left attack all are described as doing well.

In the Cavalry Division fever has been the prevalent complaint, and four casualties have occurred—two from fever, one from disease of the liver, and one from cholera, in a man of the 10th Hussars, who died after an illness of eleven hours.

The 1st Royal Dragoons have only two slight cases of ulcer under treatment in hospital, and the regiment has been remarkably healthy for some time past.

1st Division. The Highland Brigade embarked for service at Kertch on the 22nd instant, leaving 198 sick behind, all of whom are improving daily.

In the Brigade of Guards, eight cases of cholera have occurred, four of which have had a fatal termination, and there has been a tendency to bowel complaints, particularly amongst the convalescents from fever.

In the 2nd Division a marked improvement has taken place in the health of the men during the week. No admission from cholera has taken place for forty-eight hours; and of the 16 remaining under treatment, Dr. Wood, the superintending Surgeon, thinks all have a fair chance of recovery.

In the 3rd Division there has been an increase of mortality, arising chiefly from cholera. Fever cases appear on the decline; but there seems to be an alliance between them and the diarrhœal cases, which have been rather on the increase during the week.

The Surgeon of the 44th Regiment objects to the summer clothing, on account of its being of a linen texture, and thinks woollen would have been better; but it appears to be approved of by the generality of the Regimental Medical Officers of the division, as well as by the Medical Staff.

In the 4th Division cholera has declined considerably. Last week the deaths from the disease were 48; this week, 14. In the 17th Regiment fever prevails to a greater extent than in any other corps in the division.

In the Light Division, cholera is also on the decrease, and the cases that present themselves are of a milder character.

I have, &c.,

J. HALL,

Inspector-General of Hospitals.

To Field-Marshal Lord Raglan, G.C.B., Commanding-in-Chief.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord, June 2, 1855.

The reports which have been received from Kertch since I had the honour of writing to your Lordship on the 29th May, are of the most satisfactory character.

Five vessels, laden with corn, had come into Kertch in ignorance of the capture of the place, and had fallen into the hands of the Allies.

The French and English squadron had appeared before Berdiansk, and the enemy in consequence destroyed four of their war-steamers, and considerable depôts of corn.

They then exchanged a cannonade with the Russian forts at Arabat, and were so fortunate as to blow up a magazine with shells; and since, Captain Lyons, R.N., of the Miranda, has performed a most successful operation upon Genitschi. The Russian authorities of the town having refused to deliver up the Government depôt of corn, and ninety vessels, having on board supplies for their army in the Crimea, Captain Lyons bombarded the place with his squadron and having driven the troops out of it, he landed the Sailors and Marines, and destroyed all the stores and the shipping.

This brilliant and decisive success marks the resolution and daring of Captain Lyons, and fortunately was accomplished with no other loss than that of one man wounded.

Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons states, that in no longer a period than four days the squadron has destroyed 241 vessels, employed exclusively in transporting provisions to the Crimea, besides four war steamers, and six millions of rations of flour and corn.

I beg leave to offer your Lordship my warmest congratulations on these important occurrences.

I have nothing of interest to report to your Lordship from hence, except that some more detachments of Sardinian troops have arrived.

A battery has arrived off the harbour.

I enclose the return of casualties to the 31st ultimo.

My Lord,

I have the honour to lay before your Lordship a letter from the Inspector-General of Hospitals, containing a return of the admissions and deaths from cholera up to the 1st instant.

The admissions from the divisions in front have become so few, that there is some reason to feel confident that the cholera will subside amongst the troops below, as rapidly as it has done elsewhere; but still its existence in the Army is a matter of the deepest regret, as well as of much anxiety.

I have, &c.

Enclosure.

Before Sevastopol,
June 2, 1855.

My Lord,

I have the honour to enclose a return of admissions and deaths from cholera, from the 26th May to the 1st June, inclusive, by which your Lordship will observe that the divisions in front, where the disease first made its appearance, and proved most fatal, have become healthier, and the complaint has attacked the Sardinian Contingent, the English and native drivers of the Land Transport Corps, and, within the last eight and forty hours, the brigade of Guards encamped on the heights near Balaklava. As yet the Cavalry Division has nearly been free from it, which is a remarkable circumstance, as it occupies a sheltered valley near Kadikoi.

In the Guards it was noticed that the attacks were confined to the newly-arrived recruits, and to men who had been employed either on duty or fatigue in Balaklava.

Yesterday the admissions were fewer, and the cases that presented themselves of a milder character; and I hope the epidemic will pass off, as it appears to be doing in front, for the present.

I have, &c.

J. HALL,
Inspector-General of Hospitals.

To Field-Marshal Lord Raglan, G.C.B., Commanding-in-Chief.

Admiralty, June 13, 1855.

Despatches, of which the following are copies, have been received from Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B., Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's Ships and Vessels in the Mediterranean and Black Sea.

SNAKE'S ENGAGEMENT WITH RUSSIAN STEAMERS.

Royal Albert, Straits of Kertch,
SIR, June 2, 1855.

In my letter of the 26th ult., No. 398, I had the pleasure of bringing under the notice of the Lords Commissioners, of the Admiralty the gallant, able, and successful way in which Lieutenant Henry F. McKillop had conducted Her Majesty's steam gun-vessel Snake, under his command, on the day the Allied Forces obtained possession of the Straits of Kertch.

2. I have now to request you to lay before their Lordships the enclosed copy of a letter which I have received from Lieutenant McKillop, reporting his proceedings on that day; and their Lordships will observe that he speaks in high terms of his officers and ship's company, and particularly so of Mr. Nathaniel B. Herbert, Second Master, and Mr. Sidney E. Wright, Assistant-Paymaster in charge.

I am, &c.

(Signed) EDMUND LYONS,
Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

The Secretary of the Admiralty,
London.

(Reporting Engagement.)

Her Majesty's ship Snake, off Enikale.
24th May, 1855.

Sir,

I have the honour to inform you that in obedience to your signal granting me permission to intercept a Russian war steamer, that I proceeded into Kertch Bay, exchanging shots with the batteries at Akbourno in passing.

I succeeded in cutting off the steamer and engaging her, but not until she had placed herself under the protection of the Forts of Enikale; after a sharp fire on both sides, for three-quarters of an hour, I was fortunate in succeeding in setting her on fire with Lancaster shells, from which she blew up—the crew with difficulty getting away. She had apparently soldiers on board. During this engagement the forts at Enikale hulled the ship, and kept up a well-directed and continuous fire the whole time, which was returned with apparent good effect with our heavy shell.

Three steamers also came down from the entrance (to the Sea of Azoff) and opened fire on us with very long range guns their shot frequently passing over us at about 4000 yards. I continued to engage the batteries and steamers after the arrival of the ships sent up to my assistance, until recalled by signal from the Miranda.

The whole of the sailing vessels standing towards the Sea of Azov were intercepted, and afterwards captured ; two steamers, also intercepted in Kertch Bay, were blown up by their own crews, and a gun-boat sunk.

The batteries along the coast, which fired upon us whilst chasing the steamer, also were blown up.

I should feel I was neglecting my duty unless I mentioned the zealous and creditable manner in which the officers and crew performed their duties ; being very short handed rendered working the guns for so many hours a work of great labour.

I beg to recommend for your favourable consideration Mr. N. B. Herbert (Second Master in charge), who with much skill conducted the ship through the intricate and comparatively unknown passage, under the guns of Akbourno, and inside the shoal of Enikale, without any accident.

I am equally indebted to Mr. Sydney E. Wright, Assistant-Paymaster (an officer of long and meritorious service), for his assistance as a volunteer executive, who, with Dr. Roche and Mr. George Wilson (Senior Engineer), manned and worked the 12-pounder howitzer, sinking a gun-boat.

I am happy that no casualties occurred, and the Snake received but little damage, one shot through the mizen rigging, carrying it away, and one through the hull at the water-line.

I am, &c.,

(Signed) H. F. M'KILLOP.
Lieutenant and Commander.

Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B., Commander-in-Chief.

Operations in the Sea of Azof.

Royal Albert, Straits of Kertch, June 2, 1855.

Sir,

I have the honour to transmit to you herewith, copies of two letters that have been addressed to me by Captain Edmund M. Lyons, of the Miranda, in which he reports the proceedings of the Allied Steam-squadrons, under his orders, during the first four days of their appearance in the Sea of Azof.

In that short space of time the squadrons forced the enemy to run on shore, burn to the water's edge and abandon four steamers of war, under the command of Rear-Admiral Wolff; they bombarded Arabat and blew up the powder magazine, and they destroyed 246 merchant vessels, which were employed in the conveyance of supplies to the Russian Army in the Crimea, as well as immense magazines of corn and flour at Berdiansk and Genitchesk, containing at least two months' rations for an army of one hundred thousand men.

Captain Lyons is justly and deeply sensible of what he owes to the cordial and efficient co-operation of Captain Sédaiges, and our Allies, acting under the orders of that distinguished officer; nor is he less sensible of, or less grateful for, the able support he has received from every one in the British squadron under his own immediate orders.

4. I beg leave to recommend to their Lordships' particular notice the mention which Captain Lyons makes of the very important services rendered by the boats of the squadron on several occasions, under the command of that active, zealous, and excellent officer, Lieutenant J. F. C. Mackenzie, of the Miranda, as well as of the gallant and successful exploit of Lieutenant Cecil W. Buckley, of the Miranda, Lieutenant Hugh T. Burgoyne, of the Swallow, and Mr. John Roberts, Gunner, of the Ardent, which was productive of the most important results.

I am, &c.,

(Signed) EDMD. LYONS,
Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

Her Majesty's ship, Miranda, off Arabat, Sea of Azoff,
May 28, 1855.

SIR,

I have the honour to inform you that on hauling down your flag on the afternoon of the 25th I proceeded with the steam vessels under my orders named in the margin,* and the French steamer, Lucifer, towards Berdiansk ; at dark, we stopped for the French steamers, Megere, Brandon, and Fulton. These having joined at 3 A.M. on the 26th, we all went on in company ; at 3·30 P.M. on that day, we anchored off the lighthouse, on the spit at Berdiansk, in such a position as to command the harbour and beach and a large number of merchant vessels ; I then sent the boats of the squadrons under Commander Sherard Osborn, accompanied by the boats of the French ships to destroy these vessels, as well as some lying about 4 miles off, and a storehouse; all this was completed by dark; during this time steamers of the two squadrons were chasing and destroying vessels in other directions.

At daylight of the 27th I weighed with the ships under my orders, accompanied by the four French steamers, and anchored off the town of Berdiansk, the Miranda in 15 feet, and the gun boats in proportionally less water, in a position which effectually commanded the town and beach. Here we found run on shore and burnt to the water's edge, and abandoned the four steamers of war which had escaped from Kertch, under the command of Rear-Admiral Wolff, whose flag was flying in the Moloditz. I now landed the small-arm men and marines of the squadron under Commander Lambert of the Curlew, accompanied by those of the French ships, with orders to destroy all shipping and Government stores, but to respect private property. This was done without molestation, although we had information that 800 Cossacks with guns were at Petroskoi, five miles off. Many vessels were destroyed, and corn stores to the estimated value of £50,000. An 8-inch 62-cwt. gun was also recovered from the wreck of one of the Russian steamers, and is now on board the Miranda.

Immediately the boats returned, the squadrons weighed for Arabat; I at the same time detached the Swallow and Wrangler to Genitchesk, to command the entrance to the Putrid Sea, and the Curlew to cruize between Krivaia Spit and Sand Island, and thus prevent vessels escaping us by getting up the Don.

3. On the morning of the 28th we arrived off

Arabat, and engaged the fort (mounting 30 guns), for an hour and a half, at the end of which time a shell blew up the enemy's magazine ; the ships having been ordered to keep at shell range, and being well-handled, had only one casualty, the chief engineer, of the Medina being slightly wounded by a splinter : the French senior officer's ship received two shots in the hull, but fortunately no one was hurt. The enemy must have lost many men, from the precision with which the shells burst in his works, independently of that caused by the explosion.

The Commanders of the vessels employed* deserve every credit for the skilful manner in which they manœuvered their vessels in a very strong breeze and shoal water, without a single accident : and I may be permitted to say none were more distinguished than our gallant Allies. The large garrison at Arabat rendering any attempt at landing out of the question, I now proceeded for Genitchesk, parting, with a regret, from Captain de Sédaiges and his squadron, who left at the same time for Kertch. I take this opportunity of mentioning the efficient, cordial, and hearty co-operation I received on every occasion from M. de Sédaiges and the ships under his orders, and my hope that it may again be my good fortune to have him for my colleague.

4. The allied squadrons have destroyed upwards of 100 vessels during the three days they have been in this sea, principally laden with provisions for the Russian army in the Crimea ; had we sent these vessels in as prizes, we should have lost much valuable time, and not been able to effect so many captures. Her Majesty's ship Miranda, off the town of Genitchesk, May 29, 1855.

SIR,

I have the honour to inform you that I arrived here shortly after dark last night, with Her Majesty's ships under my orders, and joined the Swallow and Wrangler, which ships had already destroyed or captured all the vessels in this neighbourhood outside the Straits of Genitchesk ; but a very great number had passed the straits, which are only fifty yards wide, and are commanded by the low cliffs on which the town is built, and were moored inside under the cliff.

At six o'clock this morning, I sent Commander Craufurd with a flag of truce, to demand the immediate surrender of all these vessels, and of the immense corn stores for the supply of the army in the Crimea, and of all Government property of every description ; stating that if these terms were complied with I would spare the town and respect private property, but that if not the inhabitants were immediately to leave the town.

Commander Craufurd was met by an officer, of apparently high rank, who refused to accede to these terms, saying that any attempt to land or to destroy the vessels would be resisted.

The enemy at this time had six field-pieces in position, and with about 200 men with them, and, visible from the mast-head, drawn up behind the town, a battalion of infantry, besides Cossacks.

Having allowed till 9 A.M., for the reconsideration of the refusal to deliver up the vessels and stores, and receiving no answer, I at that time hauled down the flag of truce, and placed the steamers as near to the town and the passage into the Putrid Sea as the depth of the water would allow, but they were only able to approach within long range. Seeing that if the enemy, who had removed his guns from their former position, could place them in the town so as to command the passage, and that if he could place his infantry in a similar manner, it would be impossible for the boats to pass the channel and destroy the vessels and stores, I directed the ships to shell the town, which they did so effectually, that the boats, as per enclosure, under the command of Lieutenant J. F. C. Mackenzie, got safely through the passage, and set fire to the shipping (73 in number), and the corn stores. This service was ably performed by Lieutenant Mackenzie, and the boats returned without accident.

4. The wind having shifted about two hours after the boats came off, some of the corn stores did not catch fire; conceiving the destruction of this corn, as well as of some more distant vessels in so favourable a position for supplying the Russian armies in the Crimea, to be of the utmost importance, I sent the boats again, commanded and officered as before, although I was aware that from the enemy having had time to make preparations, it would be a hazardous enterprize. The ships accordingly resumed their fire upon the town, and the boats proceeded. Lieutenant Cecil W. Buckley, of this ship; Lieutenant Hugh T. Burgoyne, of the Swallow; and Mr. John Roberts, gunner of the Ardent, volunteered to land alone and fire the stores; this offer I accepted, knowing the imminent risk there would be in landing a party in presence of such a superior force, and out of gun-shot of the ships. This very dangerous service they most gallantly performed, narrowly escaping the Cossacks, who all but cut them off from their boats; at the same time Lieutenant Mackenzie pushed on and burned the remaining vessels, the enemy opening a fire from four field-guns and musketry, placed almost within point blank range of the boats. Everything being now effectually accomplished the boats returned. Although several of them were struck by grape and case shot, most fortunately only one man was slightly wounded. Lieutenant Mackenzie speaks in high terms of the coolness and excellent behaviour of all employed under his orders; and I trust I may be allowed to bring to your notice the conspicuous merit of Lieutenant Mackenzie himself on this occasion, when more than ninety vessels, and also corn for the Russian army of the value of £100,000 were destroyed, owing to his gallantry and ability, with so trifling a loss as one man slightly wounded.

Since the squadron entered the Sea of Azoff, four days ago, the enemy has lost four steamers of war, 246 merchant vessels, also corn and flour magazines to the value of at least £150,000.

I have, &c.,

NAVAL OPERATIONS IN THE STRAITS OF KERTCH.

Royal Albert, Straits of Kertch,
SIR, May 30, 1855.

I have the honour to transmit to you, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, a copy of a letter that has been addressed to me by Captain Lyons, of the Miranda, recounting the measures he took for obliging the enemy to abandon his last hold in these straits, and reporting his having entered the Sea of Azof with the squadron I had placed under his orders.

Her Majesty's ship, Miranda, at anchor above Yenikale, May 25, 1855.

SIR,

I have the honour to inform you that having yesterday afternoon taken under my orders the ships named in the margin,* I, in pursuance of your orders passed the Straits of Kerteh, and anchored for the night just out of gun shot of the batteries of Yenikale. At 7 P.M. the enemy blew up the magazines and these batteries with a tremendous explosion.

At 4 o'clock this morning I sent Mr. George Williams, Master of this ship, to find and buoy a channel through the straits on the Yenikale side; and I desired Lieutenant Armytage in the Viper to follow as near as possible, and endeavour to pass the straits and get into a position to threaten the retreat of the Russian garrison of the forts on the Chesura Spit side of the strait, by commanding the neck of the spit; at the same time I sent Lieutenant Aynsley, in the Lynx, to pass round by the Taman Lake, and take up a position to command the rear of the Russian forts. This service was ably performed by these officers, and on their obtaining the assigned positions, the enemy, as I had anticipated, exploded his magazines, abandoned his works, and made a precipitate retreat under the fire of the Viper's guns. Mr. Williams now returned, having found and buoyed a 16 feet channel, and I immediately weighed and, with the vessels under my orders, proceeded through the Straits of Yenikale; thus we became complete masters of the Sea of Azof.

OPERATIONS IN THE STRAITS OF KERTCH.

Royal Albert, Straits, June 2, 1855.

SIR,

In my letter, No. 398, of the 26th ult., I stated that we had captured fifty of the enemy's guns. It now appears that more than a hundred guns have fallen into our hands in the different sea defences, many of them of heavy calibre, and remarkably well cast. Those which may not be required for the land defences which the Allied Armies are now constructing, will be shipped and sent to England and France.

It has been ascertained from the Custom House returns, that the enemy on evacuating Kertch, on the 24th ultimo, destroyed 4,166,000 lbs. of corn and 508,000 lbs. of flour. This quantity, taken together with what has been destroyed by the Allied Squadrons in the Sea of Azof, comprises nearly four months' rations for an army of a hundred thousand men; and it seems that shortly before our arrival the enemy had commenced sending towards Sevastopol daily convoys of about fifteen hundred wagons, each containing half a ton weight of grain or flour.

4. Sir George Brown confidently expects that by the 7th instant Enikalé will be in such a state of defence as fully to justify his leaving it in charge of the Ottoman troops now here, under the command of Hadji Reschid Pacha, and that the British and French forces will be at liberty to proceed to the attack of Anapa and Soujak Kaleh, in order to drive the enemy out of his last holds on the coast of Circassia.

I am, &c.,

E. LYONS,

Rear-Admiral.

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 15, 1855.

Whitehall, June 13, 1855.

THE REPORT OF THE PATRIOTIC FUND COMMISSIONERS.

To the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty.

WE, your Majesty's Commissioners for the formation and application of a Patriotic Fund, for the relief of the Widows and Orphans of the Soldiers, Sailors, or Marines who may be killed or may die on active service, during the present war, now humbly beg to present to your Majesty a First Report of our proceedings, and of the arrangements which we have deemed it expedient to make, for giving an early effect to your Majesty's gracious intentions.

Measures taken for collecting fund.

2. Acting under the sanction of one of your Majesty's Secretaries of State, our Honorary Secretaries proceeded at once, on the promulgation of the Royal Commission in the London Gazette of the 16th October, 1854, to communicate with the Commissioners in Aid, both at home and abroad, and to request their assistance for the formation of Local Committees to collect and transmit the gifts and voluntary subscriptions of your Majesty's loyal subjects to the Patriotic Fund. To facilitate those measures our honorary Secretaries issued the notice (A.) in the Appendix.

Amount collected, and the classes from whom received.

3. The unprecedented amount which, in the short space of six months, has been contributed in answer to that appeal is a most satisfactory proof of the eagerness with which your Majesty's subjects have embraced an occasion of testifying at once their loyal support of the great contest in which our country is engaged, and their recognition of the claims of those gallant men who may unhappily fall in it. A sum exceeding a million sterling has now been paid into the Bank of England to our account. Every class of the community has contributed liberally to the Fund. On the one hand, the nobility, the gentry, the great corporate mercantile bodies of the Kingdom, have proportioned their donations to the greatness of the occasion, and to their large share of the blessings bestowed by Providence upon this favoured land. On the other, we have found that the brilliant deeds of our countrymen in arms have awakened equal sympathy in every class of humble life, even among those whose generous impulses can be gratified only at the cost of privation and self-denial. Contributions of large amount have been received from agricultural districts and rural parishes, swelled by the spontaneous bounty of the peasantry. Artizans, domestic servants, workpeople, labourers, individually and in associations, have felt a patriotic pride and a generous satisfaction in answering their Sovereign's appeal. In one striking instance, the inmates of the Reformatory Asylum, Smith-street, Westminster, having literally nothing of their own to give, denied themselves a meal, that its value might be offered as their gift. We deem it a fact deserving your Majesty's notice, that even the children of the poorer classes have very generally contributed their "mite" to enlarge the amount of the nation's bounty.

Sums collected from colonies, English residents abroad, and from foreigners.—Collections from foreign countries.

4. It will be our duty hereafter to submit to your Majesty as detailed a statement as may be practicable of the sources from which the Patriotic Fund has been derived. Your Majesty will be gratified to hear that the contributions have not been confined to Great Britain, or even to your Majesty's subjects. Very large sums have been received from British residents abroad. Your Majesty's representatives in the colonies, acting as Commissioners in Aid, have been warmly seconded by the loyal feelings of your Majesty's colonial subjects, in proof of which we can point to magnificent contributions from India, from the North Amerian colonies, from Australia, and in fact from nearly every British possession; amongst other contributions may be mentioned that of the Six Nation Indians, who have subscribed the sum of £100. Your Majesty's Consuls-General, Consuls, and other influential British subjects also, in all parts of the world, have manifested a laudable zeal in contributing themselves, and in encouraging and collecting contributions to the National Fund. We have peculiar pleasure in reporting to your Majesty that the natives of many foreign countries also have spontaneously and largely contributed, and have accompanied their donations with kind expressions of sympathy for the sufferers, and testimony to their sense of the justice of the war in which your Majesty and Allies are engaged.

Amount of Fund.

5. We beg to submit, in Appendix B., a detailed account of the sums received in each month since the opening of the subscription, and a statement of the mode in which they have been invested.

Distribution of relief by Honorary Secretaries.

6. The distribution of relief was commenced by the Honorary Secretaries in the month of November, 1854, under a sanction provisionally given to them for that purpose, by one of your Majesty's Secretaries of State. Under this arrangement, about 73 widows and 114 orphan children were actually receiving assistance at the period when we first entered upon the active discharge of the duties which your Majesty had been pleased to impose upon us. A list of our meetings, of which regular minutes have been kept, will be found in Appendix C.

Appointment of Finance Committee.

7. In conformity with the authority given to us, we proceeded at once to nominate an Executive and Finance Committee, composed of the following:—

The Right Honourable Lord St. Leonards.
Colonel the Honourable James Lindsay, M.P.
Lieutenant-Colonel Shafto Adair, M.P.
Thomas Baring, Esquire, M.P.
George C. Glyn, Esquire, M.P.
Sir Alexander Spearman, Bart.
Vice-Admiral Henry Hope, C.B.
Major R. J. Little, Royal Marines.
W. G. Anderson, Esquire, Treasury.
R. C. Kirby, Esquire, War Office.
Captain E. G. Fishbourne, R.N.
Captain J. H. Lefroy, R.A.

Having selected the Lord St. Leonards as their Chairman, this Committee has since held regular meetings, and has made us two reports, of which we have approved, and which we humbly submit to your Majesty in Appendix D. 1 and 2.

Powers conferred by the Commission.—Claims of Widows of Superior Officers deferred.—Amateur Artists' Fund, Burlington House.

8. Upon a careful consideration of our powers, we are led to the conclusion that, while they do not exclude the Widows and Orphans of Commissioned Officers of the Army, Navy, and Marines, yet, inasmuch as a provision has been made by your Majesty's pension warrant and compassionate allowances for the relief of claimants of that class, they cannot in general be considered as primary objects of the royal commission. Consequently, we have deferred for the most part the claims of this class till the number and urgency of those of the primary classes, viz.:—those of Widows and Orphans of Non-commissioned and Petty Officers, Private Soldiers, Seamen, and Marines, for whom no such provision exists, should be known and provided for. We are happy, however, to be able to report, that through the instrumentality of the Committee of Amateur Artists, several sums of money have already been placed at our disposal, for immediate distribution amongst the Widows and Orphans of all classes of Officers. We have already offered our warm acknowledgments to the Committee; and we have to report to your Majesty that the money has been applied in the relief of several pressing claims, and has elicited very grateful acknowledgments from the recipients.

Applications of Officers' Widows and Orphans.

9. Omitting, from motives of delicacy, the names of the Applicants, we submit to your Majesty, in Appendix E., the cases of all those ladies who have applied for assistance, as an index to the circumstances in which it is too probable that many gallant Officers may leave their Widows and families, in the event of their falling in the present war.

First Estimate of the Number of Widows and Orphans.

10. Truly gratifying, and indeed magnificent, as is the amount of the subscription received, there is little reason to doubt that the claims upon it will be correspondingly great. In February we were led to suppose, upon the best data we were able to collect, that the naval and military operations in which the country had then been engaged, had already thrown upon the bounty of the country 2,000 widows and 3,400 orphans, and on this supposition the first scale of allowance that we sanctioned was framed; but, finding the estimate of numbers, especially in the case of orphans, was excessive, we have been induced to substitute an amended scale. These are given in Appendices F and G. How many may be added to these, should the war unhappily be prolonged, it is impossible for us to conjecture. It cannot be doubted, however, that the number will be considerable. Each week, under present circumstances, from 70 to 80 widows are added to the number receiving relief, not in many cases from the recent death of their husbands, but from the fact that they had not been previously informed of their bereavement.

Number of Widows and Orphans now receiving Relief.

11. The total number of Widows of the primary class, who have actually applied for and received relief up to the 10th of May, 1855, falls considerably short of the number we estimated for above; it is 1,487; and in connexion with them are 1,802 children, exclusive of 33 children who have lost both parents. The table in Appendix H shows the districts in which they are residing, and the numbers belonging to the army and navy respectively.

Resolutions for the guidance of the Finance Committee.

12. We beg humbly to lay before your Majesty, in a concise form, a series of resolutions we have come to, for the present guidance of our Executive Committee, in the distribution of the Fund to the primary classes, and which your Majesty will find in Appendix I.

Measures with reference to Education.

13. In the enumeration of the benevolent objects promoted by your Majesty's Royal Commission, a prominent place is given to the all-important boon of education. To this object we have directed our careful attention. In the great uncertainty which must prevail for some time to come as to the number of orphan children of any class who may look to us for protection, it would be premature to originate any large or general measure. In many cases benevolent individuals have undertaken the charge and education of orphan children. Some of the principal Orphan Asylums have offered to provide for others; and our Executive and Finance Committee has given a general notice that it will defray the small weekly charge incurred by sending any of the children of mothers relieved from the Fund to the ordinary schools of their localities, having due regard to the religious opinions of the children or of their parents. We have further authorized this Committee to place orphans for education in any asylum, industrial school, or other establishment for receiving orphans or destitute children, which offers itself in their neighbourhood; but for the present we have thought it desirable not to authorize the Committee to purchase perpetual rights of presentation, or to endow or enlarge any such establishments.

Royal Commission of the Patriotic Fund.

Notice.

The Offices of the Royal Commissioners of the "Patriotic Fund" are, for the present, at No. 16A, Great George Street, corner of Parliament Street, Westminster.

The hours of attendance will be from 11 A.M. till 4 P.M. daily.

The "Commissioners in Aid" of the "Patriotic Fund" are earnestly requested, without further notice, to take immediate steps for giving publicity, within their several jurisdictions, to the Royal Commission, in order that Local Committees be formed, wherever practicable, with the least possible delay.

"Local Committees" will, according to their discretion, obtain contributions to the Patriotic Fund, either by public meetings, establishing subscription lists, or otherwise.

The acknowledgment of individual donations, where obtained through the "Commissioners in Aid" or by "Local Committees," must in all cases, to avoid error and expense, be left exclusively to the "Local Committees."

Local Committees are requested to make up their first subscription lists and accounts in or before the first week in December next, and to remit the amounts in or before the following week, by drafts payable to the "Patriotic Fund," crossed "Bank of England," to the Secretaries of the Commission, or direct to the Bank of England.

Total amounts only, as transmitted by Local Committees, will be acknowledged at fixed periods in two London daily newspapers.

Donations, subscriptions, and contributions to the "Patriotic Fund," other than those paid to Local Committees, will be received by the Secretaries at the offices of the Royal Commission as above, at the Bank of England, and by all London Bankers. Acknowledgments of the receipt will appear, from time to time, in the London papers above mentioned; but it is hoped that no separate receipts or acknowledgments will be required from the Honorary Secretaries, whose duties will be otherwise sufficiently laborious.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 15, 1855.

War-Department, June 18, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received three Despatches and their Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord, June 5, 1855.

I am deeply concerned to have to inform your Lordship that Rear Admiral Boxer died on board the Jason last night, outside the harbour of Balaklava, after a very short illness.

He was removed to that ship in the hope that the pure sea air might prove beneficial to him; but this expectation was not fulfilled. His malady made rapid progress, and early in the afternoon of yesterday it was intimated to me that his life was despaired of.

His nephew died of cholera last week, and this melancholy event so deeply affected him that his health at once gave way, and he sunk under the same disease.

It is well known that this officer devoted his whole life to the public service. Since he undertook the appointment of Admiral Superintendent of the harbour of Balaklava he has applied himself incessantly to the discharge of his arduous duties, exposing himself in all weathers; and he has rendered a most essential service to the army by improving the landing-places and establishing wharves on the west side of the port, whereby the disembarkation of stores and troops has been greatly accelerated, and communications with the shore have been rendered much easier.

I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c. &c.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord, June 5, 1855.

I have great satisfaction in informing your Lordship that I received intelligence the night before last, of the evacuation of Soujak Kali by the Russians on the 28th ultimo.

It appears that previously to their retirement from the place, the troops destroyed the principal buildings and the armament, which consisted of about sixty heavy guns and six mortars, and it is concluded that they have joined the garrison of Anapa, from whence many of the inhabitants have removed.

Sir Edmund Lyons has been so good as to send me the detached report of the naval operations in the Sea of Azof, which will reach England either before or at the same time as this dispatch. They reflect the highest credit on Captain Lyons of the Miranda, and the officers and men serving under his orders, and are remarkable for the intelligence, gallantry, and judgment with which they have been conducted; and it is a matter of much gratulation, which will be peculiarly felt by Her Majesty, that whilst great injury has been inflicted on the enemy in the loss of resources of every description, the most brilliant and unwonted success has been achieved in an incredibly short time with only one casualty, and that not of a serious nature.

These gallant exploits of the navy have spread joy in our camps and afforded vast satisfaction to every individual in the army.

A body of French troops under the command of General Morris and General Canrobert, and a column of the Sardinian corps under General La Marmora, made a reconnoissance on Baidar, on the morning of the 3rd.

The former proceeded along the Woronzow-road, and pushed their cavalry several miles beyond Baidar; the latter operated on the left through a mountainous district, and advanced into Baidar, after a fatiguing march; only a small number of Cossacks showed themselves.

Nothing has occurred in front of the town.

I enclose the return of casualties to the 3rd instant inclusive.

Before Sevastopol,
June 5, 1855.

My Lord,

I have the honour to enclose a letter from the Inspector-General of Hospitals forwarding the weekly state of the sick of the army.

The cholera has sensibly diminished in the camps before Sevastopol, but it has attacked the Guards and the 31st Regiment, near Balaklava, and some of the new batteries, as well as the followers of the army in that town. It is hoped that the disease will pass from them as it has from the stations where it first appeared.

I am grieved to have to say that it has fallen heavily on the Sardinian Contingent, and that General La Marmora is in great anxiety about it. I am rendering him all the assistance in my power. Whilst writing to your Lordship, an officer has brought me a letter from him, announcing that his brother, General La Marmora, who commands his second division, has been very severely attacked. He has been accommodated with a quarter at Kadikoi, and every attention shall be paid him.

I have, &c.,

FROM THE

LONDON GAZETTE OF JUNE 19, 1855.

At the Court at Buckingham Palace, the 21st day of May, 1855.

The QUEEN's Most Excellent Majesty in Council was pleased to approve and ratify the schemes duly prepared (as set forth in this Gazette), by the Ecclesiastical Commissioners for England—

For substituting a money payment to the Prebendary of Ashill, in the cathedral church of Wells, for the property belonging to him as such prebendary.

For substituting a money payment to the Prebendary of Givendale, in the cathedral church of York, for certain property belonging to him as such prebendary.

Metropolitan Cattle Market, Copenhagen Fields.
June 13, 1855.

This day the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor and the Deputation of Aldermen and Common Councilmen of the city of London waited upon His Royal Highness Prince Albert with the following Address, which was read by the Right Honourable J. A. Stuart Wortley, M.P., the Recorder, and which His Royal Highness was pleased to receive very graciously :—

To His Royal Highness PRINCE ALBERT.

May it please your Royal Highness,

We, Her Majesty's dutiful and loyal subjects, the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the city of London, in Common Council assembled, desire by the warmest expression of our gratitude to testify to your Royal Highness the value which we attribute to your gracious presence on this occasion.

The proceedings of this day are of deep interest and importance to the great community of the metropolis, and to the country at large.

These costly and extensive works have been undertaken by the Corporation of the city of London, in deference to the suggestions of the National Legislature, and under a strong sense of the responsibility accompanying the powers and the means confided to them by their fellow-citizens.

If the transfer of the Chief Metropolitan Market to this new and spacious locality shall be successful it will not only have removed all ground of complaint arising from the character of its ancient site, but will also have conferred essential benefits upon the population of this vast capital as well as on those important branches of our national industry which are concerned in supplying with food the increasing masses of its inhabitants and the countless numbers who frequent it.

In the happiness and prosperity of all classes of Her Majesty's subjects your Royal Highness has always evinced the warmest and most active interest, and we know nothing more likely to secure success to this great undertaking than the sanction and encouragement afforded in its inauguration by the illustrious Consort of our Queen.

We therefore humbly rejoice in the opportunity thus given to us of welcoming your Royal Highness on this spot, of expressing our heartfelt gratitude for your Royal Highness's attendance, and of manifesting anew our affectionate and respectful attachment to the Person and Family of the beloved Sovereign of these Realms.

To which Address His Royal Highness was pleased to return the following most gracious answer:—

My Lord Mayor and Gentlemen,

Accept the expression of my hearty thanks for your kind welcome, and for the gratifying assurance of your loyal and affectionate attachment to the Queen and her family.

I have been much pleased by the opportunity which your kind invitation has afforded me of seeing and admiring the great work which you this day open to the public; a work which not only deserves all admiration in itself on account of the excellence of the arrangements and the magnificence of the design, but which will, I trust, be found eminently conducive to the comfort and health of the city of London.

That its success will be commensurate with the spirit in which it has been undertaken and carried out, I cannot doubt.

A certain dislocation of habits and interests must inevitably attend the removal of the great City Market from the site it has occupied for so many centuries, and this may possibly retard for the moment the fullest development of the undertaking. But any opposition arising from such causes will soon cease; and the farmers will doubtless soon learn to appreciate the boon thus conferred upon them by the London Corporation, in the increased facility which will be afforded to them for the transaction of their business, and the comparative security with which they will be enabled to bring up and display their valuable stock in the Great Metropolitan Cattle Market.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 19, 1855.

War-Department, June 18, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received two Despatches and their Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord, June 9, 1855.

I have the great satisfaction of informing your Lordship that the assault which was made upon the Quarries in front of the Redan, from our advanced parallel in the right attack, on the evening of the 7th instant, was attended with perfect success, and that the brave men who achieved this advantage with a gallantry and determination that does them infinite honour, maintained themselves on the ground they had acquired, notwithstanding that during the night, and in the morning of yesterday, the enemy made repeated attempts to drive them out, each attempt ending in failure, although supported by large bodies of troops, and by heavy discharges of musketry, and every species of offensive missile.

The French on our right had shortly before moved out of their trenches and attacked the Ouvrages Blancs and the Mamelon. These they carried without tke smallest check, and their leading column rushed forward and approached the Malakof Tower; but this it had not been in contemplation to assail, and the troops were brought back and finally established in the enemy's works, from which the latter did not succeed in expelling them, though the fire of musketry and cannon which was brought to bear upon them was tremendous.

I never saw anything more spirited and rapid than the advance of our Allies.

I am happy to say that the best feeling prevails between the two armies, and each is proud of and confident in the gallantry and high military qualities of the other.

I apprized your Lordship, by telegraph on the 6th, that our batteries reopened that afternoon. The fire was kept up with the greatest energy until the day closed, when it was confined to vertical fire; but the next morning the guns resumed the work of destruction, and the effect was such that it was determined by General Pelissier and myself that the time had arrived for pushing our operations forward. Accordingly, soon after six o'clock on the evening of the 7th, the signal was given for the assault of the works

I have enumerated, and the result was most triumphant.

The troops employed in storming the Quarries were composed of detachments from the Light and 2nd Divisions, and at night they were supported by the 62nd Regiment.

The command of these troops was entrusted to Colonel Shirley, of the 88th, who was acting as General Officer of the Trenches; and he was assisted in the arrangements and guided as to the points of attack and distribution of the troops by Lieutenant-Colonel Tylden, of the Royal Engineers, the directing engineer officer of the right attack.

Although nothing could be more spirited than the attack of the Quarries, or more creditable to every officer and man engaged in the operation; yet I cannot refrain from drawing your Lordship's especial attention to the energy and determination which they all displayed in maintaining and establishing themselves after their first success in them. They were repeatedly attacked during the night, and again soon after daylight on the 8th, and it was in resisting these repeated efforts on the part of the enemy, that a great portion of the heavy loss the Army has to deplore was sustained.

The mode in which Colonel Shirley conducted this very arduous service, and carried out his orders, entitles him to my highest commendation. I have great pleasure in mentioning the following officers, who are stated to have distinguished themselves on the occasion; viz.: Lieutenant-Colonel Campbell, of the 90th, who commanded the storming party; Major Mills, Royal Fusiliers; Major Villiers, 47th; Major Armstrong, 49th, who are all severely wounded; Lieutenant-Colonel Maxwell, of the 88th; Major Bayley, of the same regiment, who was unfortunately killed; Lieutenant-Colonel Grant, 49th; Major Simpson, of the 34th; Lieutenant-Colonel Johnstone, of the 33rd; Major Herbert, of the 23rd; Captain Lowry, of the 47th; Captain Turner, of the 7th; Captain Lowndes, of the 47th; Captain Nason, of the 49th; Captain Le Marchant, of the 49th, who was wounded; Captain Wolseley,* 90th; and Lieutenants Chatfield and Eustace, of the 49th; and Palmer, Irby, and Waddilove, of the 47th; and Captain Hunter, 47th; and Lance-Corporal Quinn, 47th, who took a Russian officer prisoner in the most gallant manner.

I also feel it my duty to solicit your Lordship's notice to the eminent services of Lieutenant-Colonel Tylden, of the Royal Engineers; he has been indefatigable in the discharge of his peculiar duties from the commencement of the siege, and he has always been at hand to aid in the repulse of the enemy, when they have assaulted our trenches. He eulogizes the conduct of Captain Browne, of the Royal Engineers, Lieutenant Elphinstone, of the same corps, Lieutenant Anderson, 96th Foot (Acting Engineer), who is wounded; and he laments the death of Lieutenant Lowry, R.E., who conducted the storming party, and was afterwards killed by a cannon shot.

Notwithstanding the frequency of the endeavours of the Russians to regain possession of the Quarries, and the interruptions to the work to which these attacks gave rise, Lieutenant-Colonel Tylden was enabled to effect the lodgement, and to establish the communication with the advanced parallel, and this redounds greatly to his credit and that of the officers and men employed as the working party: and I cannot omit this opportunity to express my approbation of the conduct of the Sappers throughout the operations. The exertions of the Royal Artillery, under Brigadier-General Dacres, and those of the Naval Brigade, under Captain Lushington, R.N., in serving the guns cannot be too warmly commended. The accuracy of their fire is the theme of universal admiration; and the constancy with which they applied themselves to their arduous duties under all circumstances, however dangerous, cannot be too strongly placed upon record.

It is deeply to be lamented that this success should have entailed so heavy a loss, as is shewn in the accompanying returns, which however, are still incomplete; but I have the assurance of the Principal Medical Officer that many of the wounds are slight, and that by far the greater portion of the sufferers are progressing most favourably.

I have just learnt that the enemy have abandoned a work in the rear of the "Ouvrages Blancs," which they constructed at the commencement of the month of May. The French took possession of it on the 7th, but did not retain it. In the other works they captured 62 pieces of artillery, and they have 14 officers, and about 400 men prisoners.

We have a few prisoners, and amongst them a Captain of Infantry, who was wounded, and taken by Corporal Quinn, of the 47th Regiment.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c. &c.

STEPHEN LUSHINGTON,
Captain Commanding Naval Brigade.

The Military Secretary to H.E. Lord Raglan, Commander-in-Chief.

Before Sevastopol,
My Lord, June 9, 1855.

I have the honour to enclose a letter from Dr. Hall, Inspector-General of Hospitals, enclosing a return of the casualties, so far as they had been ascertained when he visited the hospitals yesterday morning, which took place in the attack and continued occupation of the Quarries on the evening of the 7th and morning of the 8th.

I visited most of the wounded yesterday, and was much pleased with the attention of the medical officers to the sufferers, and with the patience and resignation of the latter; and I am happy to say, while there are some very serious cases, the greater portion has every prospect of recovery, and many of the wounds are slight.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c, &c. &c.

Enclosure 1.

Before Sevastopol,
June 8, 1855.

My Lord,

I have the honour to enclose a return of the casualties of last night, so far as they had been ascertained when I visited the Hospitals this morning, and the states were made out; but on my visit this evening, I found that more wounded had been brought up from the trenches, a supplementary return of which I shall have the honour to submit to your Lordship to-morrow.

The wounded of last night were all comfortably accommodated in their own regimental hospitals, and their hurts were promptly and properly attended to by the medical officers, both Staff and Regimental; and your Lordship, I am quite sure, will be glad to learn that a large proportion of the wounds is not of a dangerous nature.

The regimental establishments of the 2nd and Light Divisions, and of the Right and Left Siege Trains were sufficient for the reception of the wounded of last night, and we have still in reserve in camp, the spare accommodation of the regimental hospital of the 3rd and 4th Divisions, and nearly the whole of the field general hospital in rear of the 3rd Division, which consists of thirty huts that have been given over for that purpose, and equipped for the reception of patients by the activity and zeal of 1st Class Staff Surgeon Dr. Mouat.

Besides the above accommodation, the surgical hospital at the Old Castle, Balaklava, can receive upwards of 400 patients, and as the wounded hitherto sent there have done so remarkably well. I am anxious that it should be accepted; and it has been arranged that a train of railway cars shall be appropriated for the conveyance of sick and wounded every day at two o'clock; by which means we shall be able to relieve the hospitals in front, and prevent over crowding.

I beg to bring under your Lordship's notice the very satisfactory manner in which all the medical officers have performed their duty on this occasion; and I trust I may be permitted to mention the exertions of First Class Staff-Surgeon Dr. Gordon, Superintending 2nd Division; First Class Staff-Surgeon, Dr. Logan, Light Division; Surgeon Bent, Ordnance Medical Department, Right Siege Train; and Surgeon Elliot, Ordnance Medical Department, Left Siege Train.

I have, &c.,

J. HALL,

Inspector-General of Hospitals,

Field-Marshal Lord Raglan, G.C.B.
Commanding-in-Chief.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 22, 1855.

War-Department, June 25, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B. His Lordship has also received from Lord Raglan a Nominal List of Officers Wounded on the 18th June, and a Numerical List of Non-Commissioned Officers and Privates, Killed, Wounded, and Missing the same day; copies of which are subjoined.

Before Sevastopol,
June 12, 1855.

My Lord,

In my despatch of the 5th instant I informed your Lordship that the Russians had evacuated Soujak Kali on the 28th May.

I have now the satisfaction to acquaint you that they withdrew from Anapa on the 5th instant, and thus they have abandoned their last stronghold on the coast of Circassia.

Intelligence of this event was brought to Sir E. Lyons by Captain Hughes, who, in his zealous endeavour to give the Admiral the earliest intimation of it, went from Soujak to Kertch in an open boat, and on passing Anapa, observed it was burning, it having been set on fire by the Circassians. Captain Hughes, who arrived here yesterday, entertains no doubt that the enemy had retired across the Kouban. The abandonment of Anapa is one of the fruits of the attack and capture of Kertch, and of the brilliant operations of the Allied Naval Forces in the Sea of Azof, where no flag now flies but that of England and France.

Nothing material has occurred here since I had the honour of addressing your Lordship on the 9th instant; both our Allies and ourselves are taking advantage of our success to push forward our advances, and erect new batteries on the ground which was gained upon that glorious occasion, and I hope I shall soon be able to report further progress.

I have had a second report from Colonel Shirley, in which he begs to draw my attention to the services of officers whom he omitted to mention in the first instance, and whose names I have now the honour to bring to your Lordship's notice; they are the following: Major Macdonell, Rifle Brigade, who commanded a portion of that corps, and of the 41st, 47th, 49th, 77th, and 90th Regiments, detached from the guard of the trenches; of Captain Ambrose, who had charge of 200 men of the Buffs, and was himself wounded; and of Captain Dixon, also wounded, who commanded a large detachment of the 41st; Captain Shiffner, of the 34th; Captain Hunter and Lieutenants Lucas, Gaynor, and Stokes, of the 47th; Lieutenant Beresford, of the 88th, who succeeded to the command of a part of that regiment, his seniors being either killed or wounded; Lieutenant Pearson, of the same corps; and Lieutenant H. M. Jones, of the Royal Fusiliers; Colonel Shirley likewise eulogises the conduct of the 62nd, under Colonel Shearman; and here I must be permitted to express my deep regret at the death of that officer, who fell mortally wounded; and of Major Dickson, of the same regiment, who was unfortunately killed upon the occasion. Both these officers are serious losses to Her Majesty's service.

I enclose returns of the killed and wounded from the 4th to the 7th, and those of the casualties that have since occurred up to the 10th instant. These lists, I much lament to say, are very heavy.

The Alma has returned from Kertch, having on board the 72nd and 63rd, whose services ceased to be required, as soon as it was known that Anapa had been abandoned.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c. &c.

Admiralty, June 25, 1855.

Despatches, of which the following are copies or extracts, have been received from Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B., Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's Ships and Vessels in the Mediterranean and Black Sea.

Enclosure 1.

Royal Albert, Straits off Kertch,
June 6, 1855.

Sir,

Captain Lyons, of the Miranda, having informed me that the squadrons under his orders would be ready about the 2nd or 3rd instant, to commence operations in the shallow waters of the Gulf of Azoff, Vice-Admiral Bruat and I considered that the moment had arrived for reinforcing them with gun boats, which would only have embarrassed them in their previous rapid movements in deeper waters; we therefore despatched twenty launches of the line of battle ships armed with 24-pounder howitzers, and rockets, and their Lordships will perceive by Captain Lyons's letter, of which I have the honour to enclose a copy, that their arrival on the spot was most opportune and attended with the happiest result; for, under the able management of the officers who commanded them, they mainly contributed towards the repulse of 3,500 of the enemy, and the destruction of the public buildings and government magazines of provisions at Taganrog.

Captain Lyons's account of the operations is so clear, and his appreciation of the merits of those acting under his orders on this important service so just, that I feel that it would only be weakened by any observations or recommendations of mine.

I am, &c.,

(Signed) E. LYONS,
Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

The Secretary of the Admiralty.

REPORTS PROCEEDINGS AT TAGANROG.

Her Majesty's Ship Miranda,
SIR, Taganrog Roads, June 3, 1855.

I have the honour to inform you that I anchored in 18 feet water, with the squadron under my orders, in Taganrog inner roads, at about $8\frac{1}{2}$ miles from the town, on the evening of the 1st instant, without any accident, although the enemy had removed the light vessels and beacons. During the night an easterly wind sprang up, and the water fell three feet, with every appearance of still falling; we were, therefore, obliged to remove a mile and a half further from the town.

2. The 2nd was employed in reconnoitring the town, which I was enabled to do satisfactorily in the Recruit; Lieutenant Day, commanding that vessel, having found a passage during the night.

I had arranged to proceed at 3 A.M. the following morning to summon the town, and in the event of a refusal to surrender, to endeavour to destroy the immense stores of grain and other Government property in that place.

3. Matters were in this state, when at sunset, to my great satisfaction, the Sulina, Danube, and Medina, with the twelve armed launches of the line of battle ships, hove in sight: this most welcome and opportune reinforcement of exactly the description of force required for the purpose in view, rendered success certain; and not long after the French steamers, with launches in tow, arrived.

4. Having concerted measures with Monsieur de Sedaiges, commanding the French steamers, I proceeded at 3 A.M. in the Recruit, with the vessels and boats, and accompanied by the lightest French steamers (M. de Sedaiges being on board one of them), towing their launches. Having anchored the Recruit at 1400 yards from the Mole Head, and collected all the boats astern, I sent Lieutenant Commander Horton with a flag of truce, accompanied by a French officer with similar orders from M. de Sedaiges, to demand the surrender of all Government property of every description whatsoever, and of all grain, flour, and provisions (which I considered as contraband of war, knowing that even in the event of its not being government property, that it could only be intended for the supply of the Russian army in the Crimea), the whole to be delivered over to us to destroy; the troops to remove, during this necessary destruction, to a place five miles from the town, and within sight of the ships; the inhabitants to withdraw, except those appointed by the authorities to open the stores and assist us; any approach of troops, or any infraction of these terms, if accepted, to be considered as cancelling them, and to be punished with instant bombardment; one hour to be allowed for a decision, and no modification of the terms to be entertained. At the expiration of the hour, Lieutenant Horton and the French Officer were informed that the Governor refused the terms, and that, having troops at his disposal, he intended to defend the place. On this, these officers came off, and the flag of truce was hauled down from the Recruit.

5. Shortly afterwards the Recruit commenced firing, and the boats proceeded under the command of Commander Cowper P. Coles, of the Stromboli, in tow of one another, and accompanied by the French boats, until, having arrived in the required position, the tow was cast off, the boats' heads pulled round to the beach, and so heavy a fire opened, that, although the enemy made repeated attempts to get down to the houses lining the beach, so as to save the long range of storehouses from destruction, they never succeeded in doing so in sufficient numbers. Lieutenant Mackenzie (the senior lieutenant of this ship) had charge of a separate division of light boats, with rockets and one gun, to cover the approach of Lieutenant Cecil Buckley, of the Miranda, who, in a four-oared gig, accompanied by Mr. Henry Cooper, Boatswain 3rd Class, and manned by volunteers, repeatedly landed and fired the different stores and government buildings; this dangerous, not to say desperate, service, when carried out in a town containing upwards of 3,000 troops constantly endeavouring to prevent it, and only checked by the fire of the boats' guns, was most effectually performed. The Recruit, from her light draught of water, was enabled to take an effective position at 1,400 yards, and so was the Mouette, French steamer, and the Danube, with 24-pounder howitzer and rockets, was very useful.

6. By 3 P.M., all the long ranges of stores of grain, plank, and tar, and the vessels on the stocks, were in a blaze, as well as the Custom House and other Government buildings, and unfortunately, but unavoidably, the town in many places; and our purpose being amply effected, the boats returned to the Recruit. The loss of the enemy in men must have been severe, as many were seen to fall; they deserve credit for the obstinacy with which they endeavoured to gain positions to prevent our effecting the object we had in view, but it was impossible to face the continuous and well directed fire kept up. Their loss in grain of different descriptions I cannot estimate, but as it comprises all, or very nearly all, in store at Taganrog, it must be enormous.

7. The only casualty in carrying out this service, was one private, Royal Marine-Artillery, severely wounded in the face by a musket ball.

8. I must now beg to be allowed to bring to your notice the very meritorious conduct of Commander Coles on this occasion, in command of so large a force of boats; and I cannot speak too highly of his energy, decision and ability, which left me nothing to desire. He speaks in the highest terms of all under his orders, and particularly of Lieutenant J. T. C. Mackenzie, in charge of a separate division, who behaved with his accustomed spirit and judgment; and of Lieutenant Buckley who so well carried out the hazardous service he had volunteered for. All the officers and men employed conducted themselves to my entire satisfaction, but as those above-mentioned were in such conspicuous situations, I trust I may be pardoned for submitting their names to your favourable consideration.

9. I cannot refrain from bearing my testimony to the admirable conduct and cordial co-operation of our Allies, under the personal direction of Monsieur de Sedaiges; the boats being under the immediate command of Monsieur Lejeune, Capitaine de Frégate, and First Aide-de-camp to Admiral Bruat.

10. A Russian Serjeant, who deserted, and gave himself up to a French boat, states the number of troops in the town to have been 3,200, of which 800 arrived last night.

11. A Russian war-schooner, which had been run on shore near the town and abandoned, was set fire to and burnt, and so was a large raft of timber. The wreck of a large vessel (a sort of guard ship) which we observed to be fired by the enemy, and blown up on our first appearance in Taganrog Roads, was visited, but was found to be already effectually destroyed.

Many large buildings had the black flag hoisted as a sign, I presume, of their being hospitals; these were most carefully respected by us, as were the churches, and, so far as possible, private houses.

I have, &c.,

Captain.

EVACUATION OF ANAPA, &c.

Royal Albert, Straits of Kertch,
SIR, June 11, 1855.

My telegraphic message of yesterday, of which I have had the honour to enclose a copy, will have informed the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty that Admiral Bruat and I had received intelligence of Anapa having been evacuated by the enemy on the 5th instant.

2. I have now the honour to enclose a copy of a report which has just reached me from Rear-Admiral Stewart, whom I sent to Anapa to act in concert with Rear-Admiral Charner, to prevent the possibility of the place being occupied by a Russian force, leaving the political part of the question in the hands of Mr. Longworth, the Agent of Her Majesty's Government, whom I sent to the spot in the Highflyer, a few hours before Rear-Admiral Stewart left this anchorage.

I am, &c.,

(Signed) EDMUND LYONS,
Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

To the Secretary of the Admiralty.

Enclosure.

Hannibal, at Anapa,
June 11, 1855.

SIR,

In pursuance of your orders of yesterday's date, I have the honour to inform you that I arrived at this anchorage at 10 A.M. to-day; Rear Admiral Charner did not arrive till about 1 P.M., Admiral Bruat having last night informed me that he would be detained, and requested me not to wait for the Napoleon.

I enclose a return of the guns, by far the greater part of which have been rendered quite useless by the Russians themselves; the remainder are being made unserviceable or thrown over the cliffs, under the direction of Lieutenant Arthur, the gunnery officer of this ship.

The Russians have exploded nearly all the powder magazines in the place, and those which remain are empty.

The barracks were burnt by the Russians, as also a good number of buildings, and all the coal and grain, which appear to have been in considerable quantities.

The garrison is estimated by the Circassians at between seven and eight thousand, and they retired on the Kouban River, which they crossed by a bridge, destroying the latter behind them.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) HOUSTON STEWART,
Rear Admiral.

Rear Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons,
G.C.B., K.C.H.,
Commander-in-Chief.

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 26, 1855.

War-Department, June 28, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received two Despatches and their Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by Field-Marshal the Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,

MY LORD, June 14, 1855.

Your Lordship will be concerned to learn that the army still suffers from cholera, and that it has increased since the last report.

The men in general, however, look healthy, and I hope that the duration of this sad malady will not be long.

The reports of the state of the Sardinian army are to-day a little more satisfactory.

I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c. &c.

Before Sevastopol,

MY LORD, June 16, 1855.

I have the honour to acquaint your Lordship that Lieutenant-General Sir George Brown and Admiral Sir E. Lyons, returned from Kertch yesterday, having fully and successfully accomplished the objects of the expedition to that part of the Crimea.

I have the highest satisfaction in drawing your Lordship's attention to the manner in which the Lieutenant-General conducted the duties I entrusted to his charge; and I entertain no doubt that if he had encountered the resistance which I was led to expect he would have met with, the result would have been equally advantageous, and would have reflected the same credit upon his arrangements, whilst the efficiency and gallantry of the troops would have been brought into stronger light. But it is a matter of great joy that so much should have been done without the loss of a life.

He feels greatly indebted to General Dautemarre and Reschid Pasha, who commanded the French and Turkish troops respectively, for their ready cooperation and assistance.

It has afforded me the most sincere pleasure to have the opportunity of personally congratulating Sir E. Lyons on the success of the expedition, for which he was from the first so warm an advocate, and to which he always attached the highest importance, and on the result of the attacks upon the enemy's possessions in the Sea of Azof. The excellence of the arrangements for the bombardment of Taganrog does infinite honour to Captain Lyons, of H.M.S. Miranda, and at once testifies his ability, determination and gallantry.

The progress of the works against Sevastopol since I reported to your Lordship on the 12th, has been perfectly satisfactory, and new batteries are completed, which will enable both the English and the French armies to resume the offensive with the utmost vigour.

I enclose returns of the casualties which have arisen to the 14th instant.

I have, &c.,
RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c. &c.

P.S. I have just received a letter from Colonel Shirley, in which he expresses his regret at having omitted the name of Captain Peel, 34th Regiment, who was severely wounded in the successful attack of the Quarries on the 7th ultimo, where he highly distinguished himself.

RAGLAN.

J. B. BUCKNALL ESTCOURT,
Adjutant-General.

Admiralty, June 28, 1855.

Despatches, of which the following are copies, have been received from Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B., Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's Ships and Vessels in the Mediterranean and Black Sea.

Operations in the Sea of Azof.

Royal Albert, Straits of Kertch,
Sir, June 12, 1855.

I have the honour to enclose, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, copies of three letters from Captain Lyons, of the Miranda, reporting the destruction of Mariaupol, Ghiesk, and Kiten near Arabat, of immense quantities of grain, flour, and hay, destined for the supply of the enemy's army in the Crimea; so great was the quantity that in some cases the conflagration had not entirely subsided when last seen on the eighth day.

2. Thus, in the space of a fortnight, the Sea of Azof has been swept by the Allied squadrons under Captain Lyons's orders, and the enemy deprived not only of the supplies which already existed in the different depôts, but also of the means of transporting the coming crops.

3. I have also the honour to enclose a copy of a letter from Captain Lyons, speaking in terms of high praise of the officers and men employed in the launches of the fleet, and in the Danube and Sulina tenders.

4. Considerable skill, vigour, and promptitude have characterised these operations, and I trust that their Lordships may consider that credit is due to all employed in them. Opportunities offered for individual distinction, which were eagerly seized by the officers whom Captain Lyons particularly mentions, and whom I beg leave to recommend to their Lordships' favourable consideration.

I am, &c.,

(Signed) EDMUND LYONS,
Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

To the Secretary of the Admiralty.

Her Majesty's ship Miranda,
Mariaupol, 5th June, 1855.

Sir,

I have the honour to inform you that having anchored yesterday evening off this place with the ships under my orders, and six French steamers, I sent Lieutenant-Commander Horton, of the Ardent, accompanied by a French officer, with similar orders, at daylight this morning, to demand the surrender of the place, on exactly the same terms as those offered by us at Taganrog ; and I desired him to express to the authorities, the earnest hope of myself and of the French senior officer, that they would not oblige us to resort to measures which would endanger the whole town, as our object was to destroy all contraband of war, but to respect private property.

2. At the expiration of the delay granted, no authorised person appearing, I sent the line-of-battle ships' launches (lent to the squadron) and the boats of the ships under my orders, with all the marines under Lieutenant Macnamara, R.M.A., the whole commanded by Lieutenant J. F. C. Mackenzie, of this ship, to effect our object by force; the French boats accompanying ours.

3. On the marines and a body of French small-arm men landing, under cover of the launches' guns, 600 Cossacks, commanded by a Colonel, evacuated the town, and the marines and the French small-arm men advanced and took possession of it; the very extensive stores of grain were fired and destroyed by parties under the directions of Captain Lejeune, of the French Navy, and of Lieutenant Swinburne, of this ship, every care being taken to cause as little damage to the town as possible.

4. Thus was a considerable town on the military high road from the provinces of the Don to the Crimea (the only one left since our occupation of this sea), held unmolested possession of by a small body of British marines and French small-arm men, for five hours, while immense stores of grain were destroyed.

5. The grain, plank, and other stores considered as contraband of war, being effectually destroyed, the whole party re-embarked without the slightest accident.

6. Lieutenant Mackenzie conducted this service with excellent judgment; and he speaks in high terms of the judicious manner in which First Lieutenant Macnamara, Royal Marine Artillery, posted the Royal Marines and Royal Marine Artillery under his orders, in presence of a superior force, who were thus deterred from venturing to molest them.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) E. M. LYONS,
Captain.

Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B.

No. 2 Enclosure.

Her Majesty's Ship Miranda,
SIR, off the town of Gheisk, June 6, 1855.

I have the honour to inform you, that on my arrival here this morning with the vessels under my orders, and the launches of the line of battle ships, accompanied by four French steamers, I sent Lieutenant Commander Horton, of the Ardent, with whom was associated a French Officer, to demand the surrender of the place on the same terms as those offered by us at Taganrog and Mariaupol. These terms having been wisely acceded to by Colonel Borsikoff, the Military Governor, whose small force was quite inadequate to defend the town, the marines of this ship, under First Lieutenant Macnamara, R.M.A., and a French party, landed and destroyed a vast quantity of hay, stacked on the beach, ready for conveyance to the Crimea, and several thousand quarters of wheat, &c., &c. During this time Lieutenant Horton and the French officer went through the town, and had all the store-houses and magazines thrown open for their inspection, in order to see that no evasion of the terms was attempted, and that all contraband of war was destroyed.

6. On this as well as on the two former similar occasions, Lieutenant Horton conducted the interview with much judgment and firmness.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) E. M. LYONS,
Captain.

Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons,
Bart., G.C.B.

No. 3 Enclosure.

Her Majesy's ship Miranda, off Kiten Bay, Sea of Azof,
SIR, June 10, 1855.

I have the honour to enclose a letter from Lieutenant Horton, commanding Her Majesty's ship Ardent, which I received on my arrival here this morning, informing me that he, yesterday, set fire to and destroyed 30,000 sacks of flour, stacked on the beach in Kiten Bay; this flour was the property of the Russian government, and evidently destined for the Russian army in the Crimea. Lieutenant Horton has performed this service judiciously and effectively.

I have, &c.,
(Signed) E. M. LYONS, Captain.

Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons,
Bart., K.C.B.

Sub-Enclosure.

Her Majesty's Ship Ardent, Kiten Bay,
SIR, June 10, 1855.

I have the honour to report that, on my arrival here yesterday, having failed of setting fire to the stores of flour by means of shells and carcases, I took advantage of a favourable state of weather in the evening, to drop the Ardent's bow close in shore, and to veer Mr. Roberts, the gunner, ashore in the dingy, with two men, under cover of musketry from aloft. I had previously ascertained that no ambuscade was there, and had cleared to a distance the 30 or 40 Cossacks who were watching by firing round shot in their direction.

Mr. Roberts and his party very quickly and effectually fired all the stacks, and I anchored the Ardent off to watch the fires.

The whole stores are now consumed, estimated by the Lynx at 30,000 sacks.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) W. HORTON,
Lieutenant and Commander.

Captain Lyons,
Her Majesty's Ship Miranda.

No. 4 Enclosure.

Her Majesty's Ship Miranda, off Temrwick, June 9, 1855.

SIR,

I cannot allow the launches of the line-of-battle ships to return to their ships without requesting permission to bring to your notice the zeal and intelligence of the officers in command, and the excellent conduct and good discipline of all employed in them, which has enabled them to render such important service in the Sea of Azof, and which, if I may be permitted to say so without presumption, reflects so much credit on the ships they belong to.

I should also beg leave to bear similar testimony to the merit of the Commanding Officers of the Danube and Sulina, and those under their command, as well as to that of the Officers of Royal Marine Artillery who have been lent to this squadron during the same period.

I have, &c.,

FROM THE

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

LONDON GAZETTE of JUNE 29, 1855.

War-Department, July 2, 1855.

LORD PANMURE has this day received a Despatch and its Enclosures, of which the following are copies, addressed to His Lordship by the late Field-Marshal Lord Raglan, G.C.B.

Before Sevastopol,

My Lord. June 19, 1855.

I informed your Lordship, on the 16th, that new batteries had been completed, and that in consequence the Allies would be enabled to resume the offensive against Sevastopol with the utmost vigour.

Accordingly, on the 17th, at daylight a very heavy fire was opened from all the batteries in the English and French trenches, and maintained throughout the day, and the effect produced appeared so satisfactory, that it was determined that the French should attack the Malakoff Works the next morning, and that the English should assail the Redan as soon after as I might consider it desirable.

It was at first proposed that the artillery fire should be resumed on the morning of the 18th, and should be kept up for about two hours, for the purpose of destroying any works the enemy might have thrown up in the night, and of opening passages through the abattis that covered the

Redan ; but on the evening of the 17th it was intimated to me by General Pelissier that he had determined, upon further consideration, that the attack by his troops should take place at three the following morning.

The French therefore commenced their operations as day broke, and, as their several columns came within range of the enemy's fire, they encountered the most serious opposition, both from musketry and the guns in the works, which had been silenced the previous evening ; and, observing this, I was induced at once to order our columns to move out of the trenches upon the Redan.

It had been arranged that detachments from the Light, 2nd, and 4th Divisions, which I placed for the occasion under the command of Lieutenant-General Sir G. Brown, should be formed into three columns ; that the right one should attack the left face of the Redan between the flanking batteries; that the centre should advance upon the salient angle ; and that the left should move upon the re-entering angle formed by the right face and flank of the work ; the first and last preceding the centre column.

The flank columns at once obeyed the signal to advance, preceded by covering parties of the Rifle Brigade, and by sailors carrying ladders and soldiers carrying woolbags ; but they had no sooner shown themselves beyond the trenches than they were assailed by a most murderous fire of grape and musketry. Those in advance were either killed or wounded, and the remainder found it impossible to proceed. I never before witnessed such a continued and heavy fire of grape, combined with musketry from the enemy's works, which appeared to be fully manned ; and the long list of killed and wounded in the Light and 4th Divisions, and the seamen of the Naval Brigade, under Captain Peel, who was unfortunately wounded, though not severely, will shew that a very large proportion of those that went forward fell. Major-General Sir John Campbell, who led the left attack, and Colonel Shadforth, of the 57th who commanded the storming party, under his direction, were both killed, as was also Colonel Yea, of the Royal Fusiliers, who led the right column.

I cannot say too much in praise of these officers, Major-General Sir J. Campbell had commanded the 4th Division from the period of the battle of Inkerman, till the arrival very recently of Lieutenant-General Bentinck. He had devoted himself to his duty without any intermission, and had acquired the confidence and respect of all; I most deeply lament his loss.

Colonel Shadforth had maintained the efficiency of his regiment by constant attention to all the details of his command, and Colonel Yea was not only distinguished for his gallantry, but had exercised his control of the Royal Fusiliers in such a manner as to win the affections of the soldiers under his orders, and to secure to them every comfort and accommodation which his personal exertions could procure for them.

I shall not be able to send your Lordship correct lists of the killed and wounded by this opportunity, but I will forward them by telegraph as soon as they are made out.

I have not any definite information upon the movements of the French columns, and the atmosphere became so obscured by the smoke from the guns and musketry, that it was not possible by personal observation to ascertain their progress, though I was particularly well situated for the purpose; but I understand that their left column, under General Dautemarre, passed the advanced works of the enemy, and threatened the gorge of the Malakof Tower; and that the two other columns, under Generals Mayran and Brunet, who both, I regret to say, were killed, met with obstacles equal to those we encountered, and were obliged in consequence to abandon the attack.

The superiority of our fire on the day we opened, led both General Pelissier and myself, and the officers of the Artillery and Engineers of the two Services, and the Armies in general, to conclude that the Russian Artillery fire was, in a great measure subdued, and that the operation we projected could be undertaken with every prospect of success. The result has shown that the resources of the enemy were not exhausted, and that they had still the power, either from their ships or from their batteries, to bring an overwhelming fire upon their assailants.

Whilst the direct attack upon the Redan was proceeding, Lieutenant-General Sir R. England was directed to send one of the brigades of the 3rd Division, under the command of Major-General Barnard, down the Woronzow Ravine, with a view to give support to the attacking columns on his right; and the other brigade, under Major-General Eyre, still further to the left, to threaten the works at the head of the Dockyard Creek.

I have not yet received their reports, and shall not be able to send them to your Lordship to-day; but General Eyre was very seriously engaged, and he himself wounded, though I am happy to say not severely, and he possessed himself of a churchyard, which the enemy had hitherto carefully watched, and some houses within the place; but as the town front was not attacked, it became necessary to withdraw his brigade at night.

I shall make a special report upon this by the next mail, and I shall avail myself of the same opportunity to name to you the officers who have been particularly mentioned to me.

I am concerned to have to inform you that Lieutenant-Colonel Tylden, of the Royal Engineers, whose services I have had the greatest pleasure in bringing so frequently to your Lordship's notice, is very severely wounded. The account I received of him this morning is upon the whole satisfactory, and I entertain strong hopes that his valuable life will be preserved.

I feel greatly indebted to Sir G. Brown for the manner in which he conducted the duties I entrusted to him; and my warmest acknowledgements are due to Major-General Harry Jones, not only for his valuable assistance on the present occasion, but for the able, zealous, and energetic manner in which he has conducted the siege operations since he assumed the command of the Royal Engineers.

He received a wound from a grapeshot in the forehead yesterday, which I trust will not prove serious.

I brought up the 1st Division from the vicinity of Balaklava as a reserve, and I shall retain them on these heights.

The Sardinian troops, under General La Marmora, and the Turkish troops, under Omer Pasha, crossed the Tchernaia on the 17th instant, and occupy positions in front of Chorgouna. They have not come in contact with any large body of the enemy.

I have, &c.,

RAGLAN.

The Lord Panmure, &c. &c.

P.S.—I enclose lists of casualties in the Naval Brigade to the 18th instant inclusive. I regret to say these are heavy.

STEPHEN LUSHINGTON,
Captain Commanding Naval Brigade.

The Military Secretary to H.E. Lord Raglan, Commander-in-Chief.

Admiralty, July 2, 1855.

Despatches, of which the following are copies have been received from Rear-Admiral Sir Edmund Lyons, Bart., G.C.B., Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's Ships and Vessels in the Mediterranean and Black Sea.

Royal Albert, off Sevastopol,
SIR, July 19, 1855.

The enclosed copy of a letter from Captain Lushington, who commands the Naval Brigade before Sevastopol, has just reached me in time to be transmitted for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, by this day's mail.

Their Lordships will readily perceive that the gallantry which has distinguished the Naval Brigade throughout the war, was never more distinguished than it was yesterday, during the attack on the Malakoff Tower and Redan; and on a future early occasion it will be my pleasing duty to bring under their Lordships' notice, the conduct of those engaged during the late bombardment and attack.

I regret to find the name of Lieutenant Thomas O. Kidd, of the Albion, amongst the killed yesterday; he was a zealous and gallant young officer, and had served a long time with the Naval Brigade.

Amongst the wounded is Captain Peel, of the Leander, whose chivalrous gallantry and cheerful readiness for every duty, render his presence with the brigade invaluable, and I hope that Captain Lushington may not long be deprived of his services.

I regret also to find amongst the wounded Lieutenant William B. Urmston, of the Queen; Lieutenant John H. Cave, of the Diamond; Lieutenant Osborne W. Dalyell, of the Leander; Mr. George Parsons, Mate, of the Dauntless; and Mr. H. E. Wood, Midshipman, of the Queen, Aide-de-Camp to Captain Peel.

I am, &c.,

(Signed) E. LYONS,
Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

To the Secretary of the Admiralty.

Camp, Naval Brigade,
June 18, 1855.

SIR,

I have the honour to report that on Sunday, at 3 A.M. we opened fire as before on the different forts of Sevastopol, which was very soon returned but not with the spirit or skill that usually characterizes the enemy's fire. Towards 2 P.M. the fire became very slack and their batteries appeared much shaken.

The fire continued all day, and the Commander of the Forces having intimated to me his acceptance of my proposal to carry the ladders in case of an assault being made on the town and batteries, I told off four parties of 60 men each to accompany the four columns ordered for this service; and Captain Peel having volunteered his services on this occasion, I placed them under his command, and I beg to inclose a list of the officers under him. I regret to say that the assault which took place at 3 A.M., was not successful; but our severe loss shows too plainly that the seamen and officers of the Naval Brigade did their duty most gallantly, and their ladders were at their places in spite of the most murderous fire I have witnessed.

Captain Peel led one party in the most gallant style, and Lieutenant Cave led the other. The other two columns did not advance, and consequently the ladder parties, although exposed to a severe fire, as indeed was everyone, did not suffer much.

Captain Peel was shot through the arm, but was enabled to continue his duty until the affair was over. I have to regret as well that Lieutenant Urmston, Cave, and Dalyell, Messrs. Parsons, mate, and Wood, midshipman, were all wounded.

Lieutenant Kidd and 9 seamen were killed, and 41 seamen wounded, and 1 missing; these men, I trust, will be got in to-night after dark. The party under Lieutenant Cave, with the loss of Lieutenant Kidd and 5 seamen killed, Lieutenant Cave and 7 seamen wounded, equally performed the duty assigned. A heavy fire was kept up from our batteries with admirable precision, until the Commander-in-Chief ordered it to be slackened.

I have also to report the bursting of one of the 95 cwt. 68 pounders, which caused the death of four men, and wounded three.

The enemy's line of battle ships did not fire but the steamers did. I have the honour to return a list of casualties for the last two days, and to inform you our sick list is 49, and all doing well.

Every officer and man engaged in this arduous service has done his duty most gallantly, and I only await your permission to recommend those whose conduct I have particularly noticed.

I have, &c.,

STEPHEN LUSHINGTON,

NIGHTLY ATTACK ON THE SEA DEFENCES OF SEVASTOPOL.

Royal Albert, off Sevastopol,
SIR, June 19, 1855.

On our return from Kertch, on the 15th instant, Vice-Admiral Bruat and I were informed by the Commanders of the Land Forces, that they intended to re-open the fire of the batteries on the following morning, and on the 18th instant to make further approaches towards Sevastopol, and endeavour to obtain possession of the enemy's positions of the Malakoff and Redan, and their Excellencies also informed us that they had ascertained that the nightly fire of our steamers had produced considerable effect.

2. On hearing this, my colleague aud I at once determined to repeat the operation on the two intervening nights, and accordingly on the 16th instant, the steam frigates and sloops named in the margin,* accompanied by several French steamers, discharged a heavy fire on the town and sea defences, whilst the Danube, Lieutenant R. P. Cator, and the launches of the Royal Albert, under the command of Lieutenants George W. Watson, and Edmund Wilmot, poured in a shower of rockets, and happily without any casualty.

3. During the night of the 17th instant, the Princess Royal, and the steam-frigates and sloops named in the second marginal note†, and accompanied by a division of French steamers, and the launches as before, renewed the firing, and on this occasion I am sorry to observe there was some loss, the Princess Royal having had one man killed and two wounded; the Sidon, two men killed and

4. Their Lordships will readily believe that a strong desire prevailed throughout the fleet to go under fire, but as only one ship of the line could do so with advantage, I thought it right that it should be the Princess Royal, commanded by Lord Clarence Paget, who having planned the course with infinite zeal and ability, was naturally best acquainted with it.

5. Returns of the casualties are herewith transmitted.

Despatches, of which the following are copies, have been received from Rear-Admiral the Honourable R. S. Dundas, Commander-in-Chief of Her Majesty's ships and vessels on the Baltic Station.

PROCEEDINGS OF ADMIRAL SEYMOUR IN NARVA BAY.

Duke of Wellington at anchor,
Tolboukin Lighthouse W.S.W., 5 miles,
SIR, June 21, 1855.

In my letter of the 18th instant, No. 196, I reported, for the information of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, that I had directed Rear-Admiral Seymour to proceed with Her Majesty's ships Exmouth and Blenheim, and with the gun-boats Pincher and Snap, to examine the Coast in the Bay of Narva ; and I have now the honour to transmit the enclosed letter which I have received from the Rear-Admiral, reporting his proceedings.

I have much pleasure in expressing my satisfaction at the spirited and judicious manner in which he took occasion to occupy the attention of the troops which were strongly posted in the neighbourhood, and my sense of the zealous efforts of the officers and men under his orders, particularly those in the two gun-boats, which appear to have been well handled under a smart fire from the enemy's batteries.

I have, &c.

Rear-Admiral and Commander-in-Chief.

No. 1 Enclosure.

Report of Proceedings at Narva.

Her Majesty's ship Exmouth,
SIR, Off Seskar, June 19, 1855.

In obedience to your directions of the 15th instant, I quitted Seskar anchorage at 8 A.M. on Saturday the 16th, anchoring at 7 P.M. under East Tyters Island, off a village situate on its S.S.E. extremity, with a view of obtaining information respecting the River Narva; but only succeeded in learning that a considerable body of troops were about Narva and its vicinity.

Quitting East Tyters on the evening of Sunday the 17th, Narva Lighthouse was made out yesterday, at 2·30, A.M., with the broad extent of sandy beach that borders the bay.

On nearing the entrance of the river, which is narrow, and has a bar on which the breaking shoal water was visible, a considerable number of troops, including a party of cavalry, were seen in active movement, and a large caisson or construction of timber was floated and sunk in the entrance of the river, and became the means of communication with either side: a few wood vessels and river craft only were visible inside the river, the banks of which are of sand, thickly timbered, and well adapted for defence by troops. An earth battery of 12 guns lies on the east side of the river's entrance, and one of 13 guns near the lighthouse, with another in its rear, seen from the mast-head, apparently to command the river; and 2 other guns were placed in position on the right extremity of the Lighthouse Battery.

An opportunity was afforded to try the practical efficiency of the gun-boats, Pincher and Snap, under the immediate charge of Captain Hall, of the Blenheim, who, with good judgment, added one of his main-deck 68-pounders to the armament of the former, and until rain and squally weather interfered, their practice was good, and their constant change of position, rendered them difficult objects to hit, though the fort guns were well served, using hot shot, which frequently passed near and over them.

On the weather clearing the gun-boats opened fire, and the Blenheim and Exmouth likewise took an opportunity of a couple of hours' practice, covering the gun-boats with good effect, which were ably manœuvred by Lieutenant C. A. C. De Crespigny, in command of the Snap, and Lieutenant Steward in command of the Pincher, in the former of which I had placed Lieutenant Travers, R.M., with ten gunners of the Royal Marine Artillery of the Exmouth, who did good service. Mr. Harper, Assistant-Surgeon of this ship, was likewise on board the Snap, he having volunteered for that service.

As it was evident, from the first, that no serious attempt could be made on the enemy's position, and as a large expenditure of ammunition would have been useless, I considered that enough had now been done to occupy the attention of the troops in the neighbourhood, and no advantage appearing to offer itself for a longer continuance in Narva Bay, the signal was made to discontinue firing, and I proceeded, in compliance with your orders, to rejoin your flag.

I enclose a return of a casualty which, I regret to learn, occurred to Captain Searle, R.M., of the Blenheim, the effects of which, I trust, will not prove serious.

I have, &c.,

(Signed) M. SEYMOUR,
Rear-Admiral.

Rear-Admiral the Hon. R. S. Dundas, C.B.
